U. S. FLEET ATTACKS JAPAN
1,500 PLANES SMASH TOKYO

BIGGEST CARRIER ARMADA CHALLENGES ENEMY NAVY

Battleships Protect Flyers; Volcano Isles Shelled.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, Feb. 16 (Friday)—(AP). The most powerful battleship and aircraft carrier force afloat today poured upwards of 1,500 Hellcats, Helldivers, and Avenger planes at Tokyo, while warships and army planes shelled and bombed the Volcano and Bonin Islands to the south.

More flattops than America ever before assembled in a single sea operation are sending raiders in continuous waves against Tokyo's air fields and military defenses, tangling in sky battles with the enemy air force.

Protected by Battleships.

The carriers, protected by thousands of anti-aircraft guns mounted on battleships, cruisers, and destroyers, disgorged swarms of bombing, torpedoing, and strafing raiders in the first naval smash of the war at Japan's capital.

The huge operations, hurling the navy's might for the first time at Tokyo and posing a challenge to Nippon's fleet to come out for battle, strongly suggest major developments.

[A move of such extent suggests the possibility of new amphibious landings.]

Battle Over Two Hours.

A bulletin reported carrier planes were fighting Japanese planes, cratering air fields and smashing other military targets "in and around Tokyo."

Tokyo confirmed the attack, saying it began at 7:15 a. m. Tokyo time. Two hours later it was continuing and later the planes were fanning out in attacks southeast to air bases on the Boso peninsula, said Tokyo.

Adm. Nimitz announced the attack in the following special bulletin:

"Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher is in command of a powerful task force of the Pacific fleet which is now attacking enemy aircraft, air forces, and other military targets in and around Tokyo.

'Operation Long Planned.'

"This operation has long been planned and the opportunity to accomplish it fulfills the deeply cherished desire of every officer and man of the Pacific fleet.

"Surface units of the Pacific fleet are bombarding Iwo Island. Aircraft of the strategic air force, Pacific ocean areas, are bombing Iwo and near-by positions in the Bonins. The fleet forces are under the tactical command of Adm. R. A. Spruance, commander 5th fleet."

Reports broadcast to the United States from Guam all stressed the power and daring of the operation.

Many Carriers in Raid.

U.S. Navy Puts 8,000,000 Japs on Front Line

BY WARREN MOSCOW.

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ADVANCE HDQ., Guam, Feb. 16 (Friday).—American carrier planes are bringing the war home to the 8,000,000 inhabitants of the Tokyo area in a way the Japanese have never seen it before.

Picture Japanese carrier borne planes coming in to blast air fields and home defenses, possibly at tree-top level, in the area between Seattle and San Francisco and you would have the nearest possible parallel to what the American armada has undertaken.

Jap Fleet Banished.

The parallel is further carried out because the operation reported today could be undertaken only after Japanese forward bases had been taken or neutralized and after the Jap fleet had been banished from the sea, even its home waters, so far as combat effectiveness is concerned.

Today's strike was made with maximum American strength after allowances for 7th fleet units still in Philippine waters and units needed for convoy work or other operational needs. It probably included most of the fast battleships and 15 to 20 of the largest carriers of the 27,000 ton Essex class, of the American fleet.

Campaign Long Planned.

For the fighter planes and dive bombers to range up and down the 1,000 mile coast of Honshu unquestionably required Vice Adm. Mitscher's forces to come closer to the Japanese mainland than had any hostile naval force since the Russo-Japanese war of 1905. This would seem finally to reverse the pre-war naval concept that weapons which float and therefore can be sunk should not argue in battle with weapons which cannot be sunk.

The strike itself was part of a long planned campaign which must have as its final aim the invasion of Japan itself.

LIFE IN THE BRAVE NEW WORLD

B-29 Explodes in Bay in N.Y.; Five Missing

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—A Super Fortress, attempting to make an emergency landing at New York airport, crashed and burned in near-by Flushing bay this afternoon.

Five crewmen were rescued from the flaming waters by coast guard, police, and air lines crash boats which fought thru the fire and heavy smoke to the wreckage.

More than three hours after the accident, the most disastrous at the airport since the field opened in 1939, five other crew members were announced officially as missing. Of the survivors, four were said to be in good condition, with the fifth suffering from shock.

Overshoots Runway.

Eyewitnesses said the B-29 apparently overshot the runway as it attempted to land. The pilot nosed the Super Fortress up to circle the field again, but as it turned, the left wing dipped. The ship lost altitude, struck the water, somersaulted, and crashed, immediately bursting into flames.

It had taken off a short time earlier from Mitchel field, Long Island, about 15 air line miles away.

As it crashed, the bomber broke into two sections and flames and heavy smoke billowed above the bay.

The army withheld identification of survivors and missing crew members pending notification of next of kin.

Rescue Chicagoan.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 15 (AP).—Eight marine flyers perished and nine were rescued today after seven planes in an ocean flight of 18 crashed along the southern California coast. The survivors included Lt. Andrew Tures Jr., Kenosha, Wis., and Eugene Andresen, Chicago, Ill. Names of the dead were not announced.

Illinoisan Killed.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 15 (AP).—The names of the 24 passengers and crewmen who perished Tuesday when a navy transport plane crashed into San Francisco bay were disclosed today by the navy.

The dead included Signalman H. De Moss, whose wife lives at Moorseville, Ind.; Lt. D. C. Goodlett, whose wife lives at 34 S. State rd., Arlington Heights, Ill., and Ensign H. E. Schultz, Dowagiac, Mich.

Three Killed in Illinois.

Lawrenceville, Ill., Feb. 15 (AP).—Lt. Monte R. Hamilton, 20, of Yakima, Wash.; Lt. Alexander S. Cairney, 23, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Pfc. Clarence C. Orr, 21, of Saginaw, Mich., were killed last night in the crash of an army C-47 transport plane near Robinson, Ill.

GEN. M'ARTHUR STILL HOLDS COMMANDER'S TITLE, SAYS STIMSON

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—Gen. MacArthur has been congratulated by Secretary of War Stimson for conducting "one of the most brilliant campaigns in history" in the battle of Luzon.

Stimson told a news conference today that he sent the message on Feb. 6, the date on which MacArthur declared Manila liberated.

Asked if MacArthur's presence in the Philippines would require a change in his title of allied commander in chief of the southwest Pacific, Stimson replied in the negative. The Philippines, he said, "are included in the geographical area of the commander in chief of the southwest Pacific."

Dr. H. L. Sippy Found Dead of Gas in Garage

Dr. Harold L. Sippy, 43, Chicago physician and son of the late Dr. Bertram W. Sippy, noted stomach specialist, was found dead, apparently of carbon monoxide gas poisoning, last night in his automobile in a locked garage at his home at 1320 Westmoor trail, Winnetka.

The physician's body, police said, lay slumped in the front seat. The car's ignition switch was turned on, and the gasoline exhausted.

Brother Finds Body.

Dr. Sippy's brother, Bertram W., a farmer near Grand Rapids, Mich., who has been visiting in Chicago, found the body. After trying to reach Dr. Sippy by telephone all day, the farmer told police he went to the residence, which was dark, and finally broke in a garage window when he believed something was amiss.

He called Dr. Frank E. Peters, 458 Winnetka av., but the physician's body was cold and he appeared to have been dead for several hours. Lt. Harold Lewis of Winnetka police started an investigation.

Dr. Sippy's wife, the former Camilla Breuer, was reported by Lt. Lewis to be traveling in the west. Lt. Lewis said he was checking neighborhood reports that the couple was estranged and that Mrs. Sippy had left Winnetka to obtain a divorce.

Two Children Survive.

The Sippys have two children, Bertram III. and Camilla.

Dr. Sippy's father was internationally famous for the "Sippy method" of treatment of stomach ulcers. He died in 1924.

His physician son was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1928 and interned at Wesley Memorial hospital.

He was a member of the staff at St. Luke's hospital, a member of the American Medical association and the Chicago and Illinois State Medical societies. His office was at 55 E. Washington st.

Ark-an-zans May Give Way to Ark-an-saw-yans

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 15 (AP).—Residents of Arkansas, who for decades have called themselves Ark-an-zans, or in the more remote hill sections as Ark-an-saw-yers, would become Ark-an-saw-yans if the house adopts a concurrent resolution introduced in the senate today by Sen. Julian James of Jonesboro. The senate approved the change in pronunciation.

1,400 Illinoisans Shifted to 1-A Draft

BY HARRY M'CLAIN.

Fourteen hundred Illinois men who had 2-A and 2-B draft classifications because of their war jobs have been reclassified to 1-A and declared eligible for induction into the military service by local boards, state selective service officials disclosed yesterday.

Eight hundred have been reclassified in Cook county and 600 downstate. Of the 1,400, about 450 have received pre-induction physical examinations and 130 adjudged fit for general military service. They will be inducted when their local boards are notified.

Eligibles Await Orders.

The other eligibles are awaiting orders to report to Camp Ellis, McDonough county, for training, which was to have been started yesterday, but which the army has postponed indefinitely. The 320 held unfit for general military service range in ages from 18 to 38.

Under the "work or jail" edict of the government, physical standards for men fit for general service are applicable to those reclassified for leaving jobs. What the army would do with men inducted, but unfit for general service, has not been announced in Washington, D. C.

Problem for Army.

Army officers in Chicago assume they will undergo a short period of physical conditioning and then be placed in labor units.

How many of the 1,400 men placed in 1-A as of Feb. 1 have been returned to their former 2-A and 2-B classifications by local boards because they entered war jobs is not known at state headquarters in Springfield.

REVEAL RHINE DRIVE CLOGGED BY OWN WEIGHT

Excess Troops Jam Narrow Sector.

WITH THE CANADIAN 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 15 (AP).—The battle southeast of Kleve reached a new crescendo tonight as British and Scotch troops fought with German panzer [armored] grenadiers and fresh reënforcements on the broad highways leading to pivotal Goch and Calcar. The battlefield was shrouded with swirling mists as British troops stormed and captured Kessel, four miles northwest of Goch.

Forward officers asserted that this slow slugging match might well have been a spectacular breakthru had not too many men and too much equipment been crowded into the narrow battlefield.

Jammed with Unneeded Troops.

Officers said that at the outset of the drive eight days ago supplies and equipment moved forward at a snail's pace. Forward troops could move no faster than material. Thus the enemy, after recovering from the initial shock, pushed up reënforcements.

"Had we removed all surplus material and troops and pushed forward against the one division facing us in the Reich's forest with the maximun amount needed for that operation there is no telling where we would be by now," one officer said.

"Instead, we tried to move the whole damn shooting match up front—troops that weren't immediately needed. They clogged the quagmired roads and we were stopped until we were pressing ahead in a shooting match."

Now, however, the roads are drying and the advance is moving out of the flooded flats into the rolling countryside.

Strong Stand in Forest.

The troops today ran into rugged resistance in Moyland forest, less than three miles from Calcar.

Ahead of the forces fighting thru the woods is a spur of high ground that dominates the road into Calcar. It is here that the Germans are putting up the strongest resistance in this part of the front.

Enemy paratroopers' attacks could not repel the Scottish troops from Kessel, focal point of fighting on the Nijmegen-Goch road just south of the Reichswald.

Two and a half miles to the southwest, Hommersum, a second village blocking the approaches to Goch, also fell and the attack thus carried across the Niers all the way from Kessel to Gennep at the confluence of the Niers and Maas [Meuse].

Canadian and British troops welded two crossings of the Niers river into a solid five mile bridgehead.

On the north flank, Canadians seized control of 20 miles of the Rhine's south bank east of Nijmegen by entering Hurendeich and capturing a ferry crossing to the textile town of Emmerich, five miles northeast of Kleve.

Roer Flood Falls 16 Inches.

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP).—A fall of 16 inches on the flooded Roer river, where the United States 1st and 9th and British 2d armies are deployed, today indicated that that troublesome barrier on the Cologne plain was returning to normal. The Germans shelled 1st army positions around the Roer dams southeast of Aachen.

German artillery fire blazed around fallen Pruem in the Schnee Eifel mountains to the south. The only United States 3d army advance reported on that front was 25 miles south of Pruem, where a mile and a half gain was scored thru advanced west wall positions.

At the southern end of the western front, Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army lashed out in a new attack south of the Saar basin that gained up to a mile and a half on a five mile front.

3D ARMY DRIVE SAPS MORALE OF HITLER TROOPS

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 3D ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 15.—German morale in this particular sector of the 3d army front is showing definite evidence of cracking since American infantry men stormed across the swollen Sure and Our rivers and began taking the vaunted west wall to pieces, pillbox by pillbox, with the aid of tankers, artillery men, and the air force.

The prisoner toll since the operation began on Feb. 7 is about 2,000, of whom the 80th infantry division has bagged more than half. The 5th division took more than 400 yesterday.

They give an odd assortment of reasons to explain why they surrendered. Sometimes they are just tired of the war, other times they have lost faith in Germany's victory chance—a faith which definitely was shaken by the newest breach of the Siegfried line [west wall].

Surpassed in Artillery.

One captured officer, asked how it was possible to penetrate this barrier so quickly, said simply: "1939 fortifications against 1945 offensive weapons."

Another officer—even officers have begun to give up more readily in the past few days—said: "Well, there's no use in our fighting. You people have more artillery pieces than we have machine guns."

A diary kept by a captured enlisted man reads in part: "I spent Christmas near Trier—the seventh year I haven't had Christmas with my loved ones. I was on march Christmas eve—that was my holy evening, and went into the lines Christmas day. That was my Christmas. Houses near Echternach look terrible. They are all destroyed. That is apparently the new Germany. The hell with everything. The hell with the war. War is nothing but destruction."

His final entry says: "I came into the lines again Feb. 2. Hope it will soon end or I'll go crazy."

Below 18 or Over 30.

Most prisoners taken by the 80th division either are 18 years old or younger, or over 30. One group of six prisoners included three with glass eyes, two with venereal disease, and one with a crippled leg.

The 76th infantry division took a prisoner who said he had lost interest in further fighting when the Nazi party banished the regular army salute a couple of months ago in favor of the stiff arm Hitler salute.

Prisoners also are being taken from quartermaster and finance units, which normally are well behind the front. One prisoner newly taken was a self-professed Communist who was anti-Hitler. This man had been promised that if he fought well for six months he would have his full citizenship rights restored.

SENATOR BARES WASTE OF U.S. FUNDS ABROAD

Urges Protection of American Rights.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The story of how billions in American taxpayers' dollars have been poured into North Africa and the middle east was told to the senate today by Sen. Tunnell [D., Del.].

Sen. Tunnell.

It was an eyewitness story, but it was not complete. Some of the gaps the white haired senator blamed on inadequate accounting, some on no accounting at all.

The British, he said, had failed—declined, in fact—to make an accounting of reverse lend-lease. The war department accounting of its expenditures he found "wholly inadequate" as he told of a million dollar American air field in French Morocco listed by the army as costing $52,000.

No Commercial Rights.

Tunnell warned the nation that it has no commercial rights to the great airports it has built and is dependent upon the British, in some cases, for permission to use them at all.

Moreover, Tunnell said, the British are stifling American trade in North Africa and the middle east by limiting the number of dollars that nations can acquire to buy American goods. Those goods, from which he said American taxpayers should be getting a fair return, include such surplus war property as camps, hospitals, air bases, radio stations, port facilities, prison camps, assembly [illegible] for airplanes and trucks, and warehouses.

Tunnell's story was his report on his recent tour of North Africa and the middle east with Sen. Burton [R., O.] for the senate war investigating committee.

Demands U. S. Policy.

In the report, Tunnell pleaded for immediate establishment of an American policy to protect American interests. Warning that delay will be "extremely costly" to American taxpayers, he said other nations are not delaying decisions on such matters despite the war.

Before telling of conditions on the other side of the Atlantic, he told of visiting Bermuda on the first leg of his airplane trip. There he found an airport on which the United States has spent 42 million dollars—without obtaining any airplane or other commercial rights.

"No matter how much we spend on the airport," he said, "it cannot be used by our government or our people for commercial purposes after the war."

British Inflate Credit.

Turning to the British refusal to account for reverse lend-lease, Tunnell said that on one occasion when the British did make an accounting, they credited themselves with 17½ times the amount for which the navy credited them—175 million dollars instead of 10 million.

"Lend-lease and reverse lend-lease accounts," Tunnell said, "are in such condition that it is impossible to tell with certainty the exact status of balances for intratheater transactions. There are two serious discrepancies between methods used by our forces and those of the British.

"The first is the refusal of the British to price invoices on materials and services lend-leased to us. The second is the policy of the British to charge 42 per cent on their cost for transportation, insurance, and handling charges on material and equipment, whereas the American charges have been 25 per cent.

"Both the army and navy have been seeking to persuade the British to price their invoices. The British have consistently refused to do so on the basis that they did not have sufficient bookkeeping man power.

"Warehouses full of unpriced invoices will be accumulated which, if ever priced, will have to be priced by persons not familiar with the original transaction. Apparently the British maintain prices for their own records and unquestionably there will be a discrepancy between our estimate of British reciprocal aid and the estimate the British will have."

Tunnell offered no estimates on the cost of American military installations in the Azores, second stop of the trip, but commented that we use facilities there by permission of the British, altho the islands are owned by Portugal.

Rights Not Protected.

Discussing the American airport at Casablanca and the other 15 airfields visited, Tunnell told the senate that American representatives are firmly opposed to giving up any American establishments unless the nation benefiting pays, and pays a fair price. But there are no agreements or treaties, he said, to protect American rights.

One airport now being secretly built, Tunnell said, is being established without even any discernible title acquired by the United States.

The Casablanca airport of Sale, Tunnell said, was improved by the Americans at a cost of 1 million dollars. But the French have turned it over to the British, who are using it commercially.

"Neither the United States nor any American air lines," Tunnell explained, "have obtained any franchise to operate in North Africa. On the other hand, the British Overseas Airways corporation is running regularly scheduled commercial flights."

Costs Not Recorded.

Tunnell said the costs of North African and Mediterranean airports were not accurately kept by the war department. He said that tho it is known the Casablanca airport cost 1 million dollars, the army books showed an "out of pocket" cost of only $52,000.

Discussing British interference with American trade, Tunnell said:

"There is an acute scarcity of dollars in most of these areas, notably Egypt, Palestine, and Iraq. These countries and others are in what is known as the 'sterling area,' which means that dollars received in these countries are required to be pooled in London.

"These countries are permitted to acquire dollars for the purchase of imports from the United States only to the extent permitted by the British. . . . The sterling bloc is an impediment to free trade with this area."

At "Foot of Table."

Recalling complaints of Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] that Americans always "sit at the foot of the table" in dealings with the British, Tunnell said of a visit to Italy:

"We found that altho our representative, Adm. Stone, is the chief commissioner of the allied commission administering the armistice, there are two British officials who are superior to him."

Senators said they saw the hint of a blow-off regarding the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration in Tunnell's discussion of its activities. Tunnell would not go outside his carefully worded report, but Sen. Burton promised to discuss the UNRRA more fully in his own report to the senate next Monday.

Without explaining details of complaints Tunnell said:

"We were given information that UNRRA is being used by the military for purposes other than was originally considered as the reason for the creation of this organization. It is our opinion that UNRRA should not be under control of the military at any time. . . . Charges of such improper use were furnished us as to the situation in Greece."

ALLIES BLEED U.S. OF BILLIONS AND ASK MORE

Want Funds Now for Non-War Uses.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The bleeding of the United States of its resources by European governments not only for military but for non-military purposes has attained scandalous proportions.

The United States is pouring out billions of dollars at a rate that threatens to impoverish the country and the Roosevelt administration is considering applications by Great Britain, Russia, and France for additional billions for nonmilitary purposes.

The war has cost the United States nearly 250 billions up to date and the administration has asked congress to raise the national debt limit to 300 billions. Nearly 40 billion dollars worth of military equipment has been lend-leased to Great Britain, Russia, China, France, and other allies and another 25 billions allotted. Lend-lease in excess of the trickle of reverse lend-lease amounts to an outright gift to other nations under the Roosevelt policy of accepting no compensation therefor.

Russia's Proposition.

Russia has been given 7 billion dollars' worth of lend-lease material and is about to be accorded a new agreement for 4 billion dollars more in which the soviets seek to include heavy machinery as an American gift for post-war industrial rehabilitation. In addition, Russia wants 6 billions of easy, long term post-war credits. Great Britain wants more lend-lease and a grant or easy loan of 5 billions. France is seeking generous lend-lease and 2 billions of credits.

The British, who have built up enormous stock piles of foodstuffs and raw materials to a large extent from American lend-lease, are refusing to part with any of these supplies for the relief and rehabilitation of Belgium and France. Britain's minister of state, Richard Law, recently came to Washington with a plea for additional American assistance for these liberated countries, so that it would be unnecessary for the British to dip into their huge stock piles. Law's story was that Britain still fears a starvation blockade by German submarines.

Refuse to Loosen Up.

Since Law went home the British have admitted that the submarine menace is ended and predicted that the war in Europe will be over in six weeks. Still they refuse to loosen up on their mountain of food and other supplies for the liberated countries and insist that America come across with more.

President Roosevelt finally sent his special counsel Sam Rosenman to London to see what could be done about it. Rosenman is now on his way to meet the President somewhere in Europe and report on the situation. Dispatches from Paris state that relief is "one of the war's greatest scandals."

Some Requests Turned Down.

Negotiation of the fourth Russian lend-lease protocol is nearing conclusion. It covers the current fiscal year during which 1 billion dollars already has been advanced. The negotiations have been delayed by the efforts of the Russians to have included several hundred million dollars worth of heavy machinery that could be only remotely connected with the prosecution of the war and could not be delivered in any event till after the end of the war in Europe. Russia also sought the lend-lease of vast quantities of rubber and nickel for nonmilitary purposes.

According to administration officials these requests have been turned down, Russia being advised to seek such materials on post-war long term credit.

Russia already is preparing to ask a fifth lend-lease protocol to apply to the next fiscal year beginning July 1 next. Presumably the war in Europe will be over by that time. In that event there would be no reason for further lend-lease to Russia unless Russia were to enter the war against Japan. In some quarters therefore, the request for a fifth protocol is regarded as a straw indicating which way the wind is blowing with regard to Stalin's intentions toward Japan.

Orders Already Placed.

Stalin has asked the 6 billions post-war credits of the United States on long terms at nominal interest, indicating that he wants to purchase vast quantities of industrial equipment in this country. He already has placed orders with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company and the General Electric company for power plant equipment to restore the gigantic Dnieprostoi dam.

No action has been taken by the administration on this and other requests for post-war credits pending the outcome of executive recommendations to congress to increase the 700 million dollar loan limitation of the Export-Import bank and to repeal the Johnson act prohibiting private loans to nations in default of payment of war debts.

The Russian debt incurred in the first World war amounts to 193 million dollars. The soviets repudiated the obligation as that of the preceding czarist and Kerensky governments. Some administration officials accept the soviet contention that it is not in default.

They served together in three earlier invasions, but did not see one another after the LCI sinking until they reported for duty in Chicago.

WALLACE FOES BEATEN IN VOTE ON GEORGE BILL

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Legislation enabling Henry A. Wallace to become secretary of a cut-down commerce department barely survived today its first test on the house floor.

By the narrow margin of 10 votes house administration forces beat down an attempt by Wallace opponents to pigeonhole the George bill divorcing the federal loan agencies from the commerce department. The vote was 202-192.

The drive to shelve the measure by sending it back to the house banking committee was led by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats seeking to force senate rejection of Wallace for secretary of commerce.

Shelving the senate approved George bill, administration leaders conceded, would have virtually assured rejection of the former Vice President in view of open senate opposition to giving the former Vice President the vast lending powers. The senate vote on confirmation is slated for around March 1.

First New Deal Victory.

Today's vote marked a first round victory for the New Deal in its compromise effort to get Wallace confirmed with restricted powers. The anti-Wallace house bloc served notice, however, that it will renew its attempt to kill the George bill when it comes up for final passage later this week.

Wallace was assailed during today's debate as a "symbol" to the leftist movement, which, it was charged, is seeking to spread economic and social reforms on a global basis.

"I am one of those who is opposed to having Henry Wallace made secretary of commerce under any circumstances," Rep. Cox [D., Ga.] told the house. "I don't believe the coat worn by Jesse Jones can be cut down to buttonhole size without destroying the entire garment."

Seek Other Restrictions.

Opponents of the George bill said they would seek, as an "insurance" move, to force adoption of an amendment further restricting Wallace's powers, in the event the bill is adopted.

The proposed amendment, authored by Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.], would remove the commerce secretary from membership on the board of the export-import bank, which is slated, under New Deal plans, to lend billions of dollars abroad in the post-war period. The bank was created 10 years ago by executive order of President Roosevelt.

Wolcott declared there is nothing in the George bill to prevent Mr. Roosevelt from giving complete control of the bank to Henry Wallace or any one else.

"He could make Earl Browder head of the bank and congress could do nothing about it under the present law," he said.

Note to Parents Hints Son Held by Japs Is Free

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Hugon, 4320 N. Tripp av., received a note yesterday from their son, Donald J., 27, a private in the army medical corps who was captured by the Japanese on Bataan, that caused them to believe he has been released from a prisoner of war camp. Mailed from the Philippine Islands on Feb. 9, the note said: "Am well. See you soon." It was the parents' first word from the soldier in two months, and the sixth message they have received since he was taken prisoner in May, 1942.

FAKE MERCHANT MARINE OFFICER SEIZED AS THIEF

Larry E. Seatone, 23, was in custody of police last night after he had been identified by Miss Dorothy Younglove, 35, as the man who struck her and robbed her of a diamond ring valued at $1,800 in the room of a friend at 416 Deming pl. Police said Seatone, who was wearing a uniform of the merchant marine radio officer when he was arrested outside the Deming pl. flat, admitted that he was posing as an officer to get acquainted with women. Police recovered the ring from his pocket.

BEAT LUCE PLAN TO REGISTER ALL WOMEN IN U. S.

House Unit in Fiery Debate on Draft.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The house military affairs committee, at a boisterous secret session, today voted down, 20 to 3, a proposal by Rep. Luce [R., Conn.] to settle the war nurse scarcity problem by registering all women between the ages of 18 and 45 with selective service boards.

Rep. Luce offered her drastic amendment to legislation drafting women nurses into the army, which says it needs 16,000 more nurses immediately to reach a goal of 60,000 to care for 400,000 sick and wounded soldiers.

The woman legislator said the amendment would remove objections that the bill under consideration is discriminatory and violates the Constitution by inducting only one class of women. If all women were registered, the army could then select those it deemed fit to care for the wounded, she asserted.

War Department Uncertain.

While a majority of the committee scorned this suggestion, the ensuing discussion brought out that the war department itself is apparently uncertain what form it wants the legislation to take. Bickering between members reached the shouting stage at times.

Chairman May [D., Ky.] became angry when Rep. Sparkman [D., Ala.] offered a substitute measure which he also said would eliminate constitutional objections to the May bill before the committee. Asked by May where he got his ideas, Sparkman said they came from Brig. Gen. Edward Smith of the war department's liaison service.

Time to Be Frank.

"Gen. Smith told me he had no suggestions," barked May. "My bill came from Undersecretary of War Patterson."

"This seems to be the same situation we encountered in the work-or-fight bill," remarked Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.]. "The army doesn't know exactly what it wants except that it wants power over the people."

The turmoil reached its height when Rep. Andrews [R., N. Y.] interjected:

"I guess it's time to be frank. I was the only Republican invited to the White House when this matter was first brought up. I can say that the administration doesn't care what kind of a bill you write here because eventually the measure will be written in conference [between the senate and house] and it will get what it wants."

"Maybe members of the house should resign and go home," said Shafer, heatedly. "This is an outrageous state of affairs!"

Other Republicans joined in taunting Andrews, asking him if he had been accepted into the New Deal. Andrews has been urging approval of the May bill.

OFFICER WHO BURIED SPOUSE IN FOXHOLE ACCUSED OF MURDER

Lt. Sam C. Epes.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 15 [Special].—Lt. Sam C. Epes, 29, member of a prominent Virginia family, was charged with murder today in the death of his attractive red haired wife as police disclosed they had questioned an unidentified woman in the case.

Detectives withheld details concerning the other woman except to say that she lived in Lake Charles, La., where Epes was on duty before being transferred to near-by Fort Jackson late last spring.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Lee Epes, 26, had left her school teaching job in Jacksonville, Fla., during the Christmas holidays and had come here to be with her husband while he awaited transfer overseas. Epes reported her missing two weeks ago, helped police hunt for her, and even offered a reward for clews to her whereabouts.

Yesterday he took officers to her grave where he admitted he had buried her more than 24 hours before reporting her disappearance. The body was disinterred from one of about 40 foxholes recently dug by troops on maneuvers near Fort Jackson.

WEST SUBURBS VOTE 2 TO 1 FOR PRISONER CAMP

More than 500 residents of Western Springs and near-by La Grange, La Grange Park, and Hinsdale voted by a margin of 2 to 1 at a mass meeting last night to approve the army's proposal to establish a prisoner of war camp in Proviso township, immediately adjacent to Western Springs' north village limits at Howard and Ogden avs.

Their vote, in McClure school auditorium, came after Maj. E. R. Schuelke, in charge of prisoners and camps at Fort Sheridan, assured them their fears that the prisoners would prove a menace to community security were groundless.

Joe Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, was chairman.

Points to Supervision.

In response to questions from the audience, Maj. Schuelke said the camp will be well supervised and carefully guarded and there will be no chance of prisoners molesting children or fraternizing with residents.

"Prisoners are being so well treated, in accordance with the terms of the Geneva conference, that they do not want to leave our camps," Maj. Schuelke said.

Children of officers at Fort Sheridan, who have come into contact with prisoners "seem to love them," Maj. Schuelke said.

Hugh D. Moore asked:

"Why don't you take them out to Hawthorne or Sportsman's Parks [race tracks near Chicago]?"

Opposes Track Proposal.

Maj. Schuelke said jocularly confinement of prisoners in box stalls would be in violation of the Geneva prisoner agreement, which provides each must have at least 40 square feet of space. In addition, the transfer of prisoners to the race track would entail delay in reaching a legal agreement with the owners.

Maj. Schuelke said establishment of the camp without delay is vital to winning the war. He said a site must be found nearer than Fort Sheridan to the chamical warfare and quartermarter depots at Pershing rd. and Kildare av., where they will be employed.

The Rev. William O'Brien of St. Francis' church, La Grange said the prisoners' camp would be a menace to children who attend schools in the vicinity.

52 CHICAGOANS DUE HOME IN NAZI PRISONER TRADE

Welcomes Planned for 11 Soldiers, 41 Civilians.

Eleven soldiers and 41 civilians from Chicago were named by the war department last night as among the former war prisoners in Germany who are being returned home on the exchange ship Gripsholm, due to arrive in the United States next week.

Aboard the Swedish vessel are 463 American army officers and enlisted men, 665 United States civilians, and 78 Canadian military personnel.

As the glad tidings reached Chicago relatives, plans were made for homecoming celebrations and expressions of relief and thanksgiving fell from the lips of parents who had worried for many months over the plight of their sons.

Service Men Sick or Wounded.

All of the released service prisoners, the war department said, are sick or wounded and were exchanged in Switzerland for German prisoners of war. Those physically able will be given leaves to go to their homes. Continued hospital treatment will be provided for all those requiring it, the war department said.

Among the Chicago soldiers was Staff Sgt. Elmer F. Kapischke, 20, of the air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rein Kapischke, 2919 Broad st. His mother, Marie, was celebrating "the happiest birthday I have ever had," she said, after reading an anniversary message cabled to her by her son.

"I'm just so happy and so nervous waiting for him to get home," said Mrs. Kapischke, "but I'll have to be patient and wait, I guess." She said her son, a prisoner since May 8, lost three fingers of his right hand during an air battle over Germany. A former employe of Swift & Co., Sgt. Kapischke entered the army two years ago and went overseas last March. Three sisters also are eagerly awaiting his arrival home.

Another member of the Chicago group was Pvt. Anthony Scafidi, 19, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scafidi, live at 1228 Larrabee st. He had been a war prisoner since last September.

Even Dog Is Happy.

"We are overjoyed to know our son is being returned to us," said Mrs. Scafidi. "We hope he'll be home soon." Even Spotty, Anthony's pet dog, seems to be sharing the family's happiness, Mrs. Scafidi said, for he sits wagging his tail furiously, as if he knows his master will be home soon.

Pvt. Scafidi, an infantry man, was serving in southern France when he was captured. He entered the army in November, 1943, and had been overseas since last May.

Others named in the group included: Sgt. John E. Brocco, whose mother, Mrs. Anna Brocco, lives at 6642 Justine st.; Pvt. Theodore P. Czapala, son of John L. Czapala, 1347 N. Rockwell st.; Sgt. Walter W. Garr, son of Mrs. Mary Garr, 6656 Michigan av.; Lt. Louis Green, husband of Mrs. Jeanette F. Green, 3242 Division st.; Pvt. Roman Krol, son of Mrs. Anna Krol, 2829 Kolin av.; Sgt. Irving B. Malawsky, son of Harry Malawsky, 1324 N. Homan av.; Sgt. Christe R. Tognarelli, 29 S. Charles st., Villa Park, and Sgt. John K. Hedberg, son of Mrs. Blanche A. Bloomgren, route 1, Des Plaines.

Repatriated Civilians Listed.

The Chicago civilians coming home are:

Michael Banasuck, Sarah Rebekka Borst, Joseph Dopyera, Antoni, Dominika, Marie, Mieczyslaus, Roman, and Stanislaus Czaplicki, Stanislaus Czech, Friedrick Diehl, Rosario Hans Di Rosa, Olaf Olsen Fosse, Kazimiera Grochowska, Louis Hermans, Bronislawa Jankowska, Waclaw Klimczak, Gertrud Koester, Harry Koperynski, Conrad and Frank Kruza, Josefa Krzeminska, Anna and Eva Lasch, Adele Maluska Wladislawa, Frances and Joseph Nepomucky, Irene and Radzislawa Niewiarowska, John Paprocki, John Paszkowski, Anton Pecht, Edward Praplowicz, Frank Edward and George Frank Rozsypal, Hans and Reginald Spindler, Bronislaw Stamborski, Nicholas Szafadar, Clemens and Felicjan Thomaszewski, and Joseph Tomczyk.

NAZIS SHIFTING YANK PRISONERS FROM REDS' PATH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—Great numbers of American and allied prisoners of war, whom the Germans are transferring out of the path of Russian armies, are making the trip on foot.

Reporting this tonight, the American Red Cross said the Geneva convention permits prisoners to make maximum daily marches of up to 12½ miles.

Chairman Basil O'Connor said he had received a cable from Geneva, designating five military districts from which prisoners are being transferred. As of Jan. 1, Red Cross maps show approximatey 29,000 Americans were held in camps in those districts. Six major American camps—stalags II.-B., III.-B., III.-C.; stalag lufts III. and IV.; and oflag 64, were known to be in those areas. O'Connor said that stalags VIII-B, and 344, farther east were previously reported moved.

Until new addresses are received, families are advised by the war department to address mail to previously reported addresses.

'FRUSTRATION' OF UNRRA HIT BY AUSTRALIAN

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 15 (AP).—Starvation and disease resulting from this war may exceed that of 1919, Australia's minister of external affairs, H. V. Evatt, said today in a critical survey of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration [UNRRA].

UNRRA is "showing signs of frustration and disillusionment," Evatt told the organization's far eastern committee at the opening of a six day conference.

[A week overdue, the leader of the United States delegation to the UNRRA conference, Abbot L. Moffat, arrived last night dressed in a travel worn green jungle suit and minus baggage and spectacles. Moffat gave no explanation for his delay, saying that he could not at present discuss his journey to Australia.]

2 Illinoisans Help Kill 3 Japs Hidden in Hut

WITH AMERICAN 96TH DIVISION IN PHILIPPINES.—A half dozen 96th division doughboys, including Pvt. Leonard J. Sherry, 6908 Cermak rd., Berwyn, Ill., and Staff Sgt. Eldred Lierly, Loraine, Ill., quickly killed three Japs in a skirmish on Leyte. The men were searching a group of shacks when they heard the click of a rifle bolt in one of the huts. The doughboys sprayed the shack with bullets and in a few minutes the battle was over.

LIBERATED MEN TELL OF LIFE AS WAR PRISONERS

Any major caveins reported from German prison camps won't surprise Lt. Cecil B. Fisher, 29, one of 12 prisoners of war repatriated from Germany and Japanese prison camps who appeared last night at a meeting for relatives of prisoners of war in the armory at 234 E. Chicago av.

Speaking before an audience of 4,500, Lt. Fisher said that prisoners dig tunnels constantly and keep a great number of Germans occupied in hunting for new excavations.

The former prisoners are on a tour sponsored by the army air forces in cooperation with the American Red Cross to meet families of imprisoned men in 30 American cities and give them details of life in prison camps.

In Solitary Confinement.

Lt. Fisher told how he was shot down over Emden, Germany, Sept. 27, 1943, and taken to a marine hospital in Emden where a foot and finger were amputated. Care in that hospital was good, he said, but boys who landed in other hospitals were not so fortunate. He described the questioning period in the prison camp where some Americans were kept as long as 30 days in solitary confinement without change of clothing and were subjected to extreme heat or extreme cold.

"Despite that treatment," he said, "I never heard of an American boy breaking down. Those boys tell their name, rank, and serial number, and that's all."

He said he had heard that some families feared men would come back from prison camps a profane, disillusioned lot. "Never," he said, "have I seen a more deeply religious group. You can't escape death so narrowly and come out untouched."

German Girl Kind to One.

A West Chicagoan, Sgt. Harold Sheahan, 35, encountered both avarice and charity among the German civilians. When he was blown out of his plane over Vienna Oct. 1, 1943, three German civilians who picked him up, he said, "rolled me for all my jewelry, watch, rings, lighter, money, cigarets . . . and then turned me over to the luftwaffe who took me to a first aid station." In the ambulance, a little German girl gave him water and medicine.

Of life as a prisoner of the Japs, Corp. Willard E. Hall, 25, paid high tribute to the Filipinos. When serving on a truck detail to Manila for supplies, he said, his group passed thru one town where Filipino women stood by the road to hand up bottles of coffee.

"The Jap guards would beat them," he recalled, "but next day those women were back with more coffee. I have seen Filipinos endanger their lives time and again for us—and I have seen what they did cost them their lives."

Cites Maywood Boys' Bravery.

He told of the bravery of some of his companions on Bataan—men of Company B, 192d tank battalion of Maywood, and recalled how one, on the death march, returned the taunt of a guard who couldn't understand where all of the Americans were and said the Japs had thought at least 100,000 were on Bataan. Said the Maywood boy, "You just wait'll you run into 100,000 Americans!"

The luxury of receiving Red Cross toilet articles, food, and equipment were referred to repeatedly. The speakers were introduced by Capt. Ragnar Barhaug, 28, bomber pilot, who originated the idea of the tour. The group leaves tomorrow for St. Paul, Minn. All the repatriates from Germany are airmen, and all have been wounded.

Early Butterfly

John Linz holds butterfly he caught yesterday on the south side.

The yellow butterfly which fluttered onto John Linz' hat yesterday morning will have a rigorous weekend in Chicago if it succeeds in escaping from Mr. Linz' milk bottle. The weather bureau doubts that the butterfly could last long in the five degrees above zero temperatures forecast for tomorrow morning.

Linz, a janitor, 5444 Prairie av., captured the insect on 55th street near Indiana av. Dr. W. J. Gerhard, curator of insects at Chicago Natural History museum, believes the butterfly emerged from its chrysalis in yesterday's 46 degree weather after being transported to Chicago on fruits or vegetables shipped to a grocery from a southern state.

Forecaster H. L. Jacobson said the temperature will fluctuate between 20 and 28 degrees today and drop to five degrees tonight. Temperatures of 5 to 15 degrees are forecast for southern Illinois tomorrow morning. Light rains and snow flurries will accompany the colder weather today.

ARMY AND NAVY CASUALTY TOTAL REACHES 782,182

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—Erasing the German salient in the Ardennes and launching small scale offensives along the western front during January cost American ground forces 61,962 men, Secretary of War Stimson reported today. Army and navy losses in all theaters during the war now total 782,182.

Losses in January, including 8,848 killed, 41,325 wounded, and 11,789 missing, were smaller than those on the same front in December, when 74,788 ground troops were lost—principally during the German sweep into Belgium and Luxemburg.

Stimson placed the over-all army figure at 693,342 on the basis of individual names received in Washington thru Feb. 7. The navy's losses have been reported as 88,838.

The breakdown on army losses in this week's report and corresponding figures for last week follow:

Killed, 135,510 and 130,266; wounded, 408,553 and 396,176; prisoners, 58,556 and 58,876; missing, 90,723 and 91,476.

Venezuela Recognizes It's at War with Axis States

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 15 (AP).—The government announced tonight that Venezuela recognized existence of a state of war with Germany and Japan.

TRIBUNE PRESS GROUP TO WORK WITH REUTERS

New York, Feb. 15 [Special].—Reuters Limited and The Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate [Chicago Tribune Press service division] today announced they had signed an agreement for the distribution of each others news and features.

Under the agreement The Chicago Tribune press service will act as exclusive selling agents for Reuters' news service to newspapers and radio stations in the United States in the territory roughly defined as west of the Mississippi river and south of the Ohio river.

Reuters to Handle Comics.

The two agencies issued a statement which in part said:

"Under this arrangement, Reuters will supply their services direct to subscribers in the territory previously defined west of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio and in similar form as to clients in the territory of the United States not covered by this agreement. That is, the actual editing and distribution of the service will continue to be performed by Reuters.

"As a part of this arrangement, Reuters Limited will act as exclusive selling agents for the comics and feature articles regularly syndicated by The Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, for the territory comprising the British Isles, Europe, the Middle East, India, and South Africa.

"Reuters, for almost a century a great international news agency, is owned by the newspapers of Britain, who are pledged to regard their ownership, not as a commercial investment, but as a trust—convinced that control of a great world news service involves obligations and principles which do not necessarily apply to a commercial undertaking. Its organization, aims, and method of operation in many ways resemble the Associated Press.

Unbiased News Service.

"Reuters operates under a charter which guarantees that it shall permanently have complete integrity and independence from government control or political interest; that it shall never pass into the hands of any newspaper, group or faction; that it shall supply a completely unbiased news service to world newspapers and agencies, and that no effort shall be spared to expand and develop Reuters in order to maintain its position as a leading world news agency.

"The Superiority of the Chicago Tribune-New York News comics is acknowledged in the United States, due primarily to the immense circulation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and New York News and associated newspapers that use these features."

POET KILMER'S SON GOES BACK TO FRONT LINE

WITH THE U. S. 26TH DIVISION IN ALSACE, Feb. 15 (AP).—Lt. Christopher Kilmer, 27, son of the Poet Joyce Kilmer, is back in action with the 36th division after being temporarily incapacitated by enemy shellfire in Italy.

Kilmer first served on Kauai Island in the Pacific theater. Later he received a commission and joined the 36th in Italy a year ago. He was with it when the push across the Rapido river started. Wounded in the leg by shell fragment, Lt. Kilmer spent about five months in a hospital, then served in Corsica.

Kilmer's father was killed in France in World War I.

Actress Married

Barker, faculty member of Northwestern University medical school, to Miss Marjorie Leigh, 444 Wrightwood av., Chicago radio actress, was revealed yesterday by Chicago friends. Col. Barker, who recently was awarded the legion of merit, and Miss Leigh were married this week in Washington, D. C., where he is on a special mission.

EDITS WAR NEWS FOR PHILIPPINES GUERRILLA BAND

Mrs. Jean Lowry, 36, who with her son, Billie, 5, was among the prisoners in the Japanese concentration camp at Santo Tomas, Manila, kept Filipino guerrillas informed of world events by publishing her Victory News before she was captured by the Japs. Mrs. Lowry is the daughter of Mrs. Jennie T. Foley, 505 Fillmore st., Gary.

Her husband, Capt. William Lowry, was killed early in the war and she and her son fled to the mountains on Negros Island, where they lived with the guerrillas until Nov. 27, 1943. In Manila yesterday Mrs. Lowry described how she was threatened and maltreated repeatedly by the Japanese. They threatened to kill her son, she said, "and it was a little hard on the nerves."

At Santo Tomas Mrs. Lowry was reunited with her brother, Rupert M. Foley, who was interned there with his wife and son. The Lowrys had been in the Philippines since 1936. He was employed as a supervisor in a manganese plant there until he was called to duty as a reserve officer.

FLEET ATTACKS TOKYO; SHELLS VOLCANO ISLES

Carrier Planes Raid Air Fields Near Capital.

waves of the carrier planes are sweeping over Tokyo. This is the one we've been waiting for. This is by many carriers. The warships include battlewagons. Nimitz is carrying the attack to Japan's front yard and front steps and into the living rooms.

"While the air is swarming with United States and Japanese planes over Tokyo, we may expect the Japs to try to send planes at our carriers—if they can find them. The situation calls for them to send out their fleet, but fear of losing their fleet entirely may cause the Japs to hold the remaining warships back to fight another day."

Jack Hooley of the Blue network said there was every reason to expect one of the fiercest air fights of the war.

Art Primm of Mutual speculated that the American warships must be riding the seas within 300 miles of the coast line of Honshu.

"Hysterical Terror."

"Screaming Hellcats, their multiple machine guns spewing death and destruction, jarred the Japanese capital shortly after dawn into a day of hysterical terror," reported Al Dopking, Associated Press correspondent, in a Guam headquarters dispatch.

The Tokyo radio said enemy air units had been prepared for the raiders, inasmuch as "enemy surface movements have been observed during the last few days."

The navy thus spanned the last leg of a 4,000 mile trail across the Pacific from Pearl Harbor, where the war opened. The size of the attacking air force was such as to outnumber anything Japan could muster hastily, navy authorities said.

Leading air admirals indicated they would welcome the chance to engage whatever air strength the enemy could muster in time. They pointed to the American record of 20 to 1 superiority in aerial combat in carrier operations thru many weeks of January which took in the China and French Indo-China coasts.

Super Forts Prepare the Way.

The carrier strike was the first on the Japanese mainland since Lt. Gen. [then Lt. Col.] Doolittle's blow with B-25s from the decks of the carrier Hornet in April, 1942.

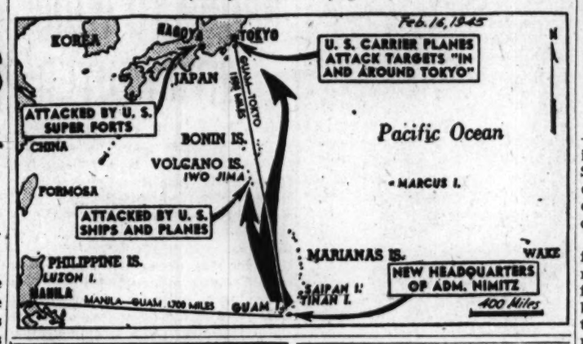

The way was cleared for the navy to advance on Tokyo by months of steady raids by Super Fortresses on Japanese aircraft plants which have so cut into the enemy's production that the Nipponese leaders have begun moving plants to Manchuria. Islands along the way to Tokyo also were knocked out by such raids. Iwo has been raided daily for 70 days. It has also been bombarded by the fleet several times this year.

Adm. Mitscher, Wisconsin-born, came into prominence as the leader of "task force 58" which dealt the Nipponese navy a mortal blow while protecting the invasion of Saipan last year. He remained on the job to direct 3d fleet planes against enemy islands in the far western Pacific last October to help Gen. MacArthur return to the Philippines.

After that, the Japanese claimed they had annihilated task force 58 and commented on the disappearance of Mitscher from the news.

TERMS TO JAPS WILL BE LIKE GERMANY'S, SAYS CHINESE PAPER

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Chungking newspaper, Ta Kung Pao, said today that allied terms for Japan would parallel those outlined by the Big Three at the Crimea conference for Germany, including separate zones of occupation.

The newspaper's article, summarized by the Chungking radio, said the time and place of the world security conference to be held in San Francisco April 25 indicated that the Japanese problem would be taken up there.

The paper said the cost of Japan's defeat will be unconditional surrender; separate zones of occupation of Japan by allied forces; disarming or disbandment of all Japanese armed forces; elimination or control of all Japanese industries; bringing all war criminals to justice; reparations in kind, and removal of all Japanese militarist influences from public offices and from cultural and economic life of the Japanese people.

NIMITZ BEATS JAP HOME RADIO ON RAID NEWS

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 15 (AP).—Adm. Nimitz announced the big task force raid on Tokyo so promptly he even beat Tokyo radio. The raid by carrier planes started about 7:15 a. m. Friday, Tokyo time. That was 2:15 p. m. today, Thursday, Pacific war time [4:15 p. m. Chicago time].

At 4:50 p. m.—just two hours and 50 minutes after the first of perhaps 1,500 planes hit Tokyo—the Associated Press flashed the admiral's announcement.

Tokyo radio acknowledged the attack five minutes later.

KOISO NAMES 2 INDUSTRIALISTS AS CABINET AIDS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo radio yesterday announced the appointment by Premier Koiso of two cabinet advisers, a veteran industrialist and a railway expert. The appointments followed a recent Japanese diet resolution calling for establishment of an "economic general staff."

Those appointed were former Munitions Minister Ginjuro Fujiwara, known as Japan's "paper king" and for more than 50 years affiliated with the Mitsui financial interests, and Yoshiaki Hatta, transportation expert and former president of the Japanese chamber of commerce.

B-29s RAID JAPAN FROM THIRD NEW MARIANAS BASE

21ST BOMBER COMMAND HDQ., Guam, Feb. 15 (AP).—B-29 Super Fortresses operating from a new base in the Marianas joined in a large scale raid today on the industrial area of Nagoya, Japan. The big force of bombers flew from Saipan and from the new base on near-by Tinian, the 21st bomber command announced.

A night bulletin from the 20th air force said the new strike was a daylight blow at the Mitsubishi aircraft factory in Nagoya. An overcast prevented observation of the results. None of the B-29s was lost.

Tinian's new air field was commissioned in December, it was disclosed, after its completion by navy Seabees.

B-29s Strike, Says Tokyo.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo's Domei news agency reported today a raid on Yokohama yesterday by a "small number" of American Super Fortresses which, according to the unconfirmed Japanese version, dropped bombs on an army hospital as well as port facilities.

CHINA TO DRAFT 500,000 MEN TO AID U.S. ATTACK

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 15 (AP).—Japan's position on the mainland is deteriorating rapidly, the United States commander in China said today as plans were announced for conscripting 500,000 Chinese for an offensive.

"Japan's over-all position is unfavorable," said Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in the China theater. "I don't believe the Japanese people realize that, but I am confident the Japanese high command is deeply concerned."

To Join with U. S. Force.

Gen. Lu Chung-liu, conscription minister, announced that a half million new men would be drafted before the end of March "to meet the demand for the all-out Chinese counter-offensive in conjunction with the coming landing of American forces on the China coast."

[Similar optimism was expressed by Gen. Charles Auchinleck, commander in chief in India, who told the Indian legislature at New Delhi that the enemy was "on the run" in Burma and that Japan faced reverses in the interior of China. The situation in China, he said, had shown "signs of grave deterioration" until recently, when it took a more healthy turn under the "forceful leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Gen. Wedemeyer."]

Wedemeyer said the Japanese had lost considerable shipping, and now American air power is planted in the Philippines, where it could further restrict the flow of raw materials to the enemy's war factories.

The general said that he had been "damn pessimistic" three months ago when the Japanese were driving deeper into the interior, China was being cut in two, and advanced United States air bases were falling.

Supplies Reach Kunming.

Wedemeyer said the first consideration was the defense of the supply terminal at Kunming. Wedemeyer described Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, China's chief of staff and commander of new field headquarters at Kunming, as "the Gen. Eisenhower of this theater."

Supplies in increased amounts are now reaching Kunming since the opening of the Stilwell or Ledo road, enabling the Chinese to expand training facilities for their troops and to prepare for the offensive.

Wedemeyer voiced a hope that government and Communist leaders would be able to reconcile their differences in order to expedite the war effort. Meanwhile, Communist negotiator Gen. Chou En-Lai returned to Yenan today after negotiations here during which the government's proposed settlements were rejected. Chou carried new proposals by the government, but said he doubted his party would accept them.

One hundred thirty-two thousand men were at work. Two hundred twenty-five American soldiers were engaged on house repair and 1,735 on emergency housing.

SEIZED PAPERS BARE JAP PLAN TO HOLD MANILA

Expected Attack Would Come from South.

MANILA, Feb. 16 [Friday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur disclosed today that Japan's master plan to make Manila the turning point of the Luzon campaign in Nippon's favor is being smashed by a powerhouse American drive nearing victory in the scarred city.

Today's bulletin, reporting steady reduction of the enemy pocket in south Manila, new gains on Bataan, and withering air attacks on Corregidor, also announced seizure of an enemy document.

This document, the general said, made it clear the Japanese had expected to hold Manila with 20,000 troops, street and house fortifications, thousands of mines, elaborate concrete strongpoints, and hundreds of heavy guns—all prepared for an attack from the south.

Advance on Bataan.

But MacArthur struck from the north and the campaign for Manila is close to American victory, with destruction of the defense system, slaughter of the last ditch defenders, and capture of hundreds of cannon.

Of high interest is the swift progress on Bataan. In a push of only a few days down the east coast, Yanks of the 38th division have advanced four miles below Abucay bay to Balanga, the eastern bastion of the final American defense line in 1942.

The bulletin told of a 112 ton bombing of Corregidor, but made no reference to Japanese reports that American mine sweepers had forced entry of the bay, followed by bombarding warships and troop laden transports.

20,000 in Garrison.

The general said the captured document set forth Japanese expectancy of a major and successful defense of Manila.

"The garrison comprised more than 20,000 men, with hundreds of guns of various calibers, and many thousands of mines based on elaborate system of concrete strong points, pillboxes, and street and house fortifications," he said.

"These were especially fitted in anticipation of attack from the south and from Manila bay. The enemy apparently hoped to hold Manila and Manila bay, thus making this the turning point of the Luzon campaign."

MacArthur said these plans were defeated "by the rapidity of the envelopment by our forces and the dislocation and unbalance caused by our unanticipated advance and attack from the north and east."

Capture 320 Cannon.

MacArthur said the three Yank divisions closing in on the trapped Manila garrison had captured or destroyed an additional 320 cannon and 244 emplacement machine guns.

After a day of slackened resistance, the Japanese opened up at dawn yesterday. This limited American gains toward Intramuros to a matter of yards and blunted the American spearhead which had pushed thru the University of the Philippines campus toward the bay front.

The 37th division gained some ground toward the general hospital, a major Japanese strong point. The Americans withheld artillery fire because of the possible presence of civilian patients there.

Sherman tanks and big guns were brought into the battle for the first time to smash the enemy defenses.

Lt. Holt will relieve Capt. Arthur A. Engel, who has served in Chicago nearly two years. Capt. Engel has been ordered to duty with the marines in the Pacific.

YANKS DESTROY 3 JAP TANKS IN BURMA BATTLE

KANDY, Ceylon, Feb. 15 (AP).—Tank led American and Chinese forces driving down from northeastern Burma knocked out three Japanese tanks and captured numerous machine guns and other weapons in a brisk fight yesterday near Hsenwi, 24 miles from the rail terminus of Lashio, the southeast Asia command announced today.

Driving southward along the old Burma road, the allied task force already has advanced more than half way between the junction of the Stilwell and Burma roads at Mongyu and Lashio, 135 miles northeast of Mandalay. Kutkai, 48 miles north of Lashio, was seized yesterday without opposition.

M'ARTHUR'S SET OF SILVERWARE FOUND IN MANILA

A MEDICAL BATTALION HDQ., Manila, Feb. 15 (AP).—A private forced open a storeroom door and there before him was Gen. MacArthur's silverware, the biggest collection he had ever seen, certainly.

The private, Yen Quong of Greenville, Miss., of Cantonese ancestry, called other men of the medical headquarters, established in a building in the San Miguel district of Manila, and today they were spending their spare moments polishing the highly ornate big service plates, goblets, decanters, trays, cocktail sets, trophies—several hundred pieces.

The silver, which will be turned over to the 37th division for delivery to the general, was taken from MacArthur's home in the Manila hotel by the invading Japanese in 1941.

PEACE AND QUIET, HORROR OF WAR—MANILA IS BOTH

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 15.—Manila is a city of strange and disquieting contrasts.

From the porch window of a fine native home, where this is written, heavy traffic flows constantly in both directions. There are trees with young, green bananas in the foreground and in the yard a native boy is pumping water. A block away somebody is playing "St. Louis Blues."

This is a comparatively undamaged part of the city which the Japs gave up without a fight. In little shops natives are selling the most improbable things—Japanese cigarets, papers of pins, hats, thimbles, oddments of jewelry, cans of talcum powder, envelopes, and Jap invasion currency.

Business District in Ruins.

But the modern business district is an indescribable sight—crumbling, fire blackened ruins of buildings shattered by Jap explosives and gutted by fire. Engineers are restoring power and trolley lines, which a week ago were wrapped like snakes around the axles of your jeep. Natives search thoughtfully among the heaps of rubble on the sidewalks. It's a desolate scene of ruin, complete and tragic.

You swing your jeep to the left and pass fine institutional buildings which are undamaged. Off a few hundred yards is Malacanan palace, only slightly damaged, and San Miguel brewery, with 8,000 gallons of Jap beer made from rice and mango beans.

Desolation Across River.

Left again and you cross the Pasig river on a pontoon bridge and encounter desolation again. This is where the real fighting raged. There is a little park with flower fringed tennis courts. But almost every building is blasted and flattened.

Everywhere you see black ashes, crumbled stone and sheet iron roofing, bullet pierced and tortured by heat. An ambulance passes slowly, with lights on and stretchers filled with a bloody load.

Alongside a building a mortar battery is busy. A doughboy takes a shining projectile from its black case and withdraws his hand quickly as it drops into the barrel. With a thump it flies out again, slowly enough so that you can follow its flight with your eyes. In the distance there is a spray of flame and smoke. Not till long afterward does the noise of the blast come back.

Held Up at Bridge.

Yank shells are zipping overhead with the sound like your mother's moistened finger applied to a hot iron. Explosions are out of sight, but you can hear their rumbling crump.

You are held up momentarily at another pontoon bridge while engineers fix the approaches. Now you are near the battle zone. At the side of a dusty road lie the bodies of two Filipino boys. You speed past.

You stop at a shell torn crossroads and inquire directions of a military policeman. "It's plenty hot up there today, brother," he says quietly, moving aside to let two ambulances pass. "Better get your tin hat on." You go on more slowly now.

Machine guns are stuttering and rifles cracking up ahead. A sniper's rifle speaks. Your stomach clenches like a fist. A jeep passes filled with helmeted soldiers hunched low.

Bulldozer Is Gravedigger.

At a battalion command post officers are studying maps and talking by phone to forward posts. You do not feel like taking up much of their time. The fight up ahead is tough and going slowly. You get out of there.

You pass piles of punctured gasoline drums, a ruined railway bridge, neat stacks of ammunition and lines of plodding civilians with blank faces, moving out of the battle zone with what possessions they can carry. At a spot where bodies lie a bulldozer with an armored cab is scooping out a hole. This done, it pushes the bodies in, backs up with a jerk, then surges ahead, leaving a gash of fresh, levelled earth in its wake.

Jap Currency Plentiful.

Now you return across the bridge to climb among the ruins of the business district. A Jap shell sizzles overhead and crashes into the side of a building two blocks away. It sounds like a 105 mm. A few soldiers and civilians are standing close to walls. There is another burst blocks away and a spent fragment drops at the feet of a native. He picks it up but drops it with a howl, for it is hot.

You find a little crooked street carpeted with Jap occupation currency. "That bank's full of it," says a soldier. You walk inside and find he is right. The floor is covered ankle deep with worthless paper money.

Here is the elegy of dashed enemy hopes—peso notes for the Philippines, guilders for the Dutch East Indies, shillings and pounds for Australia, rupees for India, $5 and $10 bills—for what? Hawaii or Alaska, maybe. Or maybe for the United States.

In their flight the Japs left a little bundle of 50 sen notes and even some five and 10 yen bills. You are no souvenir hunter, but remembering friends at home, you stuff your pockets.

Shells are still bursting desultorily in this area where they can do no harm. You are relieved to reach streets where people swarm again. A car loaded with fierce looking guerrillas passes, but they are not armed as they were yesterday.

Now you are in a happier part of Manila. A light rain starts falling, beating down the dust. Knots of soldiers surround little shops and fresh, orange backed peso notes change hands. In the distance a piano is playing, "I'll Be Seeing You."

CHICOGOANS MARRY ON JUNGLE ISLAND; BOTH ARE IN SERVICE

Lt. Mary Molloy and Corp. G. J. McMorrow.

Half a world away from Lindblom High school and the south side neighborhoods where they had studied and had had their first dates, two Chicagoans were married on Morotai Island in the Dutch East Indies Jan. 20 in what was thought to have been the first white ceremony of the kind held there in 200 years.

Lt. Mary Helen Molloy, an army nurse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Molloy of 3319 W. 61st pl., became the bride of Corp. George J. McMorrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McMorrow, 6124 S. Mozart st. Chaplain Charles J. Brady of Syracuse, N. Y., performed the ceremony.

So that the bride and maid of honor, Lt. Virginia Sullivan of Milwaukee, Wis., could carry flowers, their friends gathered hibiscus blossoms and lilies in the Jap infested jungle close to the hospital where Lt. Molloy is stationed.

The best man was Staff Sgt. Joseph Buonincontro, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Buonincontro of 2519 Wilcox st., Chicago.

After a three day honeymoon at the guest house of 31st division headquarters, McMorrow joined his anti-aircraft unit at Leyte in the Philippines and Mrs. McMorrow returned to the hospital.

The bridegroom, 28, is a graduate of Lindblom High school and a former employe of the Chicago Rapid Transit company.

The bride, 25, also is a graduate of Lindblom. She obtained her nursing training at St. Elizabeth's hospital and served at the Little Company of Mary hospital before she entered the army three years ago last month.

MANY AMERICAN FLYERS RESCUED IN YUGOSLAVIA

ROME, Feb. 15 (AP).—Mysterious radio messages from Yugoslavia that were picked up and decoded by royal air force wireless operators in Italy have led to the rescue of 250 airmen, mostly Americans, who had bailed out over the Balkans during the German occupation.

The sender, a commercial operator, could not give specific details in his message for security reasons. But he referred to the "fist on the wall." This was found to indicate a squadron emblem painted on the wall of its mess. He also sent the army APO number of the United States 15th air force.

After the whereabouts of the hiding airmen was established beyond doubt, the flyers were descued from a secret air field in Yugoslavia. Some airmen were ill.

REDS OUTFLANK BERLIN'S EAST LINE OF DEFENSE

Break-Thru Along 30 Mi. Front in Silesia.

LONDON, Feb. 16 [Friday]—(AP).—The Red army, paced by attacking American heavy bombers, outflanked Berlin's eastern defenses yesterday in a powerful 30 mile break thru which toppled the Brandenburg province stronghold of Sommerfeld, 67 miles from the Reich capital.

After American flyers hit Dresden for the fourth time a Swedish correspondent in Berlin reported to Stockholm that the Saxon capital has been an "inferno" since Tuesday, with thousands of persons killed.

Sweeping across the Bober, Luebst, and Queis rivers south of their confluence with the central Oder, Marshal Konev's 1st Ukraine army cut in behind a 75 mile stretch of the Oder held by the enemy between Fuerstenberg and Neusalz.

Seize 2 Other Strongholds.

The rapid advance from the depths of Silesia, apparently aimed at racing around the Oder line due east of Berlin, also overran the strong points of Sorau, 13 miles southeast of Sommerfeld, and Gruenberg, 25 miles northeast, as well as 150 other places.

Berlin said the Russians already had crossed the Neisse river west of Sommerfeld at a point only 57 miles from Berlin, putting soviet troops 12 miles from the Spree river, last natural defense line guarding Berlin on the southeast. The Spree also flows thru Berlin.

Drive 45 Miles from Dresden.

Front dispatches said that Konev's lower wing had driven to within 45 miles of Dresden, capital of Saxony, after reaching the Neisse river in the area of Goerlitz, 74 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovak capital.

Konev's northern wing was only 28 miles southeast of Fuerstenberg, one of Berlin's outer fortresses already under assault by Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army.

The Russians, in taking Gruenberg and the other two strongholds, destroyed a German bridgehead in a bend of the Oder river southeast of Fuerstenberg and broke the entire German Oder defense line extending down thru Silesia almost to the Czechoslovak border.

A German government spokesman said that Zhukov was building up a great reservoir of supplies and men east of the Fuerstenberg-Frankfurt-Kuestrin line on the Oder where the Russians hold jump-off positions 30 to 40 miles from Berlin.

Reds Capture Chojnice.

In another order of the day Stalin announced the fall of the Polish corridor stronghold of Chojnice, on the Berlin-Danzig railroad and highway 60 miles southwest of Danzig city, as Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian army struck toward the Baltic in an attempt to seal off thousands of enemy troops in Danzig territory and Pomerania.

Most of Poznan, Polish stronghold 100 miles east of besieged Frankfurt, now is in Russian hands, Moscow announced. The city was encircled Jan. 27.

In East Prussia Gen. Cherniakhovsky's 3d White Russian army captured eight more localities on a 20 mile front in gains of up to four miles south of Koenigsberg.

Northwest of Budapest, captured Hungarian capital, soviet forces completed the destruction of isolated enemy groups which had broken out of the western part of the city, and captured 6,650 more prisoners, including three generals, the bulletin said. This raised to nearly 130,000 the number of captives taken in the long siege of Budapest.

STRIKE AHEAD OF REDS

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP).—More than 1,100 American heavy bombers escorted by 450 fighters, carrying the greatest nonstop air attack of the war into its second day, threw their main weight of destruction today against clogged rail yards at Cottbus, 12 miles in front of the onsweeping Russian army.

Nearly 500 bombers hurled some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, aiming at a rail web in the center of the city, where six main lines converge. Extensive rail repair installations also are in the city.

A synthetic oil refinery at Magdeburg, 65 miles southwest of Berlin, was the target for more than 350 bombers making their 12th attack of the war and their second of the week on the plant.

United States heavy bombers from Italy flew into Austria for the third day and attacked communications in the Vienna area.

GERMANY TELLS OF SUFFERING BY REFUGEE HORDES

Millions Fleeing to Central Reich.

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP).—That German refugees now are suffering extreme misery and death was reported officially over the German radio tonight by broadcasters who said that "several millions" of persons from the east were swarming into the central reich.

The total number of fleeing Germans is growing hourly with many of the travelers perishing in the wintry winds, the DNB news agency said.

The Nazi report stated that the "several millions" figure was reached as long as two weeks ago. Even at that time, DNB said, many of those who managed to reach the interior had to be put up in "very primitive quarters."

Many traveled in horse drawn carts, trucks, buses, and railroad freight cars, DNB said, but for many others it was a forced march by foot thru snow and cold. DNB added that the "marchers" were women, children, and the aged. The men were taken into the Volkssturm to battle the Red army. To keep the marchers on the move Nazi helicopters hovered above to spot and report traffic jams.

Goebbels Calls for Bold Defense.

LONDON, Feb. 15 [Reuters].—German Propaganda Minister Goebbels writing in this week's Das Reich, told his readers that a nation resolved to use the most daring and boldest means in the defense of its life cannot be beaten.

"It can continue the war indefinitely, at least until its enemies realize they cannot reach their goal without endangering their own existence," Goebbels said.

"There is only one salvation in our position — courage. Courage alone will win the victory."

FRENCH RELIEF QUIZ REPORTED BEGUN BY F.D.R.

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt is having an investigation made of the reputed failure of American relief for France's civilians to be distributed this winter as reported promised to the French government, reliable persons said today.

Samuel I. Rosenman, special adviser to the President, has been charged with this task, these sources said.

There is no official word whether the President will come to France, but many persons here expect him to come and preparations have been made to receive him.

Other representatives of the President, in addition to Rosenman, also have been investigating the relief situation.

Army Chiefs Silent.

No statement was available on the subject at allied supreme headquarters, but it appears likely the matter eventually will be brought into the open.

Supreme headquarters did, however, inquire into an Associated Press dispatch of yesterday which reported the statements of reliable informants that the civilian food relief program in France had never been put into effect as designed, and that the President was considerably exercised over the situation.

In French official quarters it was said that only one-fourth of the food, clothing and medical supplies promised France had been delivered. A responsible official said that unless France receives substantial assistance for her industry within three months, the nation's entire economy is liable to collapse.

"No Information" at Rome.

ROME, Feb. 15 (AP).—The American embassy and allied headquarters said tonight they had no information that President Roosevelt was in Italy. They were commenting on Paris reports that the President was expected to visit this country.

F. D. R. Hails "Peace Guarantee."

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt's farewell message to Premier Stalin at the conclusion of the Crimea conference predicted the people of the world would see the results of the meeting "as a real guarantee that our three great nations can work in the peace just as well as in the war." The text of the message was broadcast from Moscow tonight.

SMASHED RAIL YARDS TIE UP GERMAN TROOP MOVES IN YUGOSLAVIA

ROME, Feb. 15 (AP).—The Germans toiled today to get their battered Balkan army out of Yugoslavia for use against the Russians after day-long attacks yesterday by American and British bombers had left the Zagreb-Vienna escape route littered with the wreckage of military trains.

The allied craft struck heavy blows at enemy movements northward toward Vienna. Escorting Lightning fighters shot up 12 heavily-loaded troop trains.

Ground action in Italy continued to be limited to patrol clashes except at the extreme western end of the front, where enemy raids and a small infiltration forced American troops to withdraw a short distance between the villages of Stretoia and Seravezza. Brazilian troops repulsed a German patrol near Africo, 27 miles southwest of Bologna. Both sides kept up a lively artillery fire all along the front.

WACWHO TURNED IN A.W.O.L. MATE GIVEN DIVORCE

Mrs. Mary Burns, 25, of 6053 S. Mason av., who is in the medical division of the WAC, was granted a divorce by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday from Seaman Raymond J. Burns of the navy. She said their wedding on March 11, 1943, was a "furlough marriage" and that they spent only one week-end together. He called at her home three weeks later while A. W. O. L. from his base in Madison, Wis., and struck her, she said, because she notified the shore patrol.

POLAND WON'T O. K. PARTITION, PREMIER SAYS

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Poland will never surrender to slavery or to the new partition of the country even tho this time it is at the hands of its allies, Premier Tomasz Arciszewski said at a press conference here today.

Explaining his government's rejection of the Big Three proposal to give a slice of eastern Poland to Russia, the elderly, bearded premier asserted that no free election could be held while the country was under the domination of the Red army, secret police, and propaganda agencies.

Four Millions out of Poland.

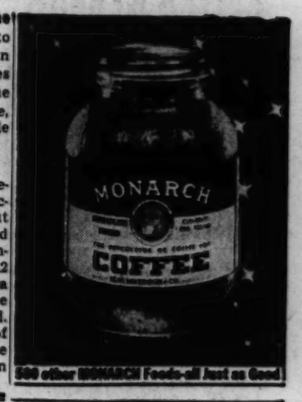

Arciszewski said that four to five million Poles had been sent either to Germany to work or deported to Russia. Many were patriots removed from Poland for political reasons. This, he said, was another factor making a just election impossible.

When asked if his government proposed to take action, the premier said there are 150,000 Poles in the land, sea, and air forces of the allies. Altho he did not elaborate, many observers in London believe the disposition of the troops, who have sworn allegiance to the exile regime, may become a knotty problem for the allies.

Arciszewski insisted that his London government is legal and constitutional and cannot resign as the result of any outside decision by the Big Three which would amount to accepting dismissal by foreign hands. If this government does maintain itself and at the same time the Big Three set up a new one, the Polish army will have to decide which one it is fighting for.

Believed Anti-Russian.

Nearly all Polish soldiers are believed to be anti-Russian, not necessarily on ideological grounds, but because most of them were interned by the Reds in 1939-'40 under conditions of great hardship. In 1942 they were allowed to leave Russia thru Iran en route to the middle east, where the army was formed. It is uncertain what the reaction of these troops will be if they are forced to serve under the Russian dominated Polish government.

PONTOON SPANS ON PASIG BUILT BY ILLINOISANS

Jap Shells Burst as They Lay Bridges.

BY DONALD STARR.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 14 [Delayed].—A few Illinois boys who are in the 530th engineers, a light pontoon bridge building unit, today were sitting alongside their masterpiece, waiting for new rivers to cross.

These soldiers of construction have thrown bridges across a score of rivers from Lingayen to Manila within hours of destruction of the permanent structures by the retreating Japs. Guns at their sides, they have spearheaded bridge building units which speeded American troops into the capital.

Tonight they stood on the banks of the Pasig river removing from the pneumatic floats bodies of Jap dead which drift down the river. These boys, many of them from Chicago, were inducted at Camp Grant. They are proud of being the first to span this river bisecting Manila.

Build Foot Bridge First.

Six days ago our troops of the 37th infantry division, to which these engineers are attached, halted briefly on the north bank, then started fording the Pasig. Enemy mortars, dual purpose anti-aircraft guns, and artillery pinned down our foot soldiers. After the bridge was built and heavy weapons were hauled across the Nip artillery was silenced in fierce fighting.

When the engineers had pulled up at the river with their equipment they found the infantry men wading in the water up to their necks and carrying their rifles above their heads.

First a foot bridge was thrown across on cork floats to aid the riflemen. While this was going on outboard motors were attached to pneumatic boats and lashed together to make a ferry capable of carrying a two and a half ton truck and weapons on each trip.

Within three hours weapons and tanks were moving across the river on tracks laid on rubber boats while enemy shells burst over their heads.

All night the young engineers, who had been truck drivers and clerks, labored to move an army across. Still they could not sleep. Maintenance is part of their job, and thru the day they kept the bridge together within a few score yards of our outposts.

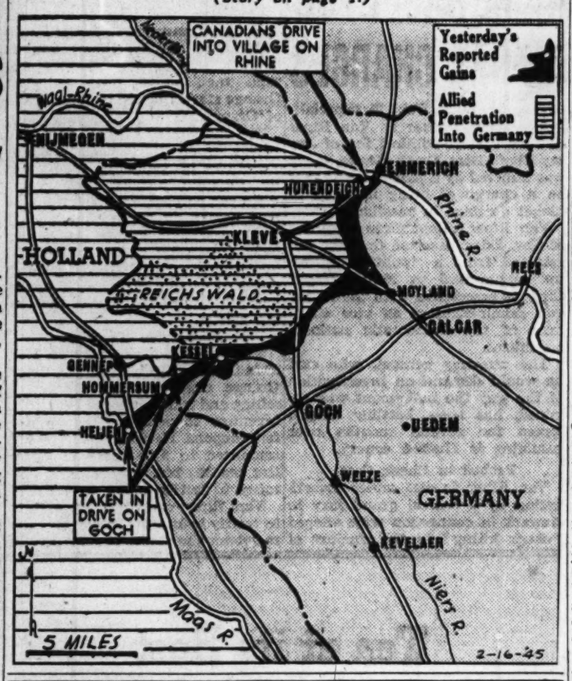

Relatives Set Free.

Next day they had time to tell their story. Resting at one end of the 312 foot span near some battered trucks were Robert Grant of Homewood, Ill.; James W. Musser, Beecher City, Ill.; Wilburn J. Black, 7923 Jeffery av., Chicago; Francis Callaghan, 7925 Luella av., Chicago; Patrick Byrne, 1054 W. 79th st., Chicago; Wayne Leach, Decatur, Ill.; Harold C. Hurliman, Quincy, Ill., and Sgt. Francis Huff, Table Grove, Ill.

Callaghan was especially happy. In Bilibid prison a few blocks away, he had just been reunited with his aunt and uncle, who had been moved there from Baguio internment camp by the Japs a month before. Anxious as he was to see them, he didn't interrupt his work until military traffic was moving across the bridge.

Bombings, Red Drives Reduce Nazi Oil Output 80 Per Cent

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Feb. 15. American and British bombing of German synthetic oil plants and refineries coupled with Russian advances, has reduced German gasoline production to one-fifth of what it was 10 months ago, it was announced officially here today. It is believed the Nazis no longer have any strategic reserves.

Germany, according to estimates here, used 120,000 tons of gasoline between Dec. 15 and Jan. 15, but is producing not more than 103,000 tons a month.

German war strength, it was asserted here, has been weakened tremendously on every front because of a lack of oil and gasoline. The German air force has suffered due to a lack of flying hours on the part of their pilots.

Selected 81 Targets.

In February last year, when the strategic bombing of German oil plants began, the high command selected 81 targets, 23 of which were synthetic oil plants and 58 refineries. When the attacks started the Germans showed a great capacity for rebuilding but that has been so reduced that it is now taking the Germans months to do what they were able to do in weeks before allied drives in the east and west overran 36 of the oil plants.

Altho German synthetic plants and refineries have been going underground, confidence was expressed that production from this source can never meet the army's needs.

Can Find Some Gasoline.

Despite the havoc wrought to the German oil production plants, responsible military authorities assert that the German oil position can never be so depleted that the Germans cannot find enough to mount a large scale offensive on either the western or eastern front.

In the Ardennes offensive, in which the Germans used two panzer armies, they were supplied with 2½ units of fuel—this means sufficient to carry all units in the two armies about 155 miles. They counted on capturing huge American 1st army supplies—but failed in this.

Military authorities attribute the fact that much German armor and transport was stalled because of a lack of fuel, not to a general shortage but to the destruction by the United States 9th air force of enemy supply lines which made it impossible for the Germans to get gasoline up to their forward elements.

JAP AMERICAN LEGION BARRED DIES A U. S. HERO

U. S. ARMY PACIFIC HDQ., Feb. 15 (AP).—Frank T. Hachiya, 25, of Portland, Ore., one of 16 Japanese Americans whose names have been stricken from the county memorial roll by the Hood River, Ore., American Legion post, died while performing a dangerous volunteer mission, the army reported today.

Hachiya, attached to the 7th division, was fatally wounded on Leyte Dec. 30. He died Jan. 3 after most of the men in his regiment volunteered to give him blood transfusions. Lt. Howard Moss, Hachiya's commanding officer, said Frank volunteered to cross a valley under Japanese fire to scout an enemy position. The regiment was in a tough spot. Information on enemy position was essential. At the bottom of the valley Frank worked ahead of his protecting patrol.

"A Jap sniper let Frank have it at close range," Moss related. "Frank emptied his gun into the sniper. Shot thru the abdomen, Frank walked back up the hill. Medics gave him plasma and started him to a hospital. He was operated on immediately, but the bullet had gone thru his liver and he died."

HEART AILMENT IS ON INCREASE, EXPERT FINDS

Coronary occlusion, a heart ailment considered peculiar to the middle aged executive type of man, is increasing in younger men in the army, Dr. Irving S. Wright, consultant in medicine with the 6th service command, told members of the Chicago Heart association at its 23d annual meeting last night in the Chicago Engineers' club.

Dr. Wright cited records of 100 such fatal cases in soldiers under 36. He said 73 of 80 cases studied before death were overweight and that of 39 in which an autopsy showed heart scars, only six previously had reported to sick call. The speaker pointed to these statistics as proof that more attention should be given to coronary conditions in young people.

Award Des Plaines Hero Silver Star for Bravery

WITH THE U. S. 83D INFANTRY DIVISION, Feb. 15 (AP).—Pvt. Wilber C. Miller of Des Plaines, Ill., who killed at least 70 Germans and stopped a German counter-attack before he himself was killed on Dec. 15 near Dueren, has been awarded the silver star, it was announced today. His commander also has recommended award of the distinguished service cross.

PATIENT PLUNGES 6 FLOORS TO DEATH. Richard Howard, 75, of 9341 La Salle st., a Negro, who entered County hospital Tuesday for treatment of a heart ailment, plunged to his death yesterday from a window in his sixth floor room, police disclosed.

UP AT FRONT, RED CROSS GIRLS ARE YANKS' DELIGHT

DRIVE STARTS MARCH 1.
The national Red Cross war fund drive starts March 1 with a goal of $200,000,000. The Chicago area quota is $11,300,000. The following story is one concerning Red Cross activities abroad printed at the request of Red Cross headquarters.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 15.—Red Cross clubmobiles with their pretty and hard working American girls doling out wise cracks, swing music, doughnuts, and coffee, are among the biggest morale boosters for the fighting troops. Combat soldiers support this opinion by calling for the doughnut girls as soon as their outfits return from the front lines.

Every day on the way to the front you pass the clubmobiles surrounded by crowds of laughing soldiers. You'll hear them long before you see them for the clubmobile turns on its phonograph and loud speakers as soon as the driver stops.

Often the boys will take over the clubmobile themselves having come to regard them with a proprietary interest. Then while the G. I.s make the doughnuts and coffee, and scrub the floors, the three girl crew will be jitterbugging with their buddies.

That's part of the girls' act along with their steady stream of chatter and ready smiles. But if you think it's easy, try jitterbugging in snow, mud, and slush with a line of husky combat troops while you're wearing combat boots, galoshes, and rabbit skin fur jackets over your own uniform.

These girls too, are not stumped when broken down roads halt their heavy clubmobiles. Regardless of weather, they'll load containers full of hot doughnuts and coffee, take along a portable phonograph, and bounce on forward in a jeep or a weapon carrier.

Most sections and groups work out of corps or division headquarters where they live under the same conditions as the officers.

Date G. I.s at Front.

Whereas in the United Kingdom the girls are restricted to dating officers, over here they may date any G. I. or officer in the evening after work. This system seems to work very well, at least the G. I.s certainly flock around the girls whenever they can.

Another section of 15 girls, four clubmobiles, and a supply truck works out of army headquarters under Miss Lillian Phillips, of Aldan, Pa. This group's job is to serve army troops such as ack-ack [anti-aircraft fire] batteries, combat engineers, truck companies, ordnance, and signal.

Recently Miss Phillips' section has been serving evacuation hospitals, serving doughnuts and coffee in all the wards. Doctors say their visits, which supplement those of the Red Cross girls attached to every hospital, do more than anything else to raise the spirits of the wounded.

Serving with Miss Phillips are Mary Schwartz, Quincy, Ill.; Susan Coolidge, Detroit; Virginia Weisbrod, Princeton, Minn.; Alice Felty, Faith, S. D.; Peggy Hippee, Des Moines; Annelle Anderson, Franklin, Tenn.; Harriet Brownell, Cambridge, N. Y.; Miriam Minton, Metuchen, N. J.; Helen MacGregor, New York City; Elizabeth Dubois, Spokane, Wash.; Gretchen Yaffe, Brookline, Mass.; Anne Edge, Baltimore, Md.; Anne McKee Jack, Bronxville, N. Y., and Alice Schramm, New Orleans.

The Red Cross pays them $150 a month to start and $25 more when they are made a first class captain. The Red Cross supplies flour, lard, sugar, milk, coffee, and cigarets. The army cares for the vehicles, provides fuel, arranges billets, and provides the meals for which the Red Cross is billed.

In addition to the clubmobiles near the front, each division and regiment has its male Red Cross field directors who live with the troops and share their dangers and hardships. It is their job to handle the soldiers' domestic difficulties, to lend money, to keep an extra supply of cigarets and PX rations for emergencies, and to provide a sympathetic shoulder for all soldier gripes.

REPORT FRENCH MASS TROOPS AT LEBANON PORTS

Arabs' Meeting in Cairo Called by Britain.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 15 (AP).—Altho the Crimean conference ended without official mention of the middle east, information reaching here indicates that, as the war rolls farther from the Levant, internal problems are rising to the surface and threaten an explosion.

The French are reported bringing reinforcements by sea to Lebanese ports. The British have called Arabs together in Cairo in an effort to revive last fall's pan-Arab convention, which failed to establish an Arab federation because, one account said, the British insisted the federation contract should provide for tight relations with Britain.

New Leaders in Power.

The failure of the first meeting of British-backed chiefs of Arab countries to create a federation was followed by the fall from power of all its principal figures except Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia. He subsequently was visited by Egypt's King Farouk.

New leaders now are in power everywhere else in the middle east, but the new attempt to get the federation back on its original basis is running into strong French, Jewish, and possibly Russian opposition. The position of the United States is not clear, but Washington gave no support to the first federation conference.

This is the picture according to reliable information reaching here:

The worst sore spots are Syria, where the French are trying to re-establish their mandate grip, and Palestine, where Jewish opposition to the British policy of severe limitation of Jewish immigration is stiffening.

Holding 1,600 Jews.

The British now are holding 1,600 Jews in prison or in concentration camps for illegal immigration or sympathy with the Moyne assassination. The assassination and the subsequent collaboration of the Palestine Jewish agency with the British in the arrests that followed have weakened the Jewish agency's position in Palestine and have strengthened the standing of the Washington centered Hebrew committee of national liberation.

This committee seeks an autonomous Palestinian Hebrew nation and unrestricted immigration while that is being granted.

Jewish officials here predict an early outbreak of Jewish discontent in Palestine.

RUSSIA SHAPES WORLD LABOR'S STAND ON JAPAN

LONDON, Feb. 15 [Reuters].—A resolution that called for the allies to prosecute the war against Japan until the Japs' unconditional surrender was amended by the World Trade Union conference here at the request of Vasili Kuznetsov, leader of the soviet delegation. The amendment was made after the resolution had been presented to the conference as a committee's unanimous recommendation. On this committee were two Russian delegates.

As amended and unanimously accepted by the conference, the resolution now reads: "The war against Japan must be prosecuted by the nations at war with her with the same vigor as the war in Europe until unconditional surrender is wrested from her as well."

Another reference in the resolution to "mankind's deliverance from the Nazi and Japanese savages" was amended to read "mankind's deliverance from the aggressors."

A third reference to the Japanese war in the resolution, asking for maximum assistance to the Chinese people against the Japanese, was restricted to "the countries at war with Japan" already in the original draft.

Brings Bride Home

Gene Filip, 24, radio station W-G-N news editor, returned to Chicago yesterday with his bride, Lt. [j. g.] Dorothy G. McKinley, navy nurse, whom he met while on leave in Sydney, Australia, in September, 1943, when he was serving overseas as a bombardier with the army air forces. Their marriage took place last Saturday in Portland, Ore., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burr McKinley, live. Mrs. Filip is finishing four years of duty in the navy. She has been overseas 19 months, serving the last seven months in New Guinea, and she will report in Washington, D. C., at the end of her 30 days overseas leave.

Filip, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicklas Filip, 1503 Nelson st., first came to work as an office boy at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE while he was still in school. He was graduated from Lake View High school and Wright Junior college. He was a news writer for W-G-N before enlisting in the air forces in January, 1942. He was commissioned a year later and completed 34 missions on a Liberator bomber before being wounded so seriously he was discharged. He holds the silver star, and oak leaf cluster, the air medal, and Purple Heart.

LT. (j. g.) HICKEY, FLYER IN WAVES, WINS PROMOTION

Mrs. Catherine S. Hickey, assistant flight training officer on the staff of Rear Adm. O. B. Hardison, chief of naval air primary training, with headquarters at the Glenview naval air station, has been promoted from lieutenant [junior grade] to lieutenant.

Lt. Catherine S. Hickey

Lt. Hickey, who has several thousand flying hours to her credit and who qualified as the first woman flight instructor in the army air primary training program, was commissioned in the WAVES in August, 1943. After learning to fly in 1939 she became a CAA instructor in 1940 and later became chief pilot for a large civilian pilot training school.

Lt. Hickey is a native of Tiflis, Russia, and is married to Capt. N. Glenn Hickey of the army medical corps, now with the 3d army in Luxemburg. Her daughter is the wife of a navy flyer now serving aboard an aircraft carrier.

SURFACE AND 'L' LINE UNITY PLAN UNDER ICC STUDY

Members of the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday began informal discussions of the so-called trustees' plan for the unification of the surface and elevated lines. Submission of the plan to the commission was made under orders of Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court, who is in charge of the two companies in bankruptcy. He asked a report on the matter by March 16. John D. Biggs, commission chairman, said he would not talk about the plan until it had been studied.

MIAMI VISITORS AGAIN FIGHT FOR RAIL RIDE HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—The annual rush for first class travel accommodations by tourists who want to get back home is on again at this winter haven. Hundreds of them daily are standing in line at railroad and airplane ticket offices to make reservations for New York, Washington, D. C., Chicago, and other northern points.

Railroad officials say a tourist no more alights from the train on arrival here than he telephones or stands in line during the early morning hours to make arrangements for his return home. When he finally gets his reservation "he first seems to begin to enjoy his vacation," officials say.

Reservations on the two available railroads, the Florida East Coast and the Seaboard Airline, are sold out 30 days in advance. Each morning the East Coast and Seaboard lines open their ticket offices at 6 a. m. and find a long line of customers waiting to make reservations for 30 days from that date, since none can be made for more than 30 days in advance.

Sold Out in Half Hour.

Within half an hour after each ticket office has opened the available reservations are sold out.

Many of those clamoring for tickets are reported to have stood in line every morning for as long as a week before getting reservations.

Railroad officials forecast a long season if visitors continue to insist on special travel accommodations. Both sets of officials state "anybody can go anywhere at any time, from Miami, if they will use the train facilities available for them, rather than insist on sleeping car or special streamliner service."

The military services continue to reserve the largest part of the special plane and train accommodations, so but a small part of these services are available for civilians.

8,000 More Hotel Rooms.

Miami and Miami Beach officials estimate there are 8,000 more hotel rooms available than last year, due to release by the army. Until Jan. 15, hotel managers of the nearly 600 hotels in greater Miami experienced their annual "jitters" lest their hotel space might not be sold out. On the 15th, the rush of tourists was on.

In Miami proper, the situation is still more serious because service men's families, who can't afford the more sumptuous hotel accommodations can hardly find proper places to live. The Miami chamber of commerce has received aid in alleviating the situation from folks who have never opened their homes to roomers before. Some smaller and less expensive hotel accommodations are still available in the suburbs but most of the service men's families want a kitchen for cooking, so they can keep expenses down.

TWO BROTHERS FROM CHICAGO MEET IN EUROPE

Lt. Robert J. Quinn, a base fire marshal in the navy and former Tribune hero award winner as a city fireman, recently met his brother, Edward, of the United States army, in Belgium, his family here learned yesterday. Lt. Quinn, whose home is at 648 W. 57th st., was a fire department lieutenant when he was commissioned in the navy in 1942. He has been cited twice for work "well done" in fighting fires since he joined the navy.

Denies Everything

[Acme Photo.]

VILMA SUBERLY.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 15 (AP).—The 26 year old woman accused of marrying eight or nine men appeared before the United States commissioner today and stuck firmly to her story that her husbands number only one.

Vilma Suberly identified her husband as Chief Electrician's Mate Roy Suberly, "who was somewhere around Cuba in the navy when I last heard of him two years ago." She said she'd married one other man. "But he's dead, so that doesn't count."

Calm during most of the hearing, she told United States Commissioner Robert A. Leedy: "I don't shed tears very often, but make that bond as low as possible, please." Bond was set at $2,500, and the case was continued until Friday.

Earlier she termed FBI charges against her "baloney." "The only thing they can stick me on is that I didn't pay any income tax last year," she remarked glumly.

FEDERAL JURORS NAME HAGUE FOE ON GAS CHARGES

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 15 [Special].—Atty. Gen. Walter D. Van Riper of New Jersey, political foe of Jersey City's Boss Frank Hague, today was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of being involved in illegal dealings in gasoline.

Van Riper, a Republican appointee of Gov. Edge, asserted the true bill resulted from a "political frame-up" engineered by Mayor Hague thru his association with the Roosevelt administration as vice chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The attorney general, who said he would demand an investigation of the way the indictment was obtained, has been battling Hague forces for several months over gambling in Hudson county.

Probed in Check Case.

Van Riper is also under investigation by a federal grand jury in Newark in connection with alleged "check kiting" in the conduct of his personal bank account. The investigation recently was described by Gov. Edge as "personal persecution of the attorney general because of his refusal to pull his punches in Hudson county."

Van Riper was named in today's indictment returned to Judge Philip Forman as an individual and as head of the Imperial Service Station, Inc., which owns a West Orange station leased to John Praml of Orange.

The indictment charges that Van Riper, as an individual, permitted violations of rationing regulations by Imperial Service and Praml. With the corporation and Praml, he was named on seven counts of illegal possession of gas ration coupons, possession of five counterfeit inventory coupons, possessing stolen goods by having inventory coupons, and selling gasoline at over the ceiling prices.

Contractor Testifies.

The Trenton grand jury on Nov. 30 indicted William H. Miller, South Orange contractor on charges of selling and transferring to Praml the inventory coupons and the counterfeit coupons. He was convicted and sentenced to four years in prison last month, but was brought here today to testify, along with Praml.

Van Riper sought unsuccessfully to testify before the grand jury and to submit the names of four persons who, he said, would refute any damaging testimony Miller might have given against him. He told Taylor E. Richardson, grand jury foreman, in a letter that the four could "prove conclusively that any such testimony by Miller is palpably and deliberately false and given for an obviously sinister purpose on his part."

99 MILLION TONS AIN'T HAY!
Nor are the millions who do the haying

IT takes a lot of people to pitch America's annual hay crop—and milk our cows, shuck our corn, ride our herds, raise our poultry, sheep, hogs . . .

Agriculture engages more people than our 10 next-largest industries combined. Today, especially, agriculture needs manpower, for it is farming's task not only to feed America, but feed fighting Americans overseas, and many of their Allied comrades.

Never have American farmers carried so great a responsibility, nor, on the other hand, risen to their responsibility with such productiveness. Last year's farm production hit another all-time high, swelling the farmer's total income to an estimated 27.9 billions! No other industry ever produced so much in twelve months.

The American people should know the farmer better, see this Colossus in his true stature. He's not only America's biggest producer, but one of industry's biggest customers—and one of its greatest post-war prospects.

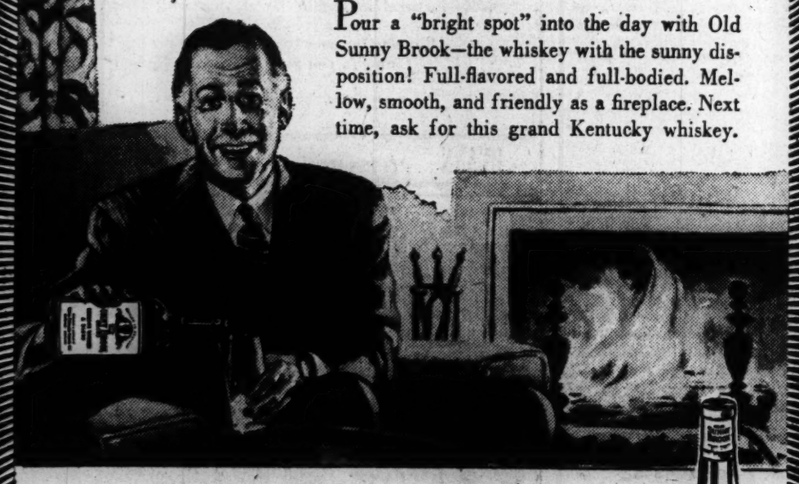

Our farmers are today enjoying a new and important economic position. Parity prices are assured. Farm mortgages are being paid off. And latest records show farmers have savings of over 12½ billions! Their cash is rapidly accumulating for the products of post-war America.

And this is well. For our whole people's prosperity depends on the earning power and buying power of our farmers. Business can never provide its share of the necessary post-war jobs unless the farmer is able to buy the products of American industry—and is well informed about those products.

What business can ignore the farmer's strength?

EX-U.S. LAW CHIEF PLEADS CASE OF BILL JOHNSON

Retrial for Gambler Asked by Cummings.

Homer S. Cummings, former United States attorney general, appeared in the federal Circuit Court of Appeals here yesterday and argued for a new trial in behalf of William R. [Big Bill] Johnson, former gambling czar, now under five year sentence for income tax evasion.

Johnson, who has filed many court actions and appeals since his conviction in October, 1940, is appealing from a decision of District Judge John P. Barnes denying him a new trial. The gambler sought another trial on the ground that newly discovered evidence tended to prove that Atty. William Goldstein, chief government witness, had perjured himself in the trial.

Four Defendants in Court.

Three of Johnson's co-defendants, Jack Sommers, James A. Hartigan, and William P. Kelly, who got lesser sentences, also joined in the appeal. All four were in court. United States Atty. Woll and his assistant, Earle C. Hurley, appeared for the government.

Cummings based his arguments on the ground that Judge Barnes erred when he did not grant a new trial on the 38 affidavits filed by Johnson in District court to show that Atty. Goldstein had committed perjury when he testified that he [Goldstein] had purchased the Albany Park Bank building for the gambler.

"Since the trial, Atty. Goldstein's son, Theodore, who holds title, has paid income tax on the profits and has leased a part of the building to a tenant for 10 years," Cummings continued.

"Goldstein, who was under indictment with Johnson and the others, was necessary to the government as a witness. His indictment was dismissed and several days later he appeared to testify. It is easily seen how he could be coerced, because he was between the devil and the deep blue sea.

Declares Injustice Has Been Done.

"I would not have come here to argue this case if I did not believe that a great injustice had been done."

Atty. Hurley was frequently interrupted by Judges J. Earl Major, William M. Sparks and Sherman Minton, who showed a keen interest in the tax returns filed and the management of the property.

After the oral arguments ended, the court announced that its decision would be filed later.

FARMER LOSES HIS COURT FIGHT TO LEAVE ARMY

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 15 (AP).—Pvt. James D. Lawrence, 24, Barrington, Ill., farmer, stationed at the McCook, Neb., army air field, today lost his attempt to gain release from the army on the ground he should have been deferred for agricultural reasons.

In claims for deferment under selective service "the primary interest to be sought is that of the national defense, rather than the welfare or necessities of the registrant," Federal Judge John W. Delehant held in upholding the government's motion to dismiss Pvt. Lawrence's petition.

Judge Delehant also noted the "tardiness" of the plaintiff's petition, which was filed a year and one day after he was inducted. He said "the more nearly a conscripted soldier unquestionably allows his military service to approach the imminence of combat, the less favorably should a court appraise his charge of the invalidity of his induction."

Lawrence testified at a Jan. 25 hearing that he farmed 260 acres in 1943. He was inducted Dec. 8, 1943.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Grace Kinney, 922 S. Mason av.]

THE QUESTION.

What trait or American custom do you find most unusual?

WHERE ASKED.

Service center 2, Congress st. and Michigan av. [Asked of leading aircraftsmen of Central band, royal air force.]

THE ANSWERS.

Leonard Silk, London, England—Here in America they make tea in a very peculiar way. They serve a hot cup of water with a tea bag in it. Over in England we don't have tea bags. The tea is made in a big pot and served steaming hot. It tastes better that way, because it stays hotter.

Arthur Cooter, London, England—Dancing to the music of juke boxes is certainly unusual. At home we don't have any juke boxes, which is probably the reason we don't use them. We have dinner music in hotels and restaurants, but it usually is a small group of string instruments or some one playing a piano.

Norman H. Middleton, London, England—The houses here are very warm. Americans are accustomed to much warmer living quarters. In England the men wear woolen underwear and heavier clothes. Our heating systems consist of fireplaces, but here every house has central heating.

Clinton French, London, England—I'd always heard of the way Americans chew gum, but was surprised to find that it's all true. It's catching on in England. Children asked the Yanks, "Have you got any gum, chum?" When the Yanks gave all they had, they'd ask the youngsters, "Got any gum, chum?"

Leonard Hirsch, London, England—The girls here start wearing make-up at a very early age. I've seen 15 and 16 year old girls wearing it. Our girls never wear make-up while they are going to school, or not until they are around 17. They wear much less make-up than the girls over here.

Dick Walthew, London, England—Methods of eating are so strange. We hold the fork in our left hand and our knife in our right. When we finish using our knife we leave the fork in our left hand. If the English girls go to dinner with Yanks, it's a problem to the former whether they should eat with left or right hand.

$3,493 JUDGMENT ON LOOP SHOP.

Judge William J. Campbell in federal District court yesterday approved a consent judgment for $3,493 against Harry Bishop and his wife, Rhoda, owners of a wholesale clothing firm at 318 Adams st., and issued an injunction restraining them from over ceiling sales of women's and misses' apparel.

ICKES' DEFEAT ON CUT IN TAXES JOLT FOR 30,000

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Thirty thousand taxpayers in Cook county may have to go to heavy legal expense to benefit from reductions on 1943 taxes granted to them. This interpretation was made by tax experts of a ruling yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on State's Atty. Touhy's request for a specific order to sell for unpaid taxes a State street store building owned by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior. To get the benefit of reductions certified after the time limit had expired, Judge Jarecki said informally later, taxpayers will have to sue in chancery [Circuit or Superior] courts.

Ickes, sometimes called Honest Harold, applied to the county board of tax appeals last September for a reduced assessment on the building at 231-33 S. State st. Among the representations made in his behalf were that the building was of three instead of five stories and that the gross rental was $24,000 instead of $61,000 a year. Assessor Clark proved the five stories of the building and the higher gross rental, and moved to restore the old assessment.

Board Accepts Ickes Evidence.

Taking the Ickes evidence as presented, the board of appeals granted a reduction of the last half of his 1943 taxes from $10,283 to $6,009, a slash of $4,274. The certification of the new assessment by the board was made after Judge Jarecki had entered a judgment for the tax sale of many thousands of properties that were delinquent as to 1943 taxes.

As recorded in the judgment, the county treasurer was to sell the Ickes building for the full amount of $10,283 due at that time. By order of State's Atty. Tuohy, his assistants, Jacob Shamberg and Gordon Nash, yesterday went before County court and asked that County Treasurer Schlaeger be directed to sell the Ickes building for that amount. They contended that the court judgment was not satisfied by the $6,009 payment, made in January.

Tuohy Contention Upheld.

Judge Jarecki upheld the state contention. He said that ample notice had been given the taxpayers involved and that they had had the right to object within 30 days after his judgment was issued in November. Nonobjectors, he said, had lost the right to further objection on Dec. 26. He added that neither the board of appeals nor the treasurer could interfere with his judgment order, which must be complied with.

Judge Jarecki also ruled that tax sales must be made in proper order. The treasurer is now selling properties in his warrant book No. 3 and the Ickes building is in book No. 508. The court indicated that, when the proper time comes, the sale would have to be held to collect the additional $4,274, unless paid in full.

BLACK MARKET IN MEAT LAID TO MARHOEFER CO.

The Marhoefer Packing company, one of the largest independent meat dealers in the middle west, was accused of operating a black market in processed meats and with falsifying records to cover more than four million red ration points in suspension proceedings filed yesterday by the office of price administration.

The proceedings filed with the regional OPA hearing commissioner name, in addition to the packing company operated by John H. Marhoefer and his wife, Elfreda, the John H. Marhoefer company, wholesalers at 837 Fulton st., operated by John Marhoefer's father, Michael, and the dissolved Marhoefer Packing Company, Inc.

Seek $100,000 Triple Damages.

In another action filed in federal District court, the OPA seeks triple damages of at least $100,000 against the concerns, all their records, and the freezing of their ration bank accounts so that no more ration currency checks may be drawn against them.

Marion Isbell, Chicago area OPA director, and Homer Clay, chief OPA enforcement officer here, charged that alleged violations by the concerns included overceiling prices on sales of meats to peddlers and wholesalers, sales of war time meat without collecting ration points, and the overdraft of ration banking accounts, concealed by alleged falsification of records, which gave the concerns 10 million points to operate with instead of the six million they had been given.

Owner Denies Charges.

Clay accused the packing company of keeping a double set of books, one in complete compliance with OPA regulations.

The black market charges were denied by John Marhoefer. The packing company is at 816 Fulton st. Preliminary hearing before Commissioner Kenneth Lemmer has been set for Feb. 23.

Clay said John H. Marhoefer formerly operated the concern at 837 Fulton st. but sold it to his father Feb. 5, less than a week after the son had acquired a new plant by buying a branch of the Kuhner Packing company at Fort Wayne, Ind.

CENTRAL TIME FOR MICHIGAN BECOMES LAW

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP).—Gov. Kelly today signed a bill making central war time legal for Michigan beginning March 17, but Detroit and several other cities are expected to retain their existent "fast" time schedules.

The statute contains no provision for punishment of any person, corporation or municipality choosing to operate on a time other than central war, and officials in Detroit, Ann Arbor, and Pontiac have indicated they intend to retain eastern

AFL'S OPEN DOOR TO LEWIS STICKS ON KNOTTY ISSUE

Readmittance Held Up by Council Seat Demand.

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—Because John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers' union, demanded that a UMW member be included on the executive board of the American Federation of Labor, the UMW still was out of the AFL as the board wound up its midwinter meeting tonight.

The council, however, notified Lewis that the door was open if he would withdraw his stipulation.

William Green, AFL president, said no meeting had been arranged with Lewis, but he intimated that if Lewis would withdraw his demand, a special council meeting would be called to readmit the miners to the federation.

Council "Helpers."

Green explained that the council did not have the power to place any one on the board unless a vacancy occurred between conventions. "Since no vacancy exists at present, the council was helpless to deal with Lewis' demand," Green said.

Several council members who have been friendly with Lewis since he took the UMW out of the AFL in 1935 to form the CIO expressed disappointment with Lewis' attitude. They accused Lewis of being "petty" in his demands.

They expressed the belief that Lewis would recede from his present demand and that he would be back in the AFL soon.

Replies to Murray.

The council officially affirmed Green's answer sent to Philip Murray, president of the CIO, last December when Murray asked the AFL to join with the CIO in collaboration on legislative and political matters. Green invited the CIO to unite with the AFL in a "real way" by bringing its membership into the AFL.

Green reported that the council had voted to request the government to allow the AFL to be represented at the conference called by the Big Three for April 25 at San Francisco, Cal. The AFL board decided to send a delegation to the conference "to present its views on the establishment of world peace and post-war problems, even if its bid for an invitation was turned down," Green said.

PLANE'S FLIGHT COURSE FIGURED BY ROBOT BRAIN

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—A new flying instrument which figures out longitude and latitude mile by mile as a plane flies and shows them on the pilot's instrument board was disclosed today by the Bendix Aviation corporation with army and navy sanction.

Super Fortresses have been using these instruments on their flights to Japan.

This new robot brain is about the size of a quart milk bottle. It picks up two facts as the plane flies. One is the pressure of the wind, a force that depends on the plane's speed. The brain changes this pressure into speed and shows how far the plane has flown.

A magnetized triangle picks up the plane's direction by the angle at which the triangle cuts thru the earth's invisible lines of magnetic force.

SMITTY

Fine Suspended

Mrs. Mabel Mandes, 46, who is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds, in Judge Braude's court yesterday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Mabel Mandes, 46, of 5400 N. Campbell av., was so annoyed Tuesday when the Lincoln av. street car on which she was riding stopped at Berwyn av., instead of proceeding to the end of the line, that she struck Reginald Park, the conductor, and pushed him from the car, Park told Judge J. M. Braude in Women's court yesterday.

Reginald Park.

Mrs. Mandes, who is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds, denied striking the conductor, who weighs 145 pounds, and said he raised his transfer punch as tho to strike her. Judge Braude ordered a suspended fine of $1 placed against Mrs. Mandes on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Mandes operates the La Salle hotel flower shop.

YANK DENIES HE PLANS KINGDOM WITH HULA GIRL

Elyria, O., Feb. 15 (AP).—Mrs. Sarah Willemson, 37, says she knew her soldier husband was "only kidding" when he sent her a picture of himself posing with a South sea island girl and asked his freedom to marry the native and become "king of an island"—but she's going to divorce him anyway.

In a divorce action last week, Mrs. Willemson said her husband Pvt. 1st Class Leo Willemson, 29, sent "a photograph of himself with a dark complexioned native . . . and says that he now desires to be released of the within matrimonial tieup in order that he may remain with and marry one of the natives and become king of a certain island group to which he has become attached."

Her attorney, Otto K. Mischka, said a letter later from Willemson said it was all a joke. "The native girl was the wife of a commercial photographer who took the picture."

Mischka said Willemson told his wife to proceed with the divorce plans, however.

CIO UAW PUSHES FIGHT ON UNION RULED BY REDS

Thomas to Take Lead on Return to U. S.

Several top flight executives of the powerful United Automobile Workers' union and a staff of labor organizers and publicity men have moved here from Detroit, Mich., in preparation for the opening of a drive to absorb the membership here of the relatively small communist directed United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' union.

Full speed action is being delayed pending the arrival of R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW, from London, where he has been attending the world trade union conference, it was learned last night. Thomas is expected to take direct command of the drive to enlist the more than 25,000 UFEMW members, employed principally in the four Chicago plants of the International Harvester company.

Drive Against Red Influence.

Plans for the move, which is looked upon in labor circles as a campaign to rid the CIO of communistic leaders, were drawn up several weeks ago at an executive board meeting in New Orleans, La. The UFEMW is headed by Grant Oakes, Joe Weber, and Gerald Fielde, all reputed communist sympathizers.

Groundwork for the contemplated "invasion" is said to have been laid already by several former farm equipment local leaders who have been purged by Oakes and his followers. A spokesman for the rebels early this week charged the international union with focusing too much attention upon the welfare of the Communist party and emphasizing international issues at the expense of the local union. He also criticized a reported shortage of $10,000 in the treasury despite collections of more than $500,000 and asked for an accounting of the funds.

Drive Started in Peoria.

The opening gun of the campaign was fired several days ago when several thousand farm equipment workers at the Caterpiller Tractor company at Peoria rebeled and joined the UAW. Oakes suspended several officers, seized the union's books and treasury, and appointed Fielde as administrator. The battle is still raging and Richard T. Frankensteen, international vice president of the auto workers, is expected to address a huge rally at Peoria Sunday.

A large percentage of the UFEMW members here are said to be Poles or of Polish extraction, who resent their communist leadership. These are expected to bolt to the UAW camp as soon as fighting breaks into the open. In an effort to stem the drive, Oakes summoned local leaders to a meeting Wednesday in Hotel Sherman and urged them to raise funds for the fight.

City's High Schools Hold Waste Paper Drive Today

Pupils in Chicago public high schools will hold a waste paper collection drive today. George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of high schools, said a goal of 1½ million pounds of paper had been set for the collection.

THREE ORDERED FIRED FOR HATCH ACT VIOLATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The civil service commission announced today it had found three employes of the state of Pennsylvania guilty of violating the Hatch act by soliciting political funds for the 1942 Republican campaign, and ordered them discharged.

Those held guilty of violating the ban on political activity by federal employes were Dr. Alexander H. Stewart, $10,000 a year secretary of health at Harrisburg; Tom E. Williams, director of the bureau of vital statistics, and Sarah V. Robertson, a health department employe who also served as a vice chairman of a county Republican committee.

The provisions of the Hatch act apply to the state employes because activities of the health department are financed with federal government funds.

If the discharge order is not obeyed within 30 days a sum equal to twice the annual salary of those involved will be deducted from federal funds allotted to the state. The same penalty will be levied if any of the three are reemployed by the state within 18 months.

A BILL TO WASTE MORE MAN POWER.

The administration, despairing of pushing thru the senate the "work or jail" bill passed by the house, has thrown its support to a substitute measure sponsored by New Deal Senators Kilgore and Wagner and apparently drafted by the CIO political action committee.

The "work or jail" bill would have attempted to recruit man power for war production thru direct action on the individual citizen between 18 and 45 by his draft board. If he failed to take the job the board ordered him to take the worker would have been inducted into military service and, if unfit for combat, would have been placed in a sort of Hitler work battalion under military discipline, but without the privileges accorded veterans in the G. I. bill. Since no useful activity had been proposed for the forced labor battalions their members presumably would neither have fought nor worked to support fighters.

The Kilgore-Wagner proposal is to operate on the individual workman thru his employer by regulations promulgated by the war man power commission. The WMC would be given virtually unlimited power to order employers to reduce their working forces and to dictate, thru classification of workers by age, sex, and vocation, who should be fired and then, by equally broad powers, to regulate hiring so as to channel these displaced workers into jobs where the WMC thinks they may be needed for war production.

There is no need to speculate how this system would operate. It is operating already. Sen. Kilgore confessed that his bill was merely designed to give statutory authority for the activities that the WMC is now carrying on under the supposed authority of a Presidential order.

Miss Geserick of the Tribune staff visited the local offices of the United States employment service, which is the division of the WMC that refers workers to jobs or grants or withholds permission for them to take jobs they have already found. She found, by the confession of one of the executives in the office, that its red tape and, in some instances, the ignorance of its employes of the regulations they are supposed to enforce, had consumed 78,000 hours of the time of job applicants in a single week. This estimate was on a basis only of the time actually spent in the USES offices in the Chicago area by the applicants. Actually, of course, nearly every one who had to go there had to take a full day off from work, and in a week the operations of the USES destroyed more than 300,000 man hours of potentially useful production, a good deal more time, probably, than is destroyed in this city in a month by strikes.

The individual applicant is bound by the judgment of a petty burocrat, often earning less than the applicant and correspondingly jealous. He can, it is true, appeal from the burocrat's decision, but that means going without work for 10 days or two weeks. Very often applicants will be compelled to accept unfair rulings because they cannot afford such a period of unemployment. In order to make the Kilgore-Wagner proposal work the WMC would have to have superhuman knowledge of the processes and requirements of every business in the country and equally superhuman judgment of the essentiality of every job as compared with any other job. Those godlike functions would, by the provision of the bill, be vested in pretty Paul McNutt, who has never got his feet uncrossed since the first day he landed in Washington. If Mr. McNutt be given new powers his first demand undoubtedly will be for about three times as many burocrats as he now has in order to carry out his new duties; and how is that going to help the man power shortage?

Both the CIO and the AFL were bitterly opposed to the "work or jail" bill. It is alleged that the AFL, as well as the CIO, approve the Kilgore-Wagner proposal. Their reasons may appear from the complete draft of the bill, but the only apparent difference between the measures is that the latest proposal would seem to bear more heavily on members of the white collar class than on union members who, to a large extent, are already in war plants.

One bill is as vicious as the other. All that could be expected of either would be that it would ensnarl the whole employment process of the country in an endless tangle of red tape, contribute little, if anything, to solution of the man power shortage, and inflict on the people of the United States a totalitarian slavery.

The only reason that there is any serious man power shortage is that various privileged classes have been so protected by the administration that there is not enough man power to go around. Mr. Roosevelt is so deeply indebted to the PAC that he has not dared to do anything about slow-downs in war plants or the hoarding by many of those plants of thousands of unneeded workers, all of whom pay their dues to unions. The burocracy grows steadily. He has not had the courage to stop man power waste in the army despite the fact that our army has fewer men on the line of battle in proportion to its total numbers than any other in the world.

Before the last election all of the talk by the administration was of victory in Europe and plans for reconversion of industry. The military situation in Europe today is far more favorable than it was last October, but now the country is informed that it must ignore the 13th amendment and submit to dictatorial control of every man's choice of employment in order to win victory.

The New Dealers and Sidney Hillman's communist accomplices in the PAC know that they have to work fast. If they can't fasten their totalitarian scheme on the nation before Germany falls they will never be able to get away with it.

CHARITY AND ECONOMY.

The gentlemen who collected the Community and War Fund in the Chicago area deserve a final word of congratulation and public thanks for an accomplishment brought out at their annual meeting. This was the fact that the year round administration and campaign costs of the organization were only 3.7 per cent of the $12,998,870 that was collected. This, Elmer T. Stevens, retiring president of the fund, said, was the lowest percentage cost in any large city in the country.

Charities ought to be businesslike and sometimes they are. Often, regrettably, they are not, and in some instances contributors find that far too large a proportion of their gifts is going, not to meet the needs that arouse their generosity, but for campaign costs or headquarters' salaries in the organizations that gather and spend the money.

Not only the object of a charitable organization but also its administration of its funds should be investigated by organizations like the association of commerce. Some instances will undoubtedly arise of organizations pursuing the most admirable ends but pursuing them in extravagant fashion. They should be required to reform their method or be cut off from public support.

A LEAGUE TO REPRESS SUBJECT PEOPLES.

It now appears that the compromise Mr. Roosevelt was supposed to have achieved at the Yalta conference on voting procedure within the proposed world security council to authorize the use of force against future aggressors was a sellout to Russia. Stalin's agents at Dumbarton Oaks insisted from the start that the soviet union be given a veto on any such decision in which it was a party of dispute, instead of yielding up the right to sit in judgment on its own case. Mr. Roosevelt, in his customary manner, compromised by acquiescing to Stalin's demands.

The official announcement describing the achievement at Yalta neglected to mention this matter, so that Mr. Roosevelt was enabled to look good in the first day headlines. The truth is now seeping out of Washington and, once the President's default is understood, it becomes a fairly complete mystery as to what the Dumbarton Oaks peace organization is intended to accomplish.

If we are to judge by the fate of the eastern Polish provinces, the erasure of the three Baltic states from the map, and the hegemony over the Balkans which has been tacitly vested in Moscow, a number of the smaller pre-war states are not going to be able to appeal to any world league for justice, because they are not going to exist and consequently will be silent. Others which, like Poland, have suffered injury will be able to appeal for redress, provided that they are not saddled in the interim with communist governments, but their complaints will do no good, for Russia is empowered to veto any appeals against its behavior.

The new world order thus is reduced to a league of great powers dedicated to maintaining the role of the new status quo, with the role of the United States that of helping to keep repressed peoples in subjection to whatever power has become their new master. The world police force which is contemplated would, under these arrangements, see that Germany and Japan don't get out of hand, and it might engage in punitive action against an occasional third rate nation in some back alley of the globe. Otherwise, the policeman would stand around swinging his club amiably behind his back, for it is improbable that the Russians will have to blow the whistle for outside assistance in dealing with any trouble in their new domains.

Colonial peoples are also to expect nothing from the world organization. Prime Minister Churchill long since excepted India from any benefits under the now moribund Atlantic Charter, and the peoples of Burma, Malaya, and the Indies have been notified to look for the return of their British and Dutch overlords. Gen de Gaulle has stated that France's destiny calls it back to Indo-China, and the British, French, Belgian, and Portuguese possessions of Africa receive no mention at all, being securely under the thumb.

Despite all of these manifest facts a great many people, some of them plain innocents, some misguided, some ax grinders for this cause or that, and many part of that clamorous pack which thinks that the millennium is to be achieved if America will only abdicate at every point to the self-interest of its allies, have raised joyous voices over Mr. Roosevelt's statesmanship at Yalta.

A blanket indorsement of Dumbarton Oaks, for example, has just come to hand from an organization calling itself the Pledge for Peace committee of the Writers' War board, the honorary chairman of which is Justice Owen Roberts of the Supreme court—a one-worlder long prominent in Mr. Clarence Streit's Federal Union movement. A large number of writers of varying degree of capacity and reputation is listed on the letterhead, among them such oddly assorted bedfellows as Rex Stout, Helen Hayes, Dale Carnegie, and Moss Hart. It is difficult to say whether these people are ignorant, silly, or cynical, or whether they are merely discontented with the extent of "coöperation" extended by Mr. Roosevelt to date, which may be appraised as giving everything to every other country and keeping nothing for ourselves.

From the temperamental inclination of most of these proponents of "coöperation" it is probably fair to assume that they regard the Dumbarton Oaks scheme as merely a preliminary step toward the complete surrender of American sovereignty and the relegation of this couhtry to a role in world affairs where it grubstakes all the rest and serves as nursemaid, chief of the vice squad, and general factotum to boot. As the Roberts committee remarks of Dumbarton Oaks, "The proposals are not the ultimate word." That is pretty good, coming from the chairman of Mr. Roosevelt's committee to investigate the Pearl Harbor disaster.

THE PECULIAR SAXONS.

Anglo-Saxon bombers have been over Dresden in Saxony, and so this column asks itself: What is the relation between this region in Germany, remote from the sea, and the maritime Teutonic tribes who conquered Britain and founded the English language? This is one of the minor puzzles of history in which guessing is permissible because the evidence is slight and vague.

* * *

The Saxons who invaded Britain in the dark ages, after the Roman legions had been withdrawn, came from Schleswig-Holstein, the neck of the Danish peninsula. Ancient and excellent witnesses testify that this coast was their habitat: Tacitus, Latin historian, and Ptolemy, Greek geographer. Their allies, the Angles, were a kindred and neighboring tribe; the dialects seem to have been closely related.

* * *

After the departure of these barbaric warriors the Saxons who had stayed at home moved in a different direction. Perhaps they felt that with all the boats gone there was no sense in depending on fish for their fodder, or perhaps they were the farming fellows who preferred green fields to green billows. At any rate, these landlocked Saxons trekked in large masses toward the southeast. They reversed the current of the barbaric migrations of that epoch, which was from east to west. They went against the stream, a curious fact not given much attention by specialists in the cloudy history of what the Germans call the Völkerwanderung.

* * *

The Saxons spread over a large portion of central Germany and finally concentrated in the fertile region known in modern history as Saxony, which was an independent kingdom until 1867. The last Saxon prince to bear the title of king abdicated on Nov. 15, 1918.

* * *

In their migration the ancestral Saxons must have tarried in the vicinity of Lauterbach, a town famous for a beer-hall folk song which supplies the tune to the American ditty, "Where has my little dog gone?" The German words to the Lauterbach song are in a dialect that pronounces "Heim" like its English equivalent, "home," and spells it "hoam."

A SONG FOR SORROWERS.

Quiet the moon, a silver swan in the west;
Quiet the stars, and quiet the wind that goes
Over the quiet waters on what quest
Of magic no one knows.

For things like these one thanks the quiet night,
Whose restful hours how many a hope restore—
How many a souvenir of lost delight
Locked behind Memory's door!

Now all the soul had mourned and waited long,
All that the mind had banished from belief,
Returns to remedy the oldest wrong,
Bind up the deepest grief.

'Tis only in such hush of canceled day
Men's hearts are heard wherever hearts have prayer,
In a night like this God's hand can heal away
Your own inmost despair.

Indians of the City's Edge.

Answering Cinder Ella of Rogers Park [Feb. 12]:

The Indian cemetery, as every one calls it, is on the northwest corner of East River rd. and Lawrence av.

Alexander Robinson, or Che-Che-Pin-Qua, was an Englishman who married into the Chippewa tribe and became a chief. He helped to negotiate the treaty of 1835 by which the tribe ceded all its lands to the government and moved out to Oregon, Ill. For his services he received a life pension of $1,000 a year in gold, and the two sections of land shown on the maps as the Robinson reserve.

His home stood on the west side of the Des Plaines river on the north bank of a creek, just south of Lawrence av. Some trees of his orchard are still there.

Besides the people mentioned by Cinder Ella, Robinson had two daughters, Mary Reiger and Cynthia Cooney. Mary lived in a house just west of the burial plot. Her daughter and a son still live there.

Cynthia lived just south of the chief's house, on the far bank of the creek. Several large lilac bushes grow there.

Another of Mary's daughters, a Mrs. Winters, still lives about one-half mile north of the cemetery. A son lives with her, and she has a number of other children living in Chicago.

The writer's father knew the old chief well, and went to school with Mary in a building that stood on the west bank of the river at Montrose-av. Stan of Schiller Park.

G. S. S. writes: "After leaving the army, I tried from Nov. 3 to Jan. 15 to find work in my small home town community without succeeding. Later I came to Chicago and found a good job. At work I talked with another veteran who said I should have applied for the readjustment allowance for veterans. I have asked about collecting and been told it is 'too late.' Is it?"

Unless unusual circumstances prevailed, it would be too late, but if you wish you could lodge a claim with the Illinois unemployment compensation division office, 222 W. North Bank dr., Chicago. Veterans are advised not to consider their readjustment allowances as "lost" in such situations as this. The readjustment allowance is much like a bank account against which a veteran can "draw" at any time he is unemployed between the date of his discharge and two years after the termination of the war. Work is supposed to be relatively plentiful now, and veterans might be wise to conserve these benefits for later needs.

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Dr. Irving S. Cutter

The following article was prepared in advance by Dr. Irving S. Cutter before the illness which resulted in his death Feb. 3.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ANNUAL CHEST X-RAYS OF YOUNG PEOPLE.

TUBERCULOSIS is one of our oldest and most dangerous enemies. Tigerlike, it has the fashion of lying in wait for its prey, springing without warning. The malady may be well established before the victim is aware of the slightest trouble. Young people are strikingly susceptible because the strain of getting started in life may be great. In addition, school and college days take their toll. While we admire the student who works his way thru four rather strenuous sessions to a bachelor's degree, there is little reason to commend his judgment. While one may be successful in emerging with both health and "book larnin'," another may possess a sheepskin—and a broken constitution.

Not so long ago studies made in colleges and universities of note disclosed all too many lung involvements among those who appeared perfectly well. In consequence, each sufferer was obliged to interrupt his course and spend a long interval in recovery. This emphasizes the importance of the X-ray examination of every boy and girl, starting at 15 years of age. The procedure should be repeated annually until the age of 30 or whenever evidence of unusual stress or fatigue is presented. Only in this way will we be able to spot early lesions at a stage when cure is a relatively simple matter.

We must recall that the ailment begins in the lungs without warning. Furthermore, most of us are exposed constantly. Every bus ride and street car journey, each time we frequent a crowded room or attend a meeting, we are likely to pick up the organisms from one who does not realize he is ill. The germs abound in people. They do not live long outside the body, but are acquired readily from infected individuals who may not be constant coughers.

The disorder is usually not contracted by a single contact with an active case. It comes about from the occasional mingling, over a long period, with one or more patients. As a rule, the system is powerful enough to destroy the causative bacilli. But allow reserve to drop substantially thru lack of rest, weariness, etc., and the well person may fail to resist the onslaught.

In other words, it is one of the most preventable of all diseases. But those who are contaminated do not wear placards. They may not know it themselves. Nevertheless, they constitute a source of growing germs. The longer the association with one of these victims, the more likelihood will there be that the "bugs" will be shared.

Treatment is long and expensive. From a business point of view, then, the affliction should not be invited. Neither should we look forward with joy to a year or more of complete segregation from family and friends. This latter is necessary because no one who is distributing the bacilli should mingle with others.

The reason that the condition seems to run in families is because an unrecognized infection may exist for months, even years, in a given household before a hemorrhage or some other severe symptom obliges us to face the truth.

LUMP IN THROAT.

Mrs. F. writes: Whenever anything happens during the day to upset me, I have difficulty in swallowing my food. Do you think I have a growth in my throat?

REPLY.

The chances are 99 to 100 that you have not. If your physician can find no abnormality, you may assume that the manifestation has an emotional basis. In days gone by, this condition was referred to as "globus hystericus." You must control your sensibilities.

SULFUR AND NAILS.

C. D. writes: I am having trouble with my nails. They split and break and have ridges. The manicurist told me I lack something in my diet. What could this be?

REPLY.

Nails are living tissues and will be affected by nutritional deficiencies. A balanced diet is indicated. In this way an adequate amount of sulfur will be consumed.

SUBSTITUTES.

Mrs. J. writes: In articles concerning our service men I have seen the word "prosthesis." What does it mean?

REPLY.

The supplying of an artificial member or organ, such as a leg, eye, tooth, etc.

NO COLD.

Mrs. M. writes: Should cold drinks be eliminated in whooping cough?

REPLY.

Yes. Iced liquids and foods seem to increase "whooping."

The Long, Dark Road.

If this decade and its predecessor can go down in history as anything except the reign of death, it will go down as that of the stumbling feet. Think back, wearily, as far as you can, to Manchukuo and the beginning of this war, to Addis Ababa and the dark Lion of Judah, and you will recall the refugees. The dead find peace. The homeless must always wander.

This is the bitter odyssey of war. The warrior dies, we are told, with glory. The innocent flees, is preyed upon, and dies on blistered feet. Thru all history the weary procession goes, long before the flight from Persepolis in the days of Xerxes, long before the Punic wars, long before the scourge of Napoleon. Ravaging and avenging hordes alike swoop down upon that place nearest to the heart of man, his home, and man flees.

Once, 175 years ago, a mighty Mongolian tribe, the Torguts, fled eastward across the steppes of Russia. They fled in midwinter, starting slowly across the frozen Volga and Ural, across the frightening plain. Cossacks, seeking to drag them back as Christian converts or impotent serfs, attacked them from behind. Moslems seeking to sell them into slavery attacked on either side. They started out five million strong driving 10 million head of cattle before them. A year later they reached their ancient stronghold in western China. Of them all, 70,000 families remained and 100,000 head of cattle.

Historians have a name for the tragic movement of the Torguts. They call it the last great mass migration, but they were the historians who wrote before 1931.

The day of the nomad is back now. In China millions wander homeless, as they have for 14 years. And after them came Spain and Barcelona. American warships evacuated its civilians. And Warsaw, now a city of mounds and crosses and silence, whose citizens are dead, German helots, or wandering. And the countless thousands who streamed out of the great cities and quiet villages of Russia.

And once, long ago, there was Holland. It was early May in Holland, and the fields were white with the daisy called marguerite. The fleeing old queen plucked a daisy and took it with her to an alien land to make it the symbol of the underground. Once, long ago, there was Belgium. It was mid-May in Belgium, and the air would have been balmy had it not been filled with the sulphur and smoke of bombs. Once, long ago, there was France. The May moon rose slowly out of France. "Pale," wrote the poet, "as befits a watcher of the dance she comes from watching. Pale as Egypt's sands . . . pale as bone, as mortuary stone."

Down all the roads went this odyssey of innocents. They piled like jackstraws on one another, and from the soft summer sky above the planes of the crooked cross dived down to strafe them as they surged blindly forward. One by one they abandoned their mattresses because of the weight, and their vehicles because of lack of fuel, and their geese because of hunger, and, finally, one another because of the bullets from the planes of the crooked cross. Antoine Saint Exupéry looking down from 10,000 feet in his torn "Flight to Arras" saw all of western Europe moving down the long, dark roads. Behind them arose the orange-red flames of their burning homes. Headed toward them came their advancing armies. The two met, collided, and ended the purpose of each other.

And now the roads out of Berlin are clogged with refugees. The land is white with snow. The trees are bare. The barns are empty. Night and day are frost and blizzard and icy gale. Down the long roads that lead from nowhere to nowhere stagger the very old, the very young, the crippled, trundling their handful of possessions. They flee in disorder. They flee in want. Few can gloat at such mass suffering, but the pattern fits, the wheel turns, the cycle is completed. Strength thru joy has become this inexorable, bitter odyssey of all time.

THE PEACE THE SOLDIERS WANT.

FRANCE, Jan. 19.—Why unconditional surrender? Because some one in Washington says so? I say not and admire your stand. Ninety per cent of us are with you on that. We don't need unconditional surrender. We need a negotiated one which will give Germany a chance to rebuild on normal, sensible lines, and not drive them to the revenge which initiated war No. II.

Only those not here want it unconditional. Unconditional only means months longer of this.

IDLE STREET CARS AND MEN.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—About four months ago I joined the street car company and thought I'd be helping the transportation problem a little. But I see now that the fault all lies in the company.

They do not want to turn out cars unless it is absolutely necessary and in that way the public wait that much longer or get on an overcrowded car.

A new man like myself didn't have a chance. I would go to the barn and many nights spent six to eight hours just waiting for a turn to go out. Maybe I'd get one and maybe not. If not, that meant no pay for a day spent in the barn, so I figured my time was more precious and quit. I now work in a war plant where I'm really needed.

DRAFT EXEMPT, NO DOUBT.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 9.—Your paper today carries an item about an employe suing the CIO for relief from snooping and tattletale tactics. He names three union stewards as principal offenders.

We are being exhorted every day about the man power shortage and, to hear it told, it is necessary to draft farmers, et al. These stewards apparently have no work to do, else they would be too busy to know how one individual is occupying himself; so how about taking all of them for the army?

"IN A BAD WAY."

Brookfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—Sometimes I sit and try to figure it out and I think we are in a bad way. My family has always been Republican—my grandfather voted for Fremont in 1856.

But since the party is under the domination of the alien-minded easterners, and Americans of the south will never vote Republican, could we have a third or new party? LAURENCE GROSS.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS INDICATED.

Chapin, Ill., Feb. 13.—This morning's TRIBUNE says the senate voted 53 to 11 and 49 to 14 on two measures yesterday. Where are the other 32 or 33 senators? Are they not supposed to attend sessions of congress?

TWO SONS IN SERVICE.

DRONES.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—If this war is going to be won, it certainly won't be by the employes of the United States Employment service at 634 W. North av.

It was my misfortune to have to call there this morning to procure a referral card for a position. This office opens at 8:30 and I was No. 15 in line at 8:10 a. m. The people employed there stood around and visited until 8:40 before they waited on any one. After leaving the reception desk, I was directed to take a seat until my name was called. It was disgusting to sit there and watch the nonchalant attitude of the clerks, who made absolutely no effort to expedite things. One, especially, a man, with a cute little mustache, delighted in posing for the benefit of the people waiting and in taking his good time after disposing of one case before calling the next. This fellow could do more good in a defense plant and his place could be easily filled by an old man or woman.

In hope that the USES will wake up and really get some honest to goodness workers in its office and then watch the workers go to it. JOB SEEKER.

THE MAJOR GOT CIGARETS.

Camp Atterbury, Ind., Feb. 11.—Reference is made to the letter entitled "Keeping Up Morale" appearing in today's issue of THE TRIBUNE, and initialed "G. D.," asserting that her son in India was unable to get cigarets and did not receive his mail.

I have very recently returned from India after approximately 18 months in the C. B. I. theater. While there my duties took me to practically all parts of China, Burma, and India where United States army personnel was stationed. During that time each officer and man was receiving on presentation of his ration card no less than three cartons of popular brands American cigarets a month. Most of the time it was four cartons. Even the men in the combat areas were being regularly supplied with PX items, including cigarets.

Last year I did not receive my Christmas packages until the end of February—but I did get some of them and was grateful to Uncle Sam for getting them to me from the other side of the world, even at that late date.

As a device for tracing debtors, some agencies represent that they are holding trust assets for beneficiaries. They ask the beneficiaries for information as to their job, etc. In order to evade a charge of postal fraud, they then remit an insignificant sum to the person who has supplied the information. You may have sent in such information or you may be confused with such a case.

CONVERTER CAN SAVE FM SETS, RADIO MAN SAYS

Tells Way to Meet Plans for New Frequencies.

If the federal communications commission puts into effect its recently proposed allocations increasing frequency modulation [FM] from 42-50 megacycles to 84-102 megacycles, a simple and inexpensive converter can be used to make the new FM band receivable on any FM set, said William J. Halligan, president of the Hallicrafters company, producers of short wave radio war equipment.

Other industry leaders, including E. F. McDonald Jr., president of the Zenith Radio corporation, have asserted that the proposed FCC shift would make obsolete the 500,000 FM receivers that have been distributed.

Converter to Cost $10.

A simple two tube converter, readily adaptable for FM use, can be built by any competent service man, Halligan contended. It is likely that such a device, making the FM set capable of receiving the new frequencies, will be put on the market by several manufacturers after the war, if the demand exists, an engineering spokesman for Halligan said. He estimated the cost at "not over $10." Other engineers estimated the cost of such a converter somewhat higher.

The FCC proposes the shift on the ground that FM would be freed of interference in the 84-102 bracket. The Frequency Modulation Broadcasters, Inc., and McDonald are spearheading a drive to head off the shift on the grounds that it would cause obsolescence of sets and transmitters, and that it would delay FM progress after the war. McDonald has suggested that FM be extended from its present position to 46-70 megacycles.

Hits Alternate Plans.

Halligan said that alternate plans from those suggested by the FCC would have the same effect of causing obsolescence.

"Since practically all of the present FM receivers cover only the region from 42 to 50 megacycles they would be unable to receive stations situated beyond these limits in any event," he said. Then he added his suggestion of a converter.

Halligan asserted that long distance interference is almost nonexistent above 80 megacycles and that placing FM above this point in the radio spectrum assures freedom from static, manmade electrical disturbance, and the danger of interference from a distant FM speaker on the same frequency.

CALLS CHICAGO TO CRUSADE ON POST-WAR CRIME

Steps Needed Told by Director Peterson.

Plans for fighting a predicted increase in crime after the war were presented to directors of the Chicago Crime commission at their 26th annual meeting yesterday by Virgil W. Peterson, operating director for the commission.

He urged that every citizen take an active part in the fight by forming community organizations, representing business, churches, clubs, schools, property owners, and tenants.

"These organizations will have the power to produce results thru their ward committeemen and aldermen," he said. "The criminal elements will be powerless to jeopardize the security of the citizens, if the law enforcing agencies are intrinsically sound."

Nine Districts Lead in Crime.

Peterson reported that almost one-half of 39,331 principal offenses recorded by the police department in 1944 were committed in nine of 41 police districts in the city. The districts showing a high percentage of crime, said the report, were the Central, Stanton av., South Wabash av., Hyde Park, Woodlawn, Warren av., Fillmore st., Chicago av., and Town Hall.

Of 154 murders reported, 85, or more than half, were committed in the Pekin [27th and State sts.], South Wabash av., Stanton av., Hyde Park and Maxwell st. districts, he said. Of 363 rape offenses, 197 were recorded in the Pekin, Stanton av., South Wabash av., Woodlawn, and Maxwell st. districts.

President Reed Reelected.

Peterson pointed out that 1,920 of 4,072 robberies in 1944 were listed in the Central, Stanton av., South Wabash av., Woodlawn, and Warren av. districts.

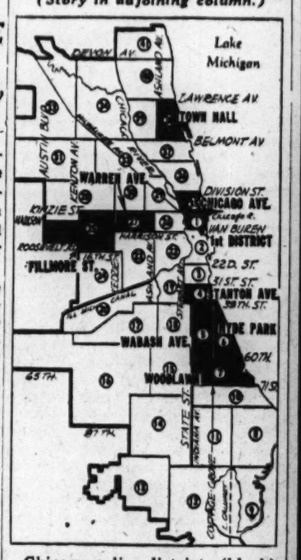

Guy E. Reed was reelected commission president for a third successive term. Others reelected were Benjamin Wham and Russell Baker, vice presidents; Ernst W. Puttkammer, secretary; Fred E. Inbau, assistant secretary; John D. Swigart, treasurer, and Carroll H. Sudler Jr., assistant treasurer. George F. Spaulding of the Northern Trust company was elected a vice president to succeed Calvin Fentress, resigned. Carl R. Latham, Leon Green, Edward A. Zimmerman, Gordon Lang, and Joseph Overlock were elected directors to serve until 1950.

PARENTS FIND BABY DEAD.

Kenneth Schafrik, 8 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schafrik, 8626 Houston av., died yesterday morning while sleeping with his parents, who took him into their bed when he cried in his crib, police said.

MOTOR THIEVES RACE INTO WRECK AND INTO JAIL

Charles Prickett, living on Green Bay rd. near Waukegan, and James Gall Jr., 210 S. Lewis av., Waukegan, each 16, were held by Waukegan police yesterday after they admitted they stole two war workers' automobiles Wednesday night and raced each other on a joy ride. Prickett was arrested previously for tampering with a car and told police he wanted to go to a reformatory. Prickett wrecked the car he had in North Chicago and Gall abandoned his, police said.

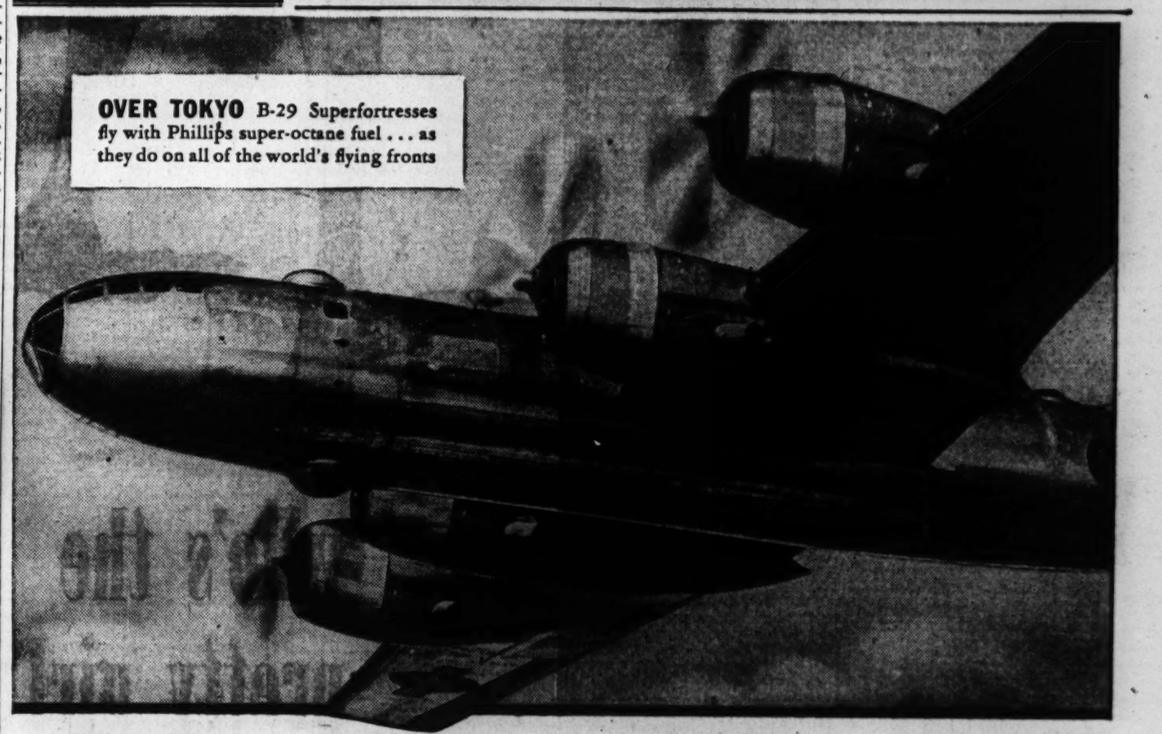

SPURNS HIS WIFE, AND GETS TERM FOR NONSUPPORT

John Darlington, 517 W. 63d st., a tool salesman, was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg for nonpayment of support when he said he would not give up a girl friend for a reconciliation with his wife, Mary, 40, of 6630 Peoria st. Mrs. Darlington, suing for separate maintenance, was awarded temporary support of $35 a week last Dec. 28 for herself and a daughter, Lillian, 17. Her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, said Darlington paid support for only one week, but Mrs. Darlington would forget the arrearage if he returned to her.

Phillips is one of the nation's six largest producers of Combat Aviation Gasoline

When you read or hear postwar promises of fabulous motor car gasolines, or of astounding products of petroleum chemistry, recall the simple words of the headline above.

They record a triumph of chemical research, engineering, and production. Add to them, Phillips grand-scale contribution to the making of butadiene for synthetic rubber, and they suggest how competently and completely Phillips is devoting itself to the war effort.

It has been said that the future is the fruit of the seed of the past. Little wonder, then, that intelligent men and women expect great postwar products from Phillips.

In the meantime, every time you see the Orange and Black Phillips 66 Shield, let it remind you that Phillips refineries . . . in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils . . . are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

FARM SLAYING BLAMED ON LOVE TURNED TO HATE

Accused Wife Is Branded 'Woman Scorned.'

BY PAUL HOLMES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, Ill., Feb. 15.—The jury of 10 men and 2 women trying Lucille Dhamer, 27, and her husband, Harry, 42, for the murder of their hired man, Charles Neufcour, today heard Lucille described as a "woman scorned," who killed her former lover in a surge of fury.

This description was given by Len Spaulding, special assistant state's attorney, in beginning a summation of the state's case. He said evidence produced during the three weeks of the trial proved Dhamer hated Neufcour because he had a love affair with his wife and that Lucille hated him because he broke it off.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," Spaulding quoted as he traced a series of events beginning in January, 1944, and culminated in the fatal shooting of Neufcour last Oct. 14 in a bean field on the Dhamer farm near Sheffield.

Love Turns to Hate.

The transition from love to hate began last spring when Harry got out of a hospital to discover that Lucille had taken advantage of his absence to become intimate with Neufcour, Spaulding said. He said the evidence justified a conclusion that Lucille then asked Neufcour to elope with her and that he refused.

"Malice grew in Lucille's heart and in Harry's heart all thru the summer," Spaulding asserted. "In June they took a trip west to patch up their difficulties, but they did more than that on their trip. They hatched up between them a plan to set the scene for the bean field shooting."

The attorney said that altho Dhamer had never before owned a revolver, he bought three of them on the trip west and that one of these guns, loaded, was in an unlocked glove compartment of the Dhamer car on the day of the slaying so it would be ready.

Lucille Loses Composure.

Lucille spent an uncomfortable hour on the witness stand before the state ended its rebuttal evidence. For the first time she lost the composure she has maintained thruout the trial and wept openly.

She was asked to describe a midnight walk of nine miles she made last April from the Dhamer home in Sheffield to the farm for a talk with Neufcour.

"I walked there to talk to him," she said. "I knocked on the door; his brother-in-law stuck his head out of the window, asked what I wanted. I said I had come to see Chuck [Neufcour's nickname] and Chuck came outside without his shoes on."

Lucille said that after talking outside for 15 minutes they went into the house and talked until dawn, when she borrowed Chuck's car and drove home.

"Isn't it true that your reason for going to the farm was to beg Chuck to elope with you?" demanded State's Atty. Joseph Peterson.

"No, no, no, that isn't true!" Lucille answered, and it was at this point she started to sob. "I went there to ask him to go away—to leave the country."

Barber Strike Spreads to 2 More Loop Hotels

Barbers employed in the Terminal shops at the La Salle and Bismarck hotels walked out yesterday, joining the 33 Palmer House barbers who struck Tuesday for higher wages. A few union members employed in the Terminal system's shop in the Merchandise Mart are also said to have followed suit. The workers are seeking the union loop scale of $28 weekly and 60 per cent of receipts in excess of $41.

KILL-CRAZY BOY GETS 207 YEAR PRISON TERM

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 15 [Special].—Norman Burton, 15, self-styled "kill-crazy" slayer of his niece, Sara Jane Tyne, 5, today was sentenced to serve 207 years in the state penitentiary at Joliet by Circuit Judge George C. Dixon.

Burton, who murdered Sara Jane with a hammer and knife last Dec. 20 while caring for her and three other small Tyne children, was ordered to spend each anniversary of the slaying in solitary confinement.

In passing sentence Judge Dixon said he set the term at 207 years because he wanted Burton "permanently removed from society." Burton will be eligible for parole in 69 years, when 84 years old.

Burton, who showed no emotion during the two day hearing, chuckled to himself as he left the courtroom after being sentenced. When questioned by state psychiatrists in Chicago after the murder he said he didn't care whether he died in the electric chair. The psychiatrists termed him "mentally ill," but Judge Dixon said "the court is satisfied he knew the difference between good and evil."

CIRCUIT JUDGES STUDY PAROLE DILEMMA TODAY

The status of several hundred inmates of Illinois prisons, who were sentenced when the unconstitutional 1941 parole law was in effect, will be considered by Circuit court judges of the state at their annual meeting opening today in the Hotel Sherman. Besides other items of law and procedure, the program also includes "matters of personal interest," which presumably means the judges will discuss their legislative move to win themselves a salary raise.

The question arising from the 1941 parole law, which was held unconstitutional because of a clause giving the parole board power to override a judicial decision, is whether the courts should be empowered to reacquire jurisdiction in each case and revise the sentence in accordance with the 1943 amendment. That act, which has been held constitutional, authorizes the court to set a minimum prison term.

The judges are reported generally in favor of the proposed salary raise on the ground that present levels were set when they were clear of income tax.

Now the revenue collector takes almost one-third of the $15,000 paid Circuit and Superior judges in Cook county. Downstate judges get $8,000. Both would receive $2,000 increases in the bill introduced Wednesday.

Deportation of Chaplin Sought in Senate Bill

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] introduced today legislation directing the attorney general to investigate Charles Chaplin to determine whether the movie actor should be deported as an undesirable alien. The bill was assigned to the immigration committee. Langer contended Chaplin, who came to this country in 1910 from England, should be deported on the basis of evidence in court actions brought by Joan Berry who charged Chaplin was the father of her child. The jury failed to agree on a verdict.

CITY WILL SEEK LAWS FOR CURB ON SUBDIVISIONS

City officials said yesterday that they would seek legal authority to compel real estate subdividers to put in public improvements and set aside acreage for parks, playgrounds, and schools before lots are placed on sale.

Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman of the city council committee on housing, asked that an ordinance be drafted to revise the subdivision sections of the city code. He said the state legislature, now in session, would be asked to grant additional powers to govern the opening of new residential areas. This program was approved at a meeting of the Chicago plan commission, of which Lindell is a member.

Arthur Kruggel, chairman of the city planning committee of the Chicago Real Estate board, and other subdividers had objected to the proposal that lots shouldn't be placed on sale before utilities are installed and streets surfaced.

Park Space Sought.

The plan commission also wants the real estate men to dedicate adequate areas for parks and other public purposes. They contend that the necessary acreage can be obtained by adopting the modern trend toward winding driveways, and abandoning the traditional gridiron pattern of streets.

A. H. Mellinger, chairman of the plan commission, said the city shouldn't accept the theory that a real estate man can't legally be prevented from selling his holdings without installing improvements for the privilege of subdividing.

"Chicago has a multiplicity of subdivisions where the city has been forced to the expense of putting in utilities," said Lindell, "So far, we haven't been able to reach a satisfactory agreement with the real estate men.

Seek Benefit for Lot Buyers.

"We want to end conditions where lot buyers are left without streets, utilities, and schools, with millions of dollars of special assessments unpaid."

Robert M. Kingery, general manager of the Chicago Regional Planning association, is preparing a bill thru which real estate subdivisions would be regulated in the unincorporated sections of Cook county and neighboring counties.

The plan commission gave formal approval to land acquisition projects undertaken by the Chicago medical center district, bounded by Ashland av., Congress st., Oakley blvd., and Roosevelt rd.

FIRESTONE TIRE BRANCH OFFICE WINS OPA CASE

OPA suspension proceedings against the Chicago branch office of the Firestone Tire & Rubber company were dismissed yesterday as "contrary to the public interest" by John R. Allen, regional hearing commissioner, who heard two days of arguments in the case two weeks ago.

Allen said that even if violations charged by OPA attorneys had been proved, he did not consider them more than technical. He suggested to government attorneys that if they thought he was wrong they could appeal to the chief hearing commissioner in Washington. Rae E. Walters, regional administrator, said enforcement attorneys were considering the opinion.

When women entertain their friends at luncheon or bridge, or when they take dessert contributions to a potluck spread, you wouldn't dream there was a sugar shortage! Actually, however, the luscious desserts appearing at these affairs usually are the result of a good deal of sugar scrimping—a sacrifice regarded as worthwhile by the hostess who wants her party desserts to be a sensation.

These desserts are the kind for which women clamor. The first one, which won a prize in our daily recipe contest, is delicious and includes easily obtained ingredients.

Toffee Refrigerator Dessert.
[Serves six to eight.]

½ cup margarine
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ pound vanilla wafers, crushed
½ cup nuts, finely chopped

Cream margarine and sugar together thoroly. Beat in slightly beaten egg yolks and melted chocolate. Cool slightly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Sprinkle half the vanilla wafers evenly over the bottom of shallow pan [about 8 by 8 inches] or large freezing tray. Spread evenly with chocolate mixture and top with remaining wafers and nuts. Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator to chill for 24 hours. Mixture will become firm but not frozen. Cut in squares and serve plain or topped with a dab of ice cream.

Here is another vanilla wafer favorite:

Frozen Lemon Torte.
[Serves six to eight.]

¾ cup vanilla wafer or macaroon crumbs
3 egg yolks, well beaten
¼ cup lemon juice
1 lemon rind, grated
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
½ cup evaporated milk, chilled

Spread half the vanilla wafer crumbs on bottom of refrigerator tray. Combine egg yolks, lemon juice, lemon rind, salt and sugar, and cook in top of double boiler until thick. Cool. Whip the chilled evaporated milk and add with the beaten egg whites to the lemon mixture. Pour over the vanilla wafer crumbs and cover with remaining crumbs. Place in freezing compartment, turn temperature control low, and freeze quickly. Serve in slices or squares.

This frozen lemon dessert, which is minus the wafers, is easy to make and requires little sugar:

Lemon Custard Ice Cream.
2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup sugar
½ cup light corn sirup
1 cup milk
1 lemon rind, grated
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup chilled evaporated milk

Combine eggs, sugar, corn sirup, milk, lemon rind, and juice. Whip evaporated milk until thick and add. Turn into freezing tray of refrigerator and freeze until mushy. Beat well, return to freezing tray, and freeze until firm. Serve with crisp chocolate cookies.

If entertainment time arrives and you can't rustle up even a half cup of sugar, make a dessert like this:

Maple Gelatin Dessert.
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold milk
1 cup hot milk
2 egg yolks
⅝ to ¾ cup maple sirup
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts

Soften gelatin in cold milk 5 minutes. Add to hot milk, stirring until dissolved. Add egg yolks gradually and cook, stirring constantly, in top of double boiler until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and let cool. Add sirup and set in refrigerator until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, vanilla, and nuts. Turn into molds and chill until firm.

Lake Forest Hospital Aids Win Praises

BY JUDITH CASS.

A NUMBER of Lake Forest women who organized themselves to do volunteer work at the Alice Home hospital, later moving to the Lake Forest hospital when it opened, are entering their fourth year of service. One of them, Mrs. Henry P. Isham, has 1,117 hours of volunteer work to her credit, and three others, Mrs. Hempstead Washburne, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, and Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr., follow closely with more than 900 hours of credit.

Mrs. Richard H. Mabbatt prepares a monthly schedule, and each member of the group, known as the Lake Hospital Volunteer Nurse Aid corps, is notified of the time assigned to her. The workers follow the assigned schedule thru without further checking by the hospital, and their consistent faithfulness, strict adherence to schedule, and high quality of work have earned them much praise from hospital authorities.

A new spring class of volunteer aids is being organized. Applicants interested in taking the training course are being interviewed at the hospital by Mrs. Genevieve R. Jeffrey, superintendent. Some of the others who serve faithfully are Mrs. Warner Dennehy, Mrs. William A. P. Pullman, Mrs. H. Foster Straw, Mrs. Charles S. Clarke, Mrs. Clark Jelke, and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas.

On the Calendar.

A number of young and attractive Red Cross Nurses' aids and other volunteer workers have been invited to a cocktail party and buffet supper Ernest Byfield will give in the Polo room of the Ambassador East from 5 to 9 o'clock this evening for a group of repatriated prisoners of war from Germany and two who escaped from the Japanese. The service men, all wounded, appeared in a program last night in the 122d Field Artillery armory and are making a tour of the country.

Some of the young women who will be their partners are Miss Adrienne Ely, Miss Marjorie Lindsay, Miss Anita McCahey, Miss Betty Bennett, Miss Mary and Miss Rosalind Stark, Miss Jane Cheney, Miss Barbara Selz, Miss Winifred Dole, Miss Jeanne Stenson, Miss Anne Ryerson, Miss Elizabeth Hubbard, Miss Joan Van Buren, and Lt. Marie Merrill Hubbard of the army nurse corps, who is at home on leave before reporting for active duty.

The critical nurse shortage will be discussed by Maj. Floramund Fellmuth of the army nurse corps when she speaks at the winter meeting of the Chicago Junior league at 11 a. m. next Tuesday in the Woman's Athletic club. Maj. Fellmuth also will relate her experiences on her first trip to the Philippines and her two years of caring for the wounded in the Pacific. Many of the nurses released in Manila are her good friends.

Mrs. Gilbert E. Scribner Jr., who is replacing Mrs. Raymond W. Allen as member at large on the board of the Chicago Junior league, has purchased a house in Glencoe in which she and Mrs. W. Newton Burdick Jr. and their children will live until their husbands return from overseas. Mrs. Allen is taking the place on the league board occupied by Mrs. John L. Haverkampf III. Mrs. Haverkampf is moving to Danville, Ill., to join her husband, now that he has found a house there for his family.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. John Emery of Lakeview av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Lt. Chester Cochran Doherty Jr. of the army air forces, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Doherty of Astor st. Lt. Doherty returned to this country recently after a year of overseas duty, having completed 40 missions, and after a leave spent here he left last week to report for reclassification in Miami, Fla.

Miss Emery, a sister of Mrs. Thomas Smyth and Mrs. Bradley Eben, attended Mount Mary college. Her fiancé studied at the Boys' Latin school and at Knox college. His father is stationed with the army medical corps in Richmond, Va.

News of Births.

Lt. [j. g.] and Mrs. Richard D. Culver [Kathryn Benson] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Deborah Ann, Wednesday in the Evanston hospital. The baby and her mother will be living with Mrs. Culver's father, George R. Benson, in Kenilworth, while Lt. Culver is in service. He is stationed in New Jersey.

Carol, Kellogg, and John J. Goodwillie Jr. are busy making friends with their new baby sister, born Jan. 26. The fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwillie has been named Jean for Mrs. Goodwillie's sister, Miss Jean Kellogg. Mrs. John Kellogg is the children's grandmother.

Today's Events.

The 50th anniversary committee of the Lake Bluff orphanage will meet for luncheon at 12:15 p. m. today in the Chicago club. Under the direction of Oliver A. Blackburn, the committee is aiming to raise half a million dollars to replace two 45 year old buildings and to increase the orphanage's endowment fund. Mrs. Alden B. Swift is vice-chairman of the committee.

Several Secrets to the Success of a Salad Bowl

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

The contents of a perky looking salad bowl should be fresh, crisp, and colorful. The greens should be washed, crisped if necessary, and well dried, for oil will not adhere to wet leaves. The dressing also is essential to a successful salad bowl. Twice as much oil as vinegar generally is used, and seasonings are added to produce an intriguing flavor. Several of these may be added in amounts to suit the taste: Garlic salt, celery salt, grated onion, celery seed, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, horseradish, mixed herbs, catsup, paprika, salt, pepper, and sugar. Shake dressing well before using.

Mozart and Ravel Played by Casadesus

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw, conductor; Robert Casadesus, pianist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Feb. 15, 1945, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:
"The Birds," suite for small orchestra ..... Respighi
Concerto No. 26 in D major, Köchel 537, "Coronation," for piano and orchestra ..... Mozart
Symphonic Poem, "Psyche" ..... Franck
Concerto in One Movement, for left hand, for piano with orchestra ..... Ravel

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Robert Casadesus reappeared with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Désiré Defauw last night, adding to the Orchestra hall repertory two sharply contrasting works, an exquisite performance of Mozart's mellow "Coronation" Concerto, and a not quite so successful one of Ravel's Concerto for the Left Hand, a composition which was a gallant exigency for Paul Wittgenstein, for whom it was written when he lost his right arm in the first World war, and is a stunt for every one else.

Mr. Casadesus is a formidable pianist, and he performed some extraordinary bits of virtuosity, but it was not a stunt he could completely pull off. The solo part is fiendishly difficult, and it imposes on the two handed pianist the extra hazard of keeping his right hand off that keyboard—a trick the Frenchman accomplished by firmly clutching his right knee. But there were too many false notes to add up to triumph.

I am not familiar enough with the concerto to know whether the extraordinary sense of effort in the larger sections was the fault of Ravel or those who played him. But as the concerto was performed last night it was most attractive in a gay middle section reflecting a Frenchman's idea of American jazz, an urbane and witty exhibition in which the winds wail in turn over plucked strings while the piano makes fascinating comment on the whole business. This was beautifully played with a touch of inner glee that threatened to bubble over any minute—both by Mr. Casadesus and the orchestra. But the impression as a whole was of a clever idea that missed fire. It needed more of Ravel's watchmaker's precision to make it tick.

Mr. Casadesus' Mozart was perfection in lighthearted elegance, making you wonder why so beguiling a work has skipped our downtown concerts all these seasons. He played it in chamber music scale, and Mr. Defauw used an orchestra of suitable size which had the best intentions, but not invariably the Mozart style. It had a knack of turning heavy when the mood was light, and its way with the larghetto was unexpected as the path of a roller coaster.

The concert opened with Respighi's "The Birds," a Defauw favorite in which he continues to miss the mood of deft caricature, concentrating his ammunition on making a squawking comic strip of the episode of the hen. The intended parody of the nightingale lost all Wagnerian suggestion in a morass of muddled tone. But there were some agreeable moments in the cuckoo section, which seemed to suit the mood of the violins.

Mr. Defauw also revived his beloved "Psyché," the fustian tone poem of Franck which is grandiose enough to invoke the conductor's more convincing style. But last night it missed some of its earlier effects. The orchestral tone sounded too opaque to pull off the requisite brilliance.

Robert Hall McCormick Gives Party for Wife on Wedding Anniversary

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

When Robert Hall McCormick and the former Mrs. George Baker Robbins were married a year ago yesterday in Tucson, Ariz., none of their Chicago friends was present at the ceremony. As a belated celebration, Mr. McCormick invited a few of their close friends to drop into the penthouse atop the McCormick building at 332 S. Michigan av. late yesterday afternoon for a surprise anniversary party for his wife.

Most of the guests arrived early to be on hand when Mrs. McCormick came thru the door of the apartment, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Foster Newhall, who had arrived the day before en route from South Carolina to her home in San Francisco, Cal. Mrs. Newhall, the real heroine of the afternoon, had taken her mother on a shopping tour in search of imaginary needs, finally ending up at the penthouse on the pretense of wanting to see one of Mr. McCormick's paintings. Mrs. Newhall and her 12 year old daughter, Diana, will leave for the west coast as soon as they can obtain reservations.

Some of the guests who joined the accordionist in singing "Happy Anniversary to You," were Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, Fowler McCormick, Comdr. and Mrs. Eugene F. McDonald Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Col. and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Roy McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hecht, Dr. and Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson, Mrs. Nelbling Meigs, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mr. McCormick's sister, Miss Elizabeth Day McCormick.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gowenlock, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woodland, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hinde, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry Brawner, San Francisco friends of Mrs. McCormick and her daughter who now are stationed in Chicago; and John A. Chapman, whose wife is vacationing in Palm Beach, Fla.

Thru the Looking Glass

We've been hearing impressive things about a white, fluffy, almost scentless cream to soften the skin. It's inexpensive, you see, and women who must make every penny count told us that it's something of a wonder worker on the skin of the whole body. We've come to agree with them.

This cream doesn't claim to be anything but a softener, to be used as a sort of finishing cream that combats the drying effect of the damp cold we Chicagoans know so well and the dry heat that nearly all Americans endure in their houses and offices. Its sole purpose is to help restore the natural balance of oil and moisture that keeps the skin of the hands, the face, and the body youthfully smooth and pleasantly comfortable.

It works fast, we found, and it should be used sparingly. For the hands, the elbows, the knees, and the neck—which redden more than any other areas, in winter—the cream is to be applied in minute dabs and stroked in until every trace disappears, which will be quickly. There is no necessity of slathering it on so that a surplus must be wiped away; a little bit does plenty of good work.

Used night and morning, this softening cream helps you to obtain and maintain the kind of skin we all want, smooth, soft, and white. Use it oftener as a hand cream and use it, too, as a makeup base before you put your little face outside the door on cold days. The film of cream is not greasy, but it's an invisible protection against chapping and dryness.

You'll like this all around softener as an after-bath balm too.

Fight Foreseen on Adoption Law Proposals

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—A battle with organized social workers was predicted today by Sen. Baker [R., Davis Junction], sponsor of an adoption reform bill opposed to one scheduled for introduction next month under auspices of several child welfare agencies and the Illinois League of Women Voters.

At the same time a spokesman for the state department of public welfare said the Baker bill will be fought tooth and nail. The Baker bill is pending in the senate judiciary committee, where it is considered to stand a better chance than it would have in the public welfare committee.

Baker long has been a crusader against what he calls the social worker clique. He believes that by setting up rigid educational and experience requirements, the social workers draw upon only a few schools for their talent and keep practical people out of the field. He accuses them of continual scheming to extend their power, with the aid of well organized propaganda.

Baker's bill directs the court in an adoption case to make an investigation of the principals' "home, character, fitness, and means" during a six months' probationary period after the child has been placed.

Investigations would be made by the probation officer or any person or agency selected by the court. At the end of the six months a report would be made to the court, which would be free to reject the recommendation.

Under the social workers' proposed bill, the investigation would be made by the state department of public welfare or a licensed child welfare agency designated by the court. In a 1943 version of the measure the agency was to be selected by the state department. This has been changed to mollify the opposition to the professional social workers.

The investigation would be made before the child had been placed. The welfare department spokesman said the Baker bill would cause hardship when a child was removed from its foster home by court order after the probationary period.

The Baker bill does not have the requirement of the opposing measure that signing of adoption consents must be witnessed by a representative of a licensed child welfare agency or a court clerk. It has been contended that unscrupulous doctors and lawyers take advantage of mothers immediately after the birth of children to rush them into releasing infants for a "baby black market."

"Professional snoopers, steeped in theory but short on experience with the realities of life, most of them unmarried, want to pry into more phases of our existence every time the legislature assembles," Baker said. "Fortunately, many of our legislators are aware of the clique's tendency to want to run the country."

Some experts in the adoption field believe there will be a great increase in the number of children available because of war time turmoil. Speedy marriages of persons barely acquainted are bound to result in a number of unwanted children, it is said.

Before the war most new mothers who released their children claimed to be married but unaware of the whereabouts of their husbands. Now it is common place to have the mother state she is unmarried because her husband has been on foreign battlefields for a year or more.

In 1943 there were 3,258 adoptions in Illinois—about one-sixth of all adoptions in the United States. State-wide figures for 1944 are not available, but in Cook county last year there were 2,680. It has been estimated that since 1940 about two-thirds of the children adopted in the nation were born out of wedlock.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Home Girl.

The latest in war time adjustments concerns the home-making WCG who counts herself lucky to have engaged a housekeeper. However, the WCG hasn't summoned sufficient courage to confess that "yes, we have no" janitor to carry out refuse and do other odd jobs. So on the housekeeper's day off the WCG has arranged time off from her job surreptitiously to bundle papers, carry out cans and bottles—to sweep, shovel, and haul.

At the latest report the deception was working beautifully.

Nor superior anywise.

But you can lay surest of bets
I've never yet stood in line for an hour
Trying to buy cigarets!

The Best Wife on Earth.

The business girl ought to make the best wife on earth. She's had opportunities to study the workings of the male mind. She's had schooling in the ways of business and been disciplined in catering to men. Having worked, she should know the value of money and be able to spend it wisely. She believes that marriage is a partnership, and she's almost sure to contribute her share toward making it a success. Knowing the office scene, she understands when her husband is late for dinner . . . and doesn't complain that her dinner is ruined.

She comprehends the social importance of business relationships when her husband phones at the 11th hour to announce casually that he is bringing a guest. While working, she has been in tighter places than having only two potatoes boiling and three persons to feed! And she takes more pride in her husband's praise than she ever did in her former employer's saying, "Miss Jones never fails me in an emergency."

BUTCH.

Six More Duties.

The remaining six of 21 major secretarial duties in the opinion of employers and secretaries [interviewed in a study by Prof. Frederick G. Nichols of Harvard university] are:

Write up minutes of meeting.
Supervise clerical workers.
Dictate letters.
Take care of follow-up files.
Operate card index.
Prepare reports.

Requirements in jobs vary, but these, with the foregoing 15 duties mentioned in a previous column, give an over-all picture of the usual secretarial duties. As such, they should obviate the objection, "I wasn't hired to do that!"

Job Processing Speeded, but It Still Is Slow

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Thirty additional United States employment service workers were brought from downstate yesterday to Chicago area offices to help meet the huge volume of traffic resulting from an order that persons must receive USES permission to get jobs—both essential and nonessential.

Fifteen of the imported workers were sent to the agency's 308 N. Michigan av. office, with the result that the time expended in the office by 10 persons seeking permission to get jobs dropped from an average of two hours to 55 minutes, according to a USES survey. A Tribune reporter, who made a cross section study of time spent in the office by 46 persons chosen at random, computed their average at 2 hours and 30 minutes.

Five hours and 10 minutes was the longest amount of time spent in the office by one person, her survey showed, and the shortest time was 30 minutes. The USES survey reported that one applicant had passed thru the office and concluded interviews in 12 minutes.

The shrinkage in time needed to complete office processes was aided also by a marked drop in the number of persons who visited the office to obtain permission to take jobs. On Wednesday, men and women jammed the first and third floor offices of the agency, while the cases of additional persons were handled on the third floor. Yesterday, however, there was no overflow crowd waiting impatiently in aisles and anteways for their cases to be called by an interviewer.

With the amount of waiting time reduced, much of the fatigue and near-hysteria of men and women, many of them angry at the slow processing, had disappeared. On Wednesday several men and women became irate at the waste of time and, when refused referral cards to a desired job, vowed they would prefer never to work than "be told where to go for a job."

A woman requesting a referral card last week became so confused during the process that she sobbed and shrieked hysterically, literally frothing at the mouth, until a sympathetic office manager finally explained the proper routine she had to follow to obtain her card.

Yesterday there still were cases in which women, refused referrals to desired positions and sent to essential industries, learned that the jobs to which they were sent did not exist. It then was necessary for them to return to the Michigan av. USES office and have their cases processed again.

Music Can Help Tie Hemisphere Bonds, Conferees Are Told

Miss Vanett Lawler, Washington, D. C., music education consultant to the Pan American union, yesterday reported to the executive board of the Music Educators' National Conference, meeting in the Palmer House, that a recent six month trip thru South America has convinced her that music can play a vital part in building hemisphere relations. She told the conference, of which she is associate executive secretary on leave, that the 14 Latin American countries she visited are eager to copy American methods for teaching music on a mass production scale. Moreover, she added, South Americans like American jazz, which constitutes 75 per cent of their swing band renditions.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 15.—No wonder Greer Garson's pals are calling her "the woman of the year." She'll play opposite Clark Gable in "Strange Adventure." It starts in three weeks. This will be their first screen mating. . . . George Gallup and Fred Sammis came to my house to tell me the poll's choices for best picture of the year and two most popular players. Here they are: "Going My Way" and Bing Crosby and Greer Garson. I couldn't have done better if I'd picked them myself. They will receive Photoplay's award, not at a big plush whoop-de-do, but at quiet studio luncheons—if studio luncheons could ever be quiet. Will Hollywood have the nerve to vote another man in place of Bing Crosby after this? I hope not. . . . Elizabeth Russell tells me Gloria Swanson and her new husband are heading west to honeymoon in Zasu Pitts' Brentwood home. They'll get a big welcome. . . . Barry Fitzgerald, as the old priest in "Going My Way" is about to be done by Norman Rockwell for a magazine cover. . . . I don't know any other Hollywood lobbyist in Washington who's had the Vice President play his or her accompaniment. Lauren Bacall did. As she walked to the piano, one higher up was heard to whisper to another, "Why, that gal's hips wink at you!" . . . Maria Montez is fit to be tied. She read a story, liked it. Universal bought it for her, and now Joan Bennett will be starred in it. I'd hate to be in Joan's shoes, 'cause Maria scratches.

Facts—Not Fiction.

Ann Sheridan played Carnegie Hall, New York; Academy of Music, Philadelphia, and Symphony Hall, Boston, with Jack Benny for the March of Dimes. In those halls no Warners film ever has been shown. In spite of this, Annie is still on the Warners' suspension list. They shelved "When Old New York Was Young" permanently, but won't admit to her that she was right. But I will. . . . Good hot item I don't think. Gene Tierney lost out. She wears makeup in "Dragonwyck." . . . Toni 7 as "Miss 17" is being gowned by Adrian for P. R. C. That's better treatment than Judy Garland got at Metro. . . . Now it comes out—a Russian character actor under contract to Paramount has been sending those threatening letters to Mrs. Richard Jaeckel. But the FBI has everything under control.

He Has the Final Say.

John Wildberg, who owns "Anna Lucasta," declares he'll sell only if Barbara Stanwyck is starred in it. . . . Mary Pickford has Pedro Armendariz, Mexican actor, under contract. She loaned him to Hunt Stromberg for his American debut. . . . Connie Moore has signed a three year no option deal at Republic. . . . Theodore Dreiser got an eyeful while visiting Merle Oberon on "A Night in Paradise" set. There were more extras on that one than De Mille used in "Ten Commandments," but they weren't looking at a similar scene. . . . Jack Carson's pacing the corridor even before his baby's born. . . . Dolores Moran and Archduke Felix of Austria are a new twosome at Thelma Todd's old eating house overlooking the Pacific. . . . The boys who got "Alaska Highway" title have done it again. Pine and Thomas grabbed the title "Tokyo Rose" for their next, and are writing a picture around it.

From Murder to Nightmares.

Byron Barr, jealous juvenile in "Double Indemnity," gets star rating in "Nightmare." . . . Paulette Goddard is so well at Palm Springs she's about to pose for a layout of swimming pictures. . . . Soon as Sonny Tufts has finished "The Well Groomed Bride," he takes off for deep sea fishing off Mexico. . . . I don't believe Paramount will do a screen version of "Othello" starring Paul Robeson, do you? . . . Robert Sully, newcomer, plays in "You Came Along"; will also dig up talent for Cincinnati summer opera company. Natalie Schafer is showing Edwin Marks, of Macy's, the town. . . . We expect a tug of war between "Swinging on a Star" and "Trolley Song." Quite a distance from a star to "Clang, Clang." O, heck! Why can't we give two awards this year? I can sing "Clang, Clang."

Mystery Movie Is a Lot of Ham —and Pointless

"DEAD MAN'S EYES,"

Produced by Universal, directed by Reginald LeBorg, featuring Lon Chaney, Jean Parker, Paul Kelly, Thomas Gomez, Jonathon Hale, George Meeker, and Acquanetta, and presented at the Grand.

By Mae Tinée.

The plot of this mystery is not so bad, but the poor old story is handicapped by a number of things.

The opening scenes may remind you remotely of Kipling's "The Light That Failed" when you see the jealous model fooling around the portrait painter's bottles of eye wash, but the similarity doesn't last long. After the artist's eyes are ruined, the problem is to find a recently deceased person whose corneas can be transplanted, in the hope that sight will be restored. When a millionaire who has willed his eyes for this purpose is found with his skull bashed in, suspicion falls on the blind man. The story has many tortuous turns from that point onward.

Mr. Chaney struck me as a bit hammy in the leading role, altho Paul Kelly is believable enough as a psychiatrist who is always on the scene. Jean Parker is a pretty millionaire's daughter who makes the model green with jealousy. The latter role is played by one Acquanetta, and it's a good thing the other characters make so many remarks about her vivacity and fire, or you might thing she was a walking clothes model with sound dubbed in.

The dialog, heavy as lead, contains more clichés than I have ever heard all at one time. "You're in my blood," says the doc to the model; "Can't you step aside gracefully when you know I love another," says the noble Mr. Chaney to Miss Parker, and it's all topped off with—"You had to kill the thing you loved because you loved life more!"

Ah well—"into each life some rain must fall!" I always say—what do you always say?

Youth Is Served Well by Newest Spring Fashions

BY REA SEEGER.

Youth is served with almost flip young fashions this spring from head to foot. Little "sissy sailors" in either felt or straw have a very flat narrow brim about an inch wide and a high, straight crown around which is tied a grosgrain ribbon with a bow at the back. These are as demure as anything out of "Bloomer Girl." Besides having pictorial allure, they're steadies for all purpose wear with every piece in any wardrobe come spring and summer.

Nothing could possibly equal the fresh young look of a bolero outfit—slim or draped skirt, virginal white shirtwaist, and a bold, strong contrast for the colored bolero. Boleros come in two dashing silhouettes, fitted models that hug the ribs and free swinging types with needle straight lines along back, sides, and front. Most of them are collarless, more have short sleeves than long, but all are sure signs of spring and the best imaginable flattery for young sylph-like silhouettes of college and career girls. Tricolor combinations are top fashions, with the victory specials of red, white, and blue the most popular.

Jaunty short extra jackets, in checks, stripes, tweed mixtures, pastels, or brilliant colors such as flame red, gold, lime, lemon, purple, jade, and off-white, are a third "must" for the young wardrobe. They are brief creations, seldom longer than a couple of inches below the belt line. They have swank flared back sections, long loose easy-to-slide-into sleeves, and interesting shoulders because of the intricate cut and detail. You'll wear them with one piece dresses of wool rayon or cotton and linen all spring and summer.

A crocheted fascinator which may be created in a couple of hours is done in a simple stitch that any one may attempt. With lightweight wool and large crochet hook, one may make several of these inexpensive flattering bits of froth.

For instruction in crocheting the fascinator, No. 1031, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Teen-Agers Interested in Good Etiquet

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

His mother remembered aloud for me: It was after lunch, and his long legs were sprawled over the side of the big armchair, which, in spite of its huge proportions, was not able to contain him.

He was reading a new book on manners for boys and girls which his mother had just received from its author. She laid it down for a moment and he had picked it up.

"Listen to this, Mom," he said, with a chortle. "'Never drink tea or coffee from the saucer.' Boy, some of this is a howl . . ."

In a moment, however, his laughing comments stopped. He seemed quite absorbed in the contents of the book. Then he looked at the clock.

"Gosh!" he declared. "I've got to get to work."

"Maybe your afternoon would be better spent," said his mother, with a twinkle in her eye, "if you read the whole book thru and then put its advice into practice."

Her son looked up.

"I might, at that!" he replied, to her great surprise.

You may remember my saying before that I believe that young persons once again are becoming interested in manners, as a backswing of the pendulum—a belief which I have repeatedly defended against opposition from those who believe that the young generation is incurably mannerless. I do not find them so. Also, that I believe that they are as much interested in manners as any past generation.

Teachers in high school who have friendly contacts with their students have found a great deal of interest in the subject of etiquet—where it concerns their own generation, as in taking a girl to a dance or restaurant; in other situations, as where a girl has to introduce a boy to her parents; and in their behavior with those of their parents' generation.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	1 spade	Pass	4 spades
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of clubs.

Whatever objections there may be to "wishful thinking" in the world of politics I am convinced that success at the card table cannot be attained without engaging to a certain degree in that process. There is hardly a play executed in bridge without making a wish. In taking a simple finesse the wish is that the adverse honor card is in the hand of the opponent playing second hand to the trick and so on down the line. So also successful defense cannot be planned without wishes as to the partner's holdings.

Frequently as a result of this practice we will reach the conclusion that a lead must be made from an ace or a king or something equally unattractive. Most players tighten up when they are faced with the likelihood of leading from one of these combinations. My suggestion is that when it becomes clear that a lead from such a suit is inevitable, relax and enjoy it. These words are intended especially for East in today's hand.

The bidding was normal. South had the lightest of overcalls justified only by the nonvulnerable condition. Notice North's jump to four spades which is entirely proper. A jump to only three spades would have been passed by South, who need not treat it as a force since he was not the opening bidder.

The deuce of clubs was opened and the queen went to declarer's ace. A trump was then led to dummy's jack and East took the trick with the ace. Fearing to lead from any of his other holdings East lazily got out with a trump. Declarer won and finessed the nine of hearts to East's queeen. East then awoke to the necessity of building up a diamond trick and returned the 10 of the suit, declarer winning with the queen, drove out the ace of hearts, and that was the end.

As soon as East is in with the ace of trumps he must realize that the contract cannot be defeated unless in addition to the trump trick and the two heart tricks, the defense can win a trick in diamonds. This involves the wish that partner has either the queen or the jack of diamonds, and the lead from the king must be made at once. This is no time to sit around and wait for your trick because it is apparent that the heart suit will be established for the discard of any losing diamonds there may be.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

Exhibit Brings 18th Century Village to Life

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Chicagoans who collect antiques will revel in the small replica of an 18th century village, now open to the public in the antique galleries of a Chicago store. They will find a typical country store on a small scale, a china shop, a silversmith's, a cabinet maker's, a postoffice, an old barn with a sleigh dating back to the 1790s, the living room of an American farmhouse, one of a London mansion, and a "counting house."

Great care has been taken to reproduce the atmosphere of such a hamlet. The floor of the little general store, for example, is made of the same wide floor boards used in that day, and the fireplace and wood panelled wall on the farmhouse living room are taken bodily from an old New England home.

There's even a real hay popping over the edge of the hayloft in the adjoining barn, and rafters are genuine, massive old beams. On pegs around the top of the walls are all sorts of odds and ends, such as small, antique side chairs, a black rocker, and old weather-vanes.

The "counting house" is a handsome, high ceilinged room designed to show the modern business man that his office can be beautiful as well as efficient. Its designer sees no reason why the man who likes antiques at home should not have them in his place of business as well.

The most important object in this interior is an enormous 18th century mahogany double desk, with a green leather top. It's made to accommodate two persons, and the four large pedestal supports contain six drawers each. The top rests on these pedestals and can be lifted off in one piece. The two owners face each other when seated.

A portrait of a bewigged young 18th century gentleman in a red velvet jacket hangs above the white fireplace and is a lovely touch of color against the deep green of the wall. Another contrasting note is the shaggy white rug used on the dark floor.

The drawing room, called "No. 15, St. James Pl.," gets its color scheme from a pair of 18th century paper chintz roller shades in floral design in reds, greens, yellows, and browns on white, used at the tall windows. Over-draperies are a rich, deep crimson.

A charming Hepplewhite fruitwood sofa in this room is done in an off-white textured upholstery. Other pieces are a Chippendale secretary, an English drum table, a tea table, a pair of arm chairs in the red of the draperies, and a wine cooler. Walls are hung in a parchment toned paper which gives the room a delightful, light, airy effect.

Old prints, china, silver, and furniture are to be seen in the various "shops" of this unique village, which will be on display for some months.

Many Church Groups will Observe 'World Day of Prayer' Today

The first Friday of Lent, today, has been set aside by religious groups over the world as a "World Day of Prayer," and in the United States and Canada more than 12,000 group meetings will be held.

In the Chicago area some 15 or more inter-denominational meetings will be held, one of the foremost being an all-day service sponsored by the women's division of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago.

The assembly will be held in Chicago temple, 33 N. Clark st., with Mrs. Paul Johnson of Oak Park as leader at the opening 10:30 session. Dr. Herrick B. Young, secretary of missionary personnel of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, will be the afternoon speaker. Dr. Young served as a missionary in Teheran, Iran, from 1925 to 1935.

Missionary Leaders Will Speak at Dinner

Missionary work in India and China will be described by three leaders at an interdenominational dinner in the Hotel Sherman at 6:30 p. m. Monday. The speakers will be Dr. Ida Scudder, founder and president of the Women's Medical college at Vellore, India; Dr. Edward H. Hume, president of Yale in China and father of the late Dr. Theodore H. Hume, pastor of Chicago's New England Congregational church, who was a passenger in a plane shot down over Scandinavia in 1943, and the Rev. J. Clifford McGilvray, secretary of Lord's College for Women in India. Headquarters for the dinner are at the Congregational Missionary council, 19 S. La Salle st.

GASOLINE ALLEY

FASHIONS By Angela

New spring coats for the young misses from 3 to 6 are as exciting as those for their older sisters and are available in many becoming styles and colors. Chesterfield, slightly fitted, box, and princess styles are among the recent arrivals in a Chicago store. There are single and double breasted models and solid color and checks, all moderately priced.

As delightful as a breath of spring is the navy blue wool princess coat at the left, trimmed with simulated Irish lace around the turnover collar and turnback cuffs. It buttons down the front and has two tiny, pointed chest pockets. The slim fitted lines of the back are graceful and attractive to the very young. The bonnet of red straw is trimmed with navy velvet.

Another gay little spring coat is one of the popular two color combinations in the center, in this case Kelly green and gold. It is double breasted and trimmed with smoked pearl buttons. High, round lapels are of gold colored wool, and the piping above the pockets and down the front seams are of the same shade. Two inverted plaits mark the back, below the waistline. It also is available in tan with brown and in two shades of blue.

Hound's tooth checks are as popular with the youngsters as their elders. The brown and white double breasted coat at the right has a brown velvet collar and high notch lapels. It is trimmed with two rows of smoked pearl buttons and has two deep pockets. Slim and straight of line in front, it is smartly belted across the back.

Spring Dress

Here are the new 1945 shoulders in a simple frock which is perfect for the splashy spring prints. Another marvelous thing about this design, it may be a jumper with a companion blouse, or be worn alone as a dressy frock. Style No. 2535 is designed for sizes 10 to 40. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch fabric for jumper; short sleeved blouse, 1⅝ yards of 35 inch material; long sleeved, 2 yards of 39 inch.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The spring fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Seek Articles to Help Yanks Pass Idle Hours

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Entertainment is as necessary to the morale of fighting men as food and sleep. We hope that readers able to supply any items mentioned here will write or telephone us at once.

The commanding officer of an LST has asked aid in obtaining articles for recreation for the men of his crew. He is especially anxious to locate an automatic turntable phonograph and semi-classical or popular phonograph records in good condition. Deep sea fishing tackle, including heavy linen lines, large size hooks, salt water reels, and any large feather or metal spoon lures, also is requested. For such idle time as the men have, equipment of this kind fills a vital need. The officer will be in this vicinity for about two weeks and will arrange to call for whatever is offered.

Sgt. B. writes:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am writing to you in behalf of the men at Camp X who are being retrained for the infantry. We are furnishing a day room and wish to make it as homelike as possible. Could you locate a console radio for us? I realize how difficult radios are to obtain, but such a gift would be a tremendous morale booster. Arrangements can be made for shipment."

'Private Investigator Maclain'

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

CLIPPINGS.

Sarah Hanley drank her cocktail while Capt. Maclain was questioning her. "When a client of yours writes a book, Mrs. Hanley, will you tell me just what you do?"

"I read it first, of course. If I don't think it's perfect, I suggest revisions. If I like it, I send one copy to a publisher and another copy to one of the magazines where I think the book might have a serial sale."

"There are other rights, too?"

"Of course. The author has a chance of movie rights, reprints in the cheap editions, and foreign sale."

"Do you tell your clients where you're submitting their work?"

"No. That's especially true when they're new. Established ones have regular publishers and most of the time regular magazine markets. If I tried to keep all of them informed what I was doing all the time, I'd never be able to make a sale. My books are audited regularly, Capt. Maclain. I remit money to my clients within 24 hours after I have it in my hands."

The captain said gently, "I'm sure you do, Mrs. Hanley. What I'm getting at is the fact that if it becomes necessary to check up on Larmar's income for the last year, the easiest way to do it would be thru you."

Sarah Hanley leaned back mollified. "Yes, that's quite true. Everything that Larmar makes thru his writing passes thru my office."

The telephone rang. Sarah Hanley picked it up and said, "Captain, it's for you."

The room was silent as he took the phone, said "Hello," and listened without speaking. "I'll come over," he said at last, and hung up.

"Sybella?" asked Lucia.

"She was conscious for a while," said Duncan Maclain. "That was the police," he said at last.

"Did she say anything?" asked Paul.

The captain turned his sightless eyes toward the other side of the room. "She talked a little. She found some clippings in Troy's apartment and a profile of Daniel Pine."

"Clippings?" repeated Sarah Hanley.

"Some of them had pink paper pasted on the back. Pink paper, Mrs. Hanley. May I have my hat? That knowledge is frightfully dangerous for her. It means she must not be left alone."

Davis and Detective Riker met him at the East River hospital.

Davis said, "Riker has the notes he made when Sybella talked."

The doctor came up.

Maclain asked, "How is she?"

The doctor took his arm. "You can go in if you want to, but I'm afraid she's lapsed again."

They started down the corridor together, with Davis and Riker following. Schnucke eased him gently to one side, giving passage to a rubber tired stretcher wheeled by a soft shod orderly.

"How long does this sort of thing go on?" asked Maclain.

The doctor's hand closed reassuringly on the captain's arm. "You're giving yourself a lot of needless worry. Now that she's come around, I'm practically certain she'll be all right. Patients often regain consciousness and lose it again. She's had a fairly serious injury to the brain."

The captain asked, "Have you any idea when she might recover again?"

"None," said the doctor. "It's always uncertain when—"

"You said that before," the captain reminded him bitterly.

The doctor said, "You're upsetting yourself needlessly, Capt. Maclain."

They went in the room and the captain sat down on a metal chair beside the bed. His fingers crept over the table top, touched the bulb in the bed light, and pulled away. He pictured Davis and Riker standing on the other side of the high, narrow bed and the doctor at the foot. The doctor was talking about orientation.

"You can't always believe what patients say when they first recover consciousness. I had a patient not so long ago whose car was struck by a fire truck. She remembered it instantly when she recovered, but she thought there had been three trucks instead of one. Her story was accurate enough, except for the three."

The captain was listening to Sybella's breathing. "She has a fever," he remarked.

"A little," the doctor admitted, glancing at Maclain, "but it's nothing serious."

"Nothing in life is serious," said Duncan Maclain.

"I don't believe I understand," said the doctor.

"That's because you're not blind," the captain told him. "You're a good doctor, so you have to stay detached from suffering. But I can't see it, so I have to feel it with my brain. Can we believe anything of what she's already said? Always taking into consideration her fairly serious injury to the brain."

"Certainly," said the doctor. "It's quite possible that she was oriented, altho—"

"There's always an element of doubt." The captain nodded.

"Yes, an element of doubt." The doctor raised his sleeve to look at his watch. "If you need me, I'll be in the hospital."

"Thank you," said Maclain.

The doctor went out and closed the door carefully behind him.

"I should think they could oil their hinges, Davis."

The inspector twisted around in his chair and looked at the door. "I didn't hear anything."

"It would drive me crazy," the captain said, "if I was lying ill in here."

Detective Riker shuffled his feet on the other side of the bed.

Davis asked, "Do you want to hear what she said? Riker has the notes."

"Yes."

The detective took a leather bound book from his pocket and began to read. "I was stationed at the bedside of Sybella Ford in room 43 of the East River—"

"You're not on the witness stand. Let's hear what she had to say," said Duncan Maclain.

Riker turned a page. "I was very careless. Will you tell Capt. Maclain? Somebody was back of the curtain and hit me. I tried to scream, but they hit me again. There were clippings in the drawer. Felix Nightingale. A widow named Cornelia Brown. There was a man found, beaten, by a railroad siding and something about a suicide, and lots of others. It's hard to remember. There was a necktie, a blue one, in Troy's closet. The New Yorkers in the drawer with the clippings had a profile of Daniel Pine. Duncan wanted to know—what she kept—"

"Her eyes are open," said Davis.

OHIO VS. ILLINI; GREAT LAKES TESTS DE PAUL

BIG NINE FOES MATCH 6 GAME VICTORY MARKS

Full House to See Clash Tonight.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 15 [Special].—Identical records of 11 victories in 14 starts, and winning streaks of six straight will be matched here tomorrow night when the Ohio State basketball team plays Illinois. A capacity crowd of 7,000 will see the game.

Ohio State is tied with Iowa for first place in the Western conference race, each with seven victories, and Illinois is third with five victories. All three have lost a game apiece.

Ohio State will start an all-veteran five, four of whom were regulars on last year's championship team—Jack Dugger and Don Grate, forwards, Arnie [Stilts] Risen, center, and Paul Huston, guard. The fifth starter will be Warren Amling of Pana, Ill., a reserve last year. With Risen stretching 6 feet 3½ inches, this lineup averages 6 feet 3½ inches per man. Jack Pfeifer, Risen's understudy, left this week in response to an army call.

Kirk, Judson Lead Illini.

Illinois will open with two holdover regulars from the team which won five and lost seven games in 1944 conference play. They are Walton [Junior] Kirk, Mount Vernon, guard, and Howie Judson, Hebron, forward. Bracketed with them are three freshmen, Walter [Slip] Kersulis, East St. Louis, center; John Orr, Taylorville, forward, and Jack Burmaster, Elgin, guard. They average 6 feet 2½ inches.

Neither team has been defeated since Jan. 6, when Michigan beat Illinois, 43 to 38, and Purdue won from Ohio State, 37 to 36. Since then each has won six straight.

Illinois has been consistently successful except for a holiday slump which brought defeats at the hands of Michigan, De Paul, and Great Lakes. The Illini beat the same teams in other meetings.

Play Later in Columbus.

Essentially a second-half team, Illinois has been behind six times at intermission and won five of the games.

Ohio State met its three defeats at the hands of Kentucky, Great Lakes, and Purdue and beat Purdue, 50 to 35, in the only return match offered.

This game is the first of two between the rivals, the second being scheduled for Columbus on Feb. 23.

Cancel Major Pin Meets at ODT Request

Two major bowling tournaments scheduled in Chicago this spring were cancelled yesterday and action taken which may wipe out all similar events as a result of the request of the office of defense transportation that civilian travel be curbed as much as possible. The Chicago tournaments definitely called off were the annual Victory meet which was scheduled for March 10 and 11 on the alleys of the Auditorium service men's center, and the national two man match game event, booked for May 18, 19 and 20, also at the Auditorium.

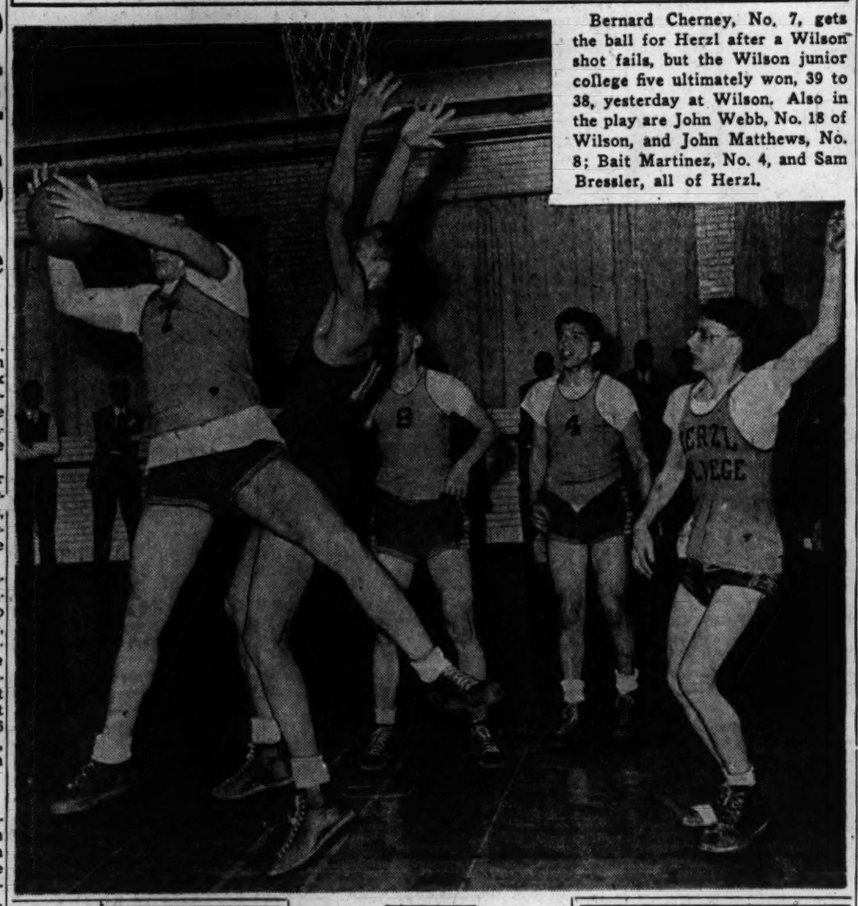

Announcement of the cancellations was made by Louis P. Petersen, general chairman of the service men's center bowling division, after a conference with Co-Chairmen Jack Samuelson, Jerry Peck, Barney Hochstadter and Billy Goldammer.

Petersen also said that he was calling off the 34th Petersen Individual Classic, which had been scheduled for May 5 thru 13 in Detroit.

Following in the same pattern, members of the Bowling Proprietors Association of Greater Chicago, in session at Congress recreation yesterday, went on record as being in accord with the ruling of the National Bowling Council, which had requested that tournaments requiring any intercity travel be called off. This action is expected to affect all tournaments scheduled in the Chicago area.

The Ohio and New York State Bowling associations also announced yesterday that they have called off plans for their state tournaments. The National Bowling council's request that tournaments be called off was aimed especially at events which normally draw competitors from a radius of 100 miles or more.

Wilson Avenges Early Season Defeat

Bernard Cherney, No. 7, gets the ball for Herzl after a Wilson shot fails, but the Wilson junior college five ultimately won, 39 to 38, yesterday at Wilson. Also in the play are John Webb, No. 18 of Wilson, and John Matthews, No. 8; Bait Martinez, No. 4, and Sam Bressler, all of Herzl.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Catholic Youth organization, long a rich proving ground of amateur boxing, will have only one candidate when the Tournament of Champions is held in the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 26, 27 and 28, but C. Y. O. loyalists are confident they couldn't have a stronger one than Joseph Henry Plummer Jr. of 3352 S. Rhodes av. And those citizens who watched Joey win the Chicago bantamweight crown in the city finals at Marigold last Monday are more than inclined to agree with the home club rooters.

Joey Plummer.

Plummer, who won't reach his 17th birthday until March 2, is a prime example of what a year's apprenticeship in the Golden Gloves novice school means to a young boxer. Many regulars among Marigold spectators recalled Joe from last year, when he won the novice glove in the 118 pound division by defeating Le Roy Chappell of the Kaleb Athletic club.

Proves Versatile Champion.

In the 1945 finals, the young south sider proved himself one of the most versatile champions on the team which will represent Chicago against the best boxers from 27 out of town centers in 22 other states. Joe drew as his opponent Salvador Melendez, a C. Y. O. colleague, and was in full command of the situation for the 100 seconds it lasted. He caught Salvador with a right hand in mid-ring, then fired the same weapon again to win by a technical knockout.

Plummer went out of his class last December in the annual C. Y. O. tournament, capturing the 126 pound championship by stopping Charley Immormino in the second round. This victory, combined with his triumph in the Chicago finals last Monday, have given Joey his biggest thrills in a career that numbers 24 fights. He has lost only one of them by decision to the talented Lloyd Watts last October, but his main aim

Wilson Beats Herzl, 39-38; Ties for Lead

BY DAVID CONDON.

Forward Dick Excell, captain of the Wilson Junior college basketball team, tossed in a free throw with less than two minutes remaining yesterday to give his team a 39 to 38 victory over Herzl in the Wilson gym.

It was the first loss for Herzl in the Northern Illinois Junior college conference and the 10th victory in 11 contests for Wilson. The teams now are tied for first place in the league. The triumph avenged a 45 to 43 defeat Herzl dealt Wilson earlier in the season.

Both Rely on Speed.

Yesterday's game, with Herzl fighting to maintain its perfect record and Coach Charley Smidl's Wilson five battling to remain in the conference race, was close thruout with each team using a fast offense.

The game started with a quick exchange of baskets, and the score was deadlocked at 4 all before Wilson started forging ahead, holding one to three point advantages until Herzl again tied the count at 18 all. Shortly before the half ended, Guard Johnny Webb dribbled in for a set up shot that gave Wilson a 20 to 18 lead at the intermission.

Wilson Loses Lead.

Wilson unleashed a short lived scoring burst in the third period, at one time running its lead to six points before Herzl rallied to narrow the margin, eventually working into the 38-all tie. Excell's successful attempt from the free throw line ended the afternoon's scoring.

Center Joe Buckhalter led the Wilson scorers with 13 points.

SEITH, FORMER ARMY PLAYER, CITED IN ITALY

ROME, Feb. 15 (AP).—Maj. Louis T. Seith, former West Point football player from San Diego, Cal., won both the distinguished service cross and the distinguished flying cross today for leading a Flying Fortress formation thru a torrid air battle to bomb a German air field.

His formation of 26 heavy bombers was attacked by more than 200 Nazi fighters. Fourteen Fortresses were shot down but gunners of the formation bagged 65 enemy craft. The surviving bombers destroyed many additional planes grounded on the field.

STAGE SET FOR NOMINATION OF BIG TEN CHIEF

The directors of athletics of the Western conference, at their meeting yesterday in the Sherman hotel, completed revision of the section of the handbook of the Intercollegiate Conference of Faculty Representatives, pertaining to the office of commissioner, a position vacant since the death of Maj. John L. Griffith last December. Griffith had held the position 22 years.

Guy Mackey, Purdue's athletic director, emphasized that the revision must be approved by the faculty representatives and he added that no successor to Maj. Griffith would be selected before March 8, when the directors hold their regularly scheduled meeting at the time of the conference indoor track meet at the University of Chicago. Since the faculty men do not have a regularly scheduled meeting until May, it must be assumed approval of yesterday's revision will be by mail vote or special meeting.

Approve $15,000 Salary.

At a previous meeting, the directors are reported to have offered the commissionership to H. O. [Fritz] Crisler of Michigan. Yesterday's revision approves the proposal of an annual salary of $15,000 for the commissioner, an increase of $5,000, as the individual university assessment was raised from $1,000 to $1,500. A pro-rated assessment on football receipts, computed on receipts for home football games, is additional source of revenue for the operation of the commissioner's office.

Apparently the major authority given the office under the revision is positive control of officials of conference athletic contests and "authority to make interpretations of and rulings on conference regulations and agreements governing the conduct of athletics."

Faculty Men Retain Control.

Rewording of the text, divided into six major headings, apparently does not increase further the authority of the commissioner, but requires his advice and assistance to develop and maintain friendly relations between member institutions. The office still will serve as a "clearing house for reports of supposed violations of conference rules of eligibility, regulations, and agreements, and as an agency for investigation of such cases."

Final authority over intercollegiate athletic competition in the conference apparently will still be vested in the faculty representatives.

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—The cellar dwelling Chicago Blackhawks, forced to wait 2 hours and 20 minutes for a chance at the fifth place Rangers because of train troubles, were a trifle more futile than usual when the game did get under way and the New Yorkers won, 6 to 2, in Madison Square Garden.

The defeat dropped the Chicagoans still deeper into the basement, whereas a victory would have given them fifth place and sent the losers into the tailend position. Three points now separate the Hawks from the Rangers, and their feeble Stanley cup playoff hopes are nearing extinction.

The Rangers suffered a blow early in the third period when Center Kilby MacDonald was forced to the sidelines with a broken shoulder blade after a collision with Cully Simon. He will be out for the season. Don Grosso, Hawk left winger, also injured in the period, has a badly twisted right knee.

Host Club Is Late.

The long wait was caused by the late arrival of the Rangers' train from Detroit where the New Yorkers had played last night. A crowd of 10,621, which remained in its seats, was entertained by a preliminary exhibition featuring two metropolitan amateur sextets.

Ken McAuley, Ranger goalie, out of two games because of a knee injury, resumed his place in the nets when Manager Paul Thompson of the Hawks refused permission to use Doug Stevenson, who is Chicago property but who was used by New York on a lend-lease agreement via the New York Amateur Rovers.

Hawks Score First.

The Hawks got a goal in 1 minute 13 seconds of the first period when Pete Horeck took a long pass out from Butch McDonald and whipped it past McAuley. Bob Dill tied the count in 1:01 after receiving a pass from Ab De Marco, and Grant Warwick put the home club ahead in 3:44 with the aid of Hank Goldup. Joe Cooper made it 2-all when he golfed the puck into the nets from far out on the right.

Another long shot gave the Rangers the lead in 10:59. Ott Heller, standing halfway between the penalty line and the blue stripe, fired Warwick's pass thru a mob of players and into the cage. The Rangers made it 4 to 2 at 7:30 in the second period, when Dill scored with help from Bill Moe and Goldup.

Hunt Makes It a Rout.

The defeat became a rout late in the third period when Fred Hunt got away for two goals. Phil Watson, and Bucko McDonald got assists on the first one and Joe Shack on the second.

MICHIGAN, N.U. OPEN STADIUM CARD TONIGHT

Blue Demons Seek 18th Victory.

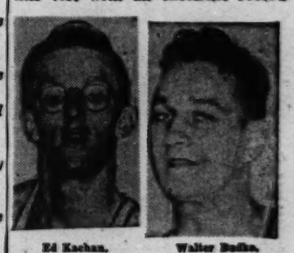

BY WILFRID SMITH.

De Paul's Blue Demons, possibly the best basketball team in the history of the north side university, face a final major test tonight in the Stadium against the challenge of Great Lakes. This game will be preceded at 8:15 o'clock by a Western conference contest between Northwestern and Michigan in which the Wolverines conclude their season.

This is Michigan's first appearance in the Stadium and if successful in reversing the verdict of last week, when Northwestern won, 49 to 34, in Ann Arbor, the Wolverines will finish with five victories and seven defeats. Northwestern, of course, can register its fourth victory against six defeats. The Wildcats have remaining games with Minnesota and Illinois, the latter contest in the Stadium.

Can They Stop Mikan?

De Paul has won 17 games this season and lost to Illinois in a series which was divided. George Mikan, the Demons' great center, has contributed 375 of De Paul's 1,075 points. Great Lakes comes to this test with an excellent record of 28 victories and 4 defeats. The Bluejackets have been beaten twice by Illinois and divided series with Valparaiso and Notre Dame.

The script for tonight's game is identical with that of De Paul's string of victories in Stadium basketball: Can Great Lakes hold Mikan in check? No one has held the big fellow under double digit scoring and he has a 21 point average. If Great Lakes concentrates on Mikan, the task will be given first to Walt Budko, former Columbia university star who last year set an eastern scoring record.

Sailors Are Fast.

Chief Specialist Forrest Anderson, Great Lakes coach, may elect to permit Mikan more freedom of movement than he would have if two men were assigned to guard him and thus take a chance on stopping the remaining four De Paul regulars, Ed Kachan and Jack Allen, guards, and Gene Stump and Ernie Di Benedetto, forwards.

The Bluejackets also boast of well balanced scoring. Mickey McGuire, the brilliant guard from St. John's 1944 championship quintet in the national invitational tournament in New York, currently leads the attack with 309 points. He is followed by Warren Ajax, another guard, formerly of Minnesota, with 291 points, and this emphasizes the strength of Great Lakes' deep court shooting as well as the drive of the guards on openings to the goal.

Luke Majorki and Paul Cloyd, the forwards, fit into this style of play. They have scored 263 and 241 points, respectively. Budko has 235 points while Rand Clark, who is invaluable as a relief man after a slow start in early season, has scored 170.

Schadler Back in Old Spot.

Northwestern's coach, Dutch Lonborg, probably will start Johnny Norton at forward tonight against Michigan, thus returning Capt. Benny Schadler to his regular guard position where he pairs with Frank Wright. Fred Johnson apparently has earned the other starting forward job in recent games. Insertion of Norton into the lineup sends Red Clawson, guard, to the sidelines.

Northwestern's center, Max Morris, is the conference's leading scorer, an honor now threatened by Junior Kirk of Illinois, who has six more conference games to play including tonight's championship test with Ohio State. Three of Michigan's regulars are Illinois boys, John Mullaney, forward, Evanston; Walter Kell, guard, Kankakee, and Don Lindquist, guard, Rockford.

LINDBLOM AND PHILLIPS SHARE CENTRAL LEAD

Kelly Loses to Drop Into Tie with Tilden.

Phillips defeated Kelly, 39 to 33, on the Phillips court yesterday to break a three way tie for first place in the central section senior of the City league basketball race. Lindblom beat Gage Park, 45 to 28, to keep in the running for top honors.

Lindblom and Phillips now have six victories and one defeat. Kelly is tied for third place with Tilden, each with five triumphs in seven games.

Butler Leads Attack.

Phillips led Kelly, 13 to 10, in the first quarter, 19 to 17, at half time, and 31 to 29 when the third period was concluded. Walter Butler was high point man for the victors with 16 points.

Lindblom held a 20 to 16 advantage over Gage Park at the half. Chester Giermak paced for the winning quintet with 12 points.

Tars Go Into Tie.

South Shore, playing on its home floor, won two games from Chicago Vocational in the south section. The home club juniors captured their seventh start in eight games, 51 to 35, to pull into a first place tie with Hyde Park.

The South Shore seniors remained undefeated with a 38 to 35 victory. It was the eighth consecutive victory for the Tars. Bob Huneryager and Dan Cottin shared scoring honors, each with 11 points.

LAMBERT MAY MISS PURDUE'S LAST 2 GAMES

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 15 [Special]. —Purdue's basketball squad may be minus the direction of Coach Ward Lambert as it winds up the current campaign in road games against Wisconsin and Great Lakes on Saturday and Sunday, respectively.

The veteran Boilermaker coach was confined to his home with a severe cold today as he named a 12 man traveling squad for the season's final games and said Joe Dienhart, assistant coach, may have to assume charge.

The Boilermakers will be seeking their seventh conference victory in order to strengthen their grip on fourth place in their Big Nine final against a Badger quintet that was defeated here earlier in the season, 45 to 34.

Following the Wisconsin game, the Boilermakers complete their schedule against Great Lakes at the naval training center Sunday evening and then return here for the annual basketball banquet sponsored by the Lafayette Lions' club Monday night.

SICKLE TOY TOYS WITH FIELD; WINS MEXICO FEATURE

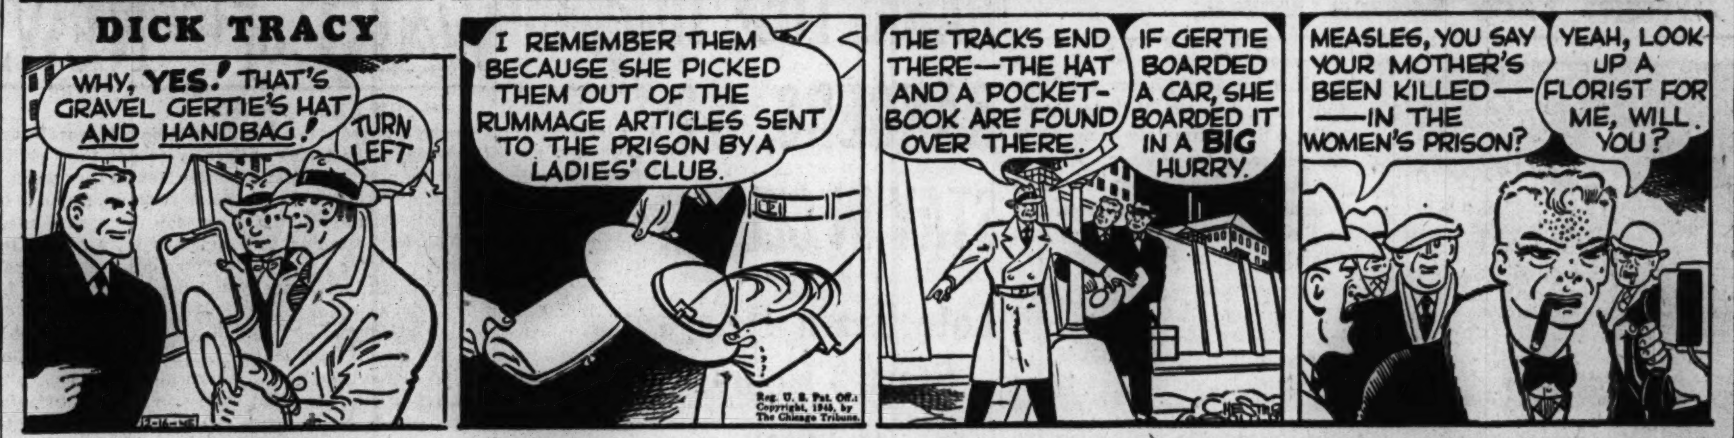

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 15 (AP).—Rice and Goshen's 4 year old Sickle Toy, heavily played favorite, toyed with his field to lead from start to finish in the featured Premio Tepic at the Hipodromo de Las Americas today.

The son of Sickle, ridden by the recently arrived American jockey, James Thornburg, defeated Mrs. H. P. Bonner's Miss Daunt by four lengths. Rancho Tarabillas' Push was third.

A large daily double pay-off resulted when Dallas Gal, paying $19.60, and Riskey Sid, worth $7.40, took the second and third races. The lucky few cashed in $154.80 double tickets.

PRINTCRAFT PIN TOURNAMENT TO OPEN TOMORROW

The second annual Chicago Printcraft Bowling association tournament will open tomorrow on the Lakeview Recreation alleys, 3239 N. Clark st., and will continue thru Monday.

A total of 65 teams, 152 doubles, and 304 singles entries will battle for more than $2,000 in prizes. First prize in the team event is $175.

In addition to bowling activities, the association aims to further good will among members of the printcraft brotherhood, which is composed of the Allied Printing Trades council of Chicago.

Three Detroit teams will represent the national organization which suspended its tournament until after the war. During the three days bowlers will be entitled to food and refreshments, and on the final night a floor show and dancing in the party hall at the alleys.

WILLIAMS MAY HAVE NEXT SHOT AT ZURITA TITLE

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—Juan Zurita, N. B. A. lightweight champion, probably will make his next title defense in Philadelphia against Ike Williams during the first week in April, his manager, George Parnassus, said today.

Negotiations for a 15 round fight between Zurita and Bobby Ruffin for March 16 in Madison Square Garden fell thru today.

Instead, Promoter Mike Jacobs signed Ruffin to meet Chalky Wright on March 30 after a reshuffle which moved up the Lee Oma-Tami Mauriello heavyweight bout, originally scheduled for that date, to March 23, and advanced the Mello Bettina-Jimmy Bivins bout from March 23 to March 16, the only available open date.

Hot Dog Prize Son of Frizzle and Sandwich

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—There are 5,884 two year olds in the 1945 crop and this is the time of year when horse owners must look to the jockey club's Feb. 28 deadline for naming them—a science and art almost as interesting as the breeding of future racers.

Names must be appropriate and restricted to 14 letters and spaces. Maybe one of every 1[illegible] is accepted by Registrar Fred Klees. Duplicating a name used in the last 15 years brings rejection, as does a name smacking of advertising or other lack of propriety.

One of the most humorously named was Hot Dog, whose daddy was Frizzle, his mammy Sandwich. A couple of full brothers were named Hash and Monday Lunch, by Questionnaire-Delicacy.

Lt. Alfred Vanderbilt, a Brooklyn Dodger fan who delights in naming his many color bearers, has picked Strike Three for a colt by Discovery-That's That; Kitchen Police for another by Discovery-Galley Slave; Bone, by Identify-Mother Hubbard; Newsprint, by Discovery-Spot News.

Broadloom and Cambric were the cognomens given two sons of Good Goods.

Champion money winner Whirlaway's first foal on Sept. 7 was born to the test mare Mary V. and the little colt was named First Whirl.

13 PROS BREAK PAR IN GULFPORT WARMUP ROUNDS

Gulfport, Miss., Feb. 15 (AP).—In a warmup round for the $5,000 Gulfport Open which starts tomorrow, 13 of golf's money players beat par on the Southern Country club course.

Bruce Coltart, Absecon, N. J., turned in the best score with a four under par 67. Sgt. E. J. [Dutch] Harrison, a surprise entry, toured the layout in 68. Other 68s were scored by Claude Harmon, Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Mike Turnesa, and Sam Snead.

Five professionals, Denny Shute, Sgt. Harrell Williams, Joe Zarhardt, Frank Strazza, and Henry Picard, fired 69s, and one under par 70s were turned in by Chick Rutan, Milton Demaret, and Gene Kunes. Byron Nelson and Harold [Jug] McSpaden, who finished one-two in the New Orleans Open last week, did not turn in cards this afternoon.

WEIGHT LIFTERS TO COMPETE AT DUNCAN Y.M.C.A.

The sixth annual Chicago novice weight lifting contest will be held Sunday afternoon in Duncan Y. M. C. A., 1515 W. Monroe st., with from 50 to 75 entries expected.

There will be six body weight lifting events, ranging from 125 pounds to the heavyweight class, for two divisions—one closed to Y. M. C. A. members, and the open to persons not Y members.

Contestants will include representatives of Chicago, Racine, and Aurora Y. M. C. A.s, Culver Military academy, and a group of Gary steel mill workers.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 15 (AP).—Heavyweight Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland, unbeaten in nearly three years, will meet Johnny Flynn of Rochester in a 10 round bout at the Arena Feb. 27, Matchmaker Larry Atkins announced today.

Flynn, Polish heavyweight who took an Irish name, has been idle since he beat Joey Maxim here in a pre-Christmas show. Bivins whipped Lee Q. Murray last February, and fought but one bout since leaving the army on a medical discharge.

Atkins said Bivins would receive 30 per cent of the gate and Flynn 20 per cent.

EDDIE MILLER OF REDS GIVEN TEST FOR DRAFT

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15 (AP).—Eddie Miller, Cincinnati Reds' shortstop, took his pre-induction physical examination yesterday, despite a broken kneecap suffered recently while skating.

Miller, one of baseball's greatest fielding shortstops, has been living at Cotuit on Cape Cod this winter. He suffered the knee injury about a week ago.

Judge Grants Injuction to Mrs. Lou Angelucci

Mrs. Lou Angelucci yesterday was granted an injunction restraining her husband, professional middleweight boxer of South Chicago, from molesting her by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. A divorce suit, charging drunkenness and cruelty, also was filed against Angelucci, former city Golden Gloves champion.

Matmen Meet Tomorrow for Big 10 Titles

A wide open fight for the Big Ten wrestling championship is in prospect at Northwestern university's Patten gymnasium tomorrow when Michigan, the defending titleholder, will face a formidable array of challengers from Illinois, Minnesota, and Indiana.

Nine schools will be represented in the meet, which will be limited to a single day. Preliminaries will be held in the morning, semi-finals in the afternoon, and finals at night.

Michigan Seeks 100th Title.

Michigan, with a record of three victories, two ties, and one defeat in dual meets, will have an added incentive in defending its title this year, as a victory would give the Wolverines their 100th athletic championship in the Western conference since their entrance into the league in 1895. To date Michigan's athletic teams have won 99 titles in 10 different sports, including two previous wrestling titles.

The Wolverine wrestlers, however, face a stiff task in attempting to count that 100th title as they have been defeated by Illinois, 21 to 10, and twice have been tied by Indiana, 12 to 12, and by Minnesota, 14 to 14.

Illinois Is Favorite.

Paced by two undefeated grapplers in Jim Galles, 175 pounder, and Bob Johnston, 128 pound freshman, the Wolverines, however, will definitely be a power in the meet.

The Illini, with a record of four straight victories in conference matches, loom as the pre-meet favorite. In Bob Burwell, 128 pounds, and Roland Harkness, 165 pounds, the Illini have two strong contenders for individual titles. Both are freshmen and come up to the meet with undefeated records. Heavyweight Ray Snyder was beaten only in the Iowa Seahawk meet.

COULON BOXERS CLASH TONIGHT IN MADISON A. C.

Amateur boxers from the Johnny Coulon gymnasium will appear in a series of bouts tonight in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison st. These will include Hank Okura, 130; Richard Brewer, 136; Bob Vesley, 120; Don Pendly, 112; and Bob Wright, 165. Okura is paired with James Ward, Brewer with Don Lonergan, Vesley with Ray Payne, Pendley with Richard Payne, and Wright with Alex Tsakaris.

In one of two other contests Ronald Soble, Madison A. C. middleweight, will oppose Morris Taylor, Savoy A. C. Soble, Richard Payne, and Lonergan recently won novice city Golden Gloves titles.

ELGIN TO SEEK BIG 8 CROWN AT JOLIET TONIGHT

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 15 [Special].—Joliet High's basketball team has bounced up and down this season while winning 12 games and losing 8. But the season will be something of a success if the Steelers can pull the upset of the year in Big Eight competition by beating Elgin here tomorrow night.

Joliet accomplished something akin to this when it beat Rockford East, 45 to 44, last month and drove that team out of a tie with Elgin for the conference lead. Now Elgin's grip on first place depends upon its success here. Elgin has won 11 of 14 games and will clinch its fourth championship in five years if it beats Joliet.

Costner Gets Another Bout in Stadium

BY FRANK MASTRO.

George Costner, knockout specialist of Cincinnati, is not discouraged despite his first round defeat at the hands of Ray [Sugar] Robinson in Chicago Stadium on Wednesday.

Costner, whose sudden setback snapped his string of 23 straight victories, 22 by knockouts, returned to his home yesterday afternoon enriched by a $10,000 purse he was paid for the 2 minutes 55 seconds the match lasted.

He'll Get Another Chance.

George will start all over again in the next show in the Stadium March 16 against an opponent still to be selected, Promoters Jack Begun and Irving Schoenwald said last night.

The show was a success financially, profits amounting to approximately $15,000. Of this sum Mike Jacobs, who has an option on Robinson's services, will collect 25 per cent or $3,750, for permitting Ray to go thru with the engagement. The balance will be split among the Stadium, Matchmaker Jack Hurley, Schoenwald, and Begun.

Robinson also left yesterday after being paid $25,100. Before he boarded a train for New York he turned over $4,400 to Nat Rogers, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, who represented Jacobs at the bout. The money was payment of a debt Robinson owed Jacobs.

Fire Damages Gymnasium.

Altho Costner's defeat was a disappointment to his followers, none doubted that he did his best. His defeat was the result of inexperience against a boxer like Robinson, former New York Intercity Golden Gloves champion and generally conceded to be the world's best 147 pounder regardless of the fact Freddy [Red] Cochrane holds the title.

When they appeared yesterday at Ringside loop gymnasium, which is managed by Danny Spunt but owned by Schoenwald and Begun, the promoters learned the place had been damaged by fire during the night. The loss was estimated at $4,000.

Plummer to Carry C. Y. O. Gloves Hopes

now is to fight his way thru the Tournament of Champions and into the grand finals in the Stadium ring on March 9.

Joe owes his love for boxing to his father, a dentist with offices at 4955 S. Michigan av., who presented him with a pair of gloves when he was 8. His opponents were neighborhood pals until he enrolled at the C. Y. O. gymnasium more than a year ago. There Dick Fitzpatrick, C. Y. O. boxing instructor, soon detected unusual ability in the youngster. Dick is convinced that Plummer, whom he credits with ring savvy to be expected in a youth five years his senior, will acquit himself in the best C. Y. O. traditions during the Tournament of Champions.

Plummer will have a personal rooting delegation composed of his parents and his 14 year old sister, Orlette. Joe has completed two years at Wendell Phillips High school, but will enter the Lewis Holy Name School of Aeronautics to take a basic engineering course, beginning with the next quarter there.

PARKER WRESTLERS WIN.

The Parker High school wrestling team defeated Morgan Park yesterday, 24 to 18, at Morgan Park.

CANDIDATES FOR LANDIS' BERTH WAIT AND FRET

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The many self-elected candidates for the vacant baseball commissioner's chair, which is well upholstered with a $50,000 per annum wage, are reported to be developing bad cases of fidgets over failure to receive any response to their expressed willingness to give the game a helping hand.

Most of them never will get answers to their letters setting forth their willingness to sacrifice themselves for the good of the game but, at least thus far, they should remain calm. The committee recently named as in charge of separating the sheep from the goats, hasn't held a meeting, altho there has been some preliminary sparring such as passing around letters.

Bradley Is in Florida.

The reason the committee hasn't buckled down and made headway is that one member, Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland club, has been taking a needed rest in the some times sunny south. He is scheduled to return this week-end so it is probable that within a few days thereafter he'll meet up with the other committee members—namely P. K. Wrigley of the Cubs, Don Barnes of the Browns, and Sam Breadon of the Cards. To avoid snoopers or pressure, the body may gather secretly at some whistle stop.

Another factor in the leisurely conduct of the committee is that they, like many of the other owners, remain convinced that the major leagues can get along indefinitely without a figurehead, altho the hurryup guys among the 16 now are raising the point that a commissioner should be picked quickly and then rushed to Washington to launch a struggle in behalf of the 1945 season. Whether Washington would do any more for a commissioner than for Will Harridge and Ford Frick, respective American and National president, is doubtful.

Hope to Reduce Field.

The intention of the committee is to boil down the field to a suitable three or four men—if it can judge that many are qualified—and submit these to a joint meeting of the two leagues. It even is possible that the committee will recommend only one man and, if they agree to that extent, it will be a pretty good indication that they took the trouble in advance to "feel out" the other clubs.

The great mystery as to when the White Sox are going to open their spring camp at Terre Haute, Ind., may be solved shortly. Vice President Harry Grabiner hopes to receive word from James Dykes, the gay little manager, in reply to a letter asking him when, if ever, he would like to get to work.

Panhandle Sales Volume Rises 30 Per Cent.

Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company yesterday reported net income in 1944 increased almost two million dollars above 1943 profit to the highest level ever reached by the Chicago company. The volume of gas sold increased approximately 30 per cent and the volume handled increased 36 per cent.

Maguire, chairman, and Edward Buddrus, president, told stockholders in their annual report. Sales of natural gas and natural gasoline rose to $23,776,914 from $17,921,344 to 1943.

Woolworth Earns More.

F. W. Woolworth company reported sales set a record of $459,847,395 in 1944, compared with $439,009,003 in 1943. The retirement of Charles Sumner as board chairman and his appointment as honorary chairman was announced. He will continue as a director. No successor was named.

Total production was at an all time high and sales rose to $225,528,760, second highest total in the company's history, from $191,086,606 in 1943.

INSISTS PLANT WILL CLOSE ON VINSON'S ORDER

New York, Feb. 15 [Special].—Asserting that compliance with a WLB order would mean the rehiring of persons responsible for a strike last September at the Brooklyn plant of E. A. Laboratories, Inc., Joseph M. Alfiero, president and general manager, today said he would close the plant before he would comply.

Alfiero's statement followed an order of Economic Stabilizer Vinson imposing economic sanctions on the company for its alleged noncompliance with the WLB directive, which ordered the company to reinstate all employes and also ordered that any discharges hereafter be subject to grievance machinery of the contract between the company and local 844 of the CIO Automobile Workers. At the time of the strike the company declared the walkout had ended its contract with the union and announced that workers would be hired on a new employment basis only.

"I will close my plant before I rehire those who were responsible for the work stoppage," Alfiero said. "I won't recognize the union, for there is no union here. Since the people went back to work they do not want anything to do with the union."

GRAINS DECLINE ON IMPROVING CAR PROSPECTS

Predictions that country shippers would receive enough box cars by next week to restore a near normal grain movement to terminal markets had a depressing effect on grain futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat, oats, and rye prices were off 1 cent or more early on hedging sales, but the late strength in securities and short covering caused a fair rally. Wheat closed at losses of ⅜ to ⅞ cent a bushel; corn, ¼ to ½; oats, ⅜ to 1; and rye, ⅝. Barley closed ⅝ lower to ⅛ higher.

Hearings for Small Industries Barred.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—New Deal forces today cleared the way for an effort to push thru congress their substitute for "work or jail" legislation—a measure shifting man power compulsion from individual workers to employers—by ending senate hearings on man power bills.

The new bill was introduced late today by Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] and referred to the senate military affairs committee. The measure would give the war man power commission authority to fix the number of employes of any company, regardless of age or sex, and to make regulations governing the hiring by essential industries of workers forced out of non-essential plants by job ceilings.

Chairman Thomas [D., Utah] said the military committee would hold no further hearings on man power bills. Before it already were the "work or jail" bill passed by the house and a substitute bill directing draft boards to coöperate with the WMC in filling war industry man power needs.

Testify Only by Invitation.

The hearings held were closed, however, and only witnesses invited by the committee were permitted to testify. He said committee members believed much of the uninvited testimony would be similar to that heard by the house military committee last month.

Apprehension that the Kilgore bill or any measure strengthening WMC powers will be harmful to small industries was put on record outside the hearing by Maury Maverick, chairman of the Smaller War Plants corporation. He asked Thomas for a hearing today, but was refused.

The fiery Maverick then told reporters he feared WMC would permit high ceilings for large war industries, force workers from small plants to help the big plants reach their ceilings, and eventually force many small industries out of business.

Muddle Laid to Politics.

One government official said the muddle over man power legislation was the result of the army, navy, White House, WMC, and other government agencies "playing politics." The army and navy have strongly advocated a labor draft under draft boards. Civilian agencies have urged control by nonmilitary branches of government.

No word came from the war and navy departments today on their attitude toward the new bill, but Kilgore said his proposal had the backing of the CIO, AFL, National Association of Manufacturers, and Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Labor backing was explained by its general opposition to a man power draft. The N. A. M. and chamber of commerce support was attributed to a desire of "big business" to maintain its labor pools.

'TRY COUP ON FRESHIES'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—The United Mine Workers Journal charged today that pending man power legislation represents an army-navy attempt "to put over a central American coup d'etat with a 'freshie congress'." It said:

"The Roosevelt administration, having failed over and over again during the last three years in its determination to regiment American working men, evidently figured that it would be easy to dupe the new house into accepting the buncombe that the act was necessary as a morale builder for the soldiers as well as a guarantee of production.

"The unfortunate part of it all is that the administration's calculations, insofar as the house was concerned, were correct. Not only did the 'freshies' fall for it, but a goodly number of alleged staid 'old timers' who know better."

Reciting optimistic victory predictions in 1943 and 1944, it asked:

"If they could make such whopping mistakes about the duration of the war, why should they be given credence upon a subject about which they know nothing—that is, the productivity of labor in modern industrial effort?"

WHISKY SUPPLY SET AT 57 PCT. NORMAL DEC. 31

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—Aged whisky stocks are about 57 per cent of normal, Allied Liquor Industries, Inc., reported today. Stocks aggregated about 241 million tax gallons on Dec. 31 [after evaporation and leakage losses], compared with 302 million on Jan. 1, 1944, and a prewar normal whisky inventory of approximately 425 million gallons.

The report said that because of sizable gains in beverage spirit imports in 1944 and the August resumption in domestic production, distillers, rectifiers, and importers last year put 16 per cent more spirits into consumption than they did in 1943.

United Light & Railway Will Call Debenture Issue

New York, Feb. 15 (AP). — William G. Woolfolk, president of United Light and Railway company, today announced the company's $23,837,000 of 5½ per cent debentures, due 1952, would be retired thru the use of cash on hand and a bank loan not exceeding 17 million dollars, as a step in readjusting the affairs of United Light and Power company, holding company system.

Job Agencies Offer to Help Find Workers

Leading private employment agencies in the loop joined yesterday in offering their services without cost to the war man power commission to help fill the 16,200 critically important war jobs which William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, said are unfilled in Chicago.

The offer came from the Chicago Association of Employment Agencies, a recently organized group of private hiring agencies, headed by John O'Donnell of Triangle-Majestic Employment agency as temporary chairman. The board of directors includes George Nicholson, who operates four loop agencies, and Raymond J. Healy, president of United Employment Agencies.

Asks Referral Power.

Nicholson said the association believes the task of filling critical war jobs can be accomplished in "a third of the time" if WMC permits the private agencies, which he said are "professionals" in job placement, to coöperate.

O'Donnell said the only condition asked is that WMC allow the agencies the same referral powers granted to United States Employment Service offices. They would want such powers only for factories with top priority on man power.

The agencies propose to have WMC supply them with daily lists of the top 20 or 25 war plants needing workers, the number needed, and the nature of work and wage rate. They would send workers direct to these jobs, determine whether they were placed, and notify the USES offices of each placement.

Seek to Cut Absenteeism.

War production board officials, meanwhile, said that an average of more than 5 per cent of Chicago's production workers was absent from their jobs each day. If they worked every day, this would almost wipe out the current estimated 50,000 worker shortage in all industries.

Fred G. Lange, regional manager of the WPB's production drive, said that reasons why men and women lay off include illness and accident, long hours and inconvenient shifts, monotony, transportation difficulties, housing troubles, housekeeping responsibilities, and poor organization of production methods in some plants, plus the fact that some persons are simply allergic to work.

Many "solutions" to the problem have been tried. Some have worked. Recreation facilities invariably have a good effect, Lange said. Departments set up to help with rationing, income tax, banking, and other service problems have helped.

AIRCRAFT FIRM REPLACES BOTH BOARD, OFFICERS

Stockholders of Howard Aircraft corporation at the annual meeting in the Blackstone hotel yesterday ousted sitting directors and replaced them with a new board which elected different officers

The changes were an aftermath of court litigation in which stockholders charged the executive committee of three officials "controled and dominated the corporation and wasted and dissipated" assets. The company has had no operating facilities for several months, navy contracts having been terminated.

Ray T. Haas, a new director who was elected president, said the new board would "do everything in its power to salvage something out of the corporation's assets" for its stockholders. The other new directors are Erling J. Hansen, Henry D. Macfarlane, William Cureton, Thornton C. McCune, Joseph T. Zoline, and Thomas Cline. The other new officers are Hansen and McCune, vice presidents, and Zoline, secretary and treasurer.

Daniel Peterkin Jr., one of the largest stockholders, was the ousted president.

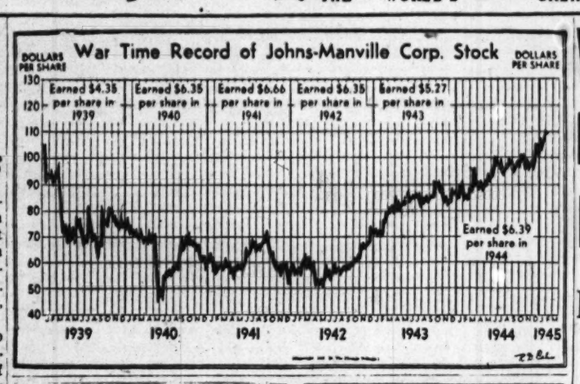

CATTLE VOLUME REACHES PEAK; PRICES STEADY

As a result of the heavy farm selling of short-fed steers and heifers, the Chicago cattle market this week has set a February record for receipts since 1919 and shipments from Chicago, mostly to eastern packers, have been the heaviest for this month since 1911.

Demand for almost all classes of cattle is the strongest in the memory of veteran stock yard men. Prices were steady yesterday.

Hog receipts were the largest on a Thursday in three weeks. The four day total was 10 per cent above last week, but only half year ago volume and far below demand. Nearly all stock brought ceiling prices.

Lambs sold slowly at steady to 25 cents lower prices.

Stevens Hotel Sale Program Is Completed

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

With the transfer of a 3 million dollar check, ownership of the Stevens hotel yesterday passed from interests headed by Stephen A. Healy, Chicago contractor, to a group headed by Conrad N. Hilton, Los Angeles hotel operator. The title was transferred from the Avenue Hotel corporation of which Healy is president, to the Stevens Hotel corporation, headed by Hilton.

Stephen A. Healy.

Legal technicalities were completed in offices of the American National Bank and Trust company. The 7½ million dollar sale was one of the largest Chicago real estate deals in years.

Williford to Take Charge.

Hilton said that the Stevens, as the largest hotel in the world, would be the principal unit in the Hilton group. Robert P. Williford, who has been managing director of the Roosevelt hotel in New York will become vice president and managing director of the Stevens. He will move to Chicago immediately.

Henry L. Ludwig, formerly with the executive offices in Los Angeles, will become controler of the Stevens and will hold the position of controler of Hilton hotels as well. The present staff is expected to be retained by the new management.

The principals in the transaction were two Americans who started from scratch and reached a position in life sufficiently important to let them buy and sell the world's largest hotel. Healy began work in the Chicago building trades and ultimately became a contractor on his own, with the Chicago subway, the recent Panama canal project and other large contracting jobs on his books.

Started Small Hotel.

Hilton's father, A. H. Hilton, was a merchant in the small town of San Antonio, N. M. The Hilton family grew to include eight children and their home necessarily became a sizable house. When the children went away to school there were vacant rooms, the senior Hilton rented them, and eventually he had a small hotel. Conrad Hilton worked in the hotel during summer vacations.

He emerged from the army at the end of World War I., as a 2d lieutenant in need of employment. Deciding to capitalize on his only business experience he went to Cisco, Tex., and opened a small hotel. In the years following he expanded his operations thruout Texas and later his group included some of the country's most widely known hotels.

Directors of the Stevens Hotel corporation are: Hilton; Herbert L. Stern, Lawrence Stern & Co.; L. Boyd Hatch, executive vice president, Atlas corporation; W. J. Friedman, Chicago attorney; David Baird, vice president, Marsh & McLennan; Young, Williford, Ludwig, Keith, Robert E. Straus, vice president, American National; and Frank Freeman, vice president of Paramount Pictures, Inc.

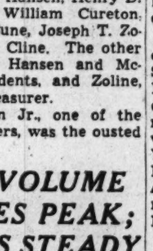

In addition to interests previously reported as associated with Hilton, it was disclosed yesterday that the Atlas corporation, of which Floyd Odlum, New York, is president, and A. R. Glancy, Detroit, former General Motors executive, participated in the purchase.

Retailers Banned by WPB from Buying Copper Wire

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—Sale of copper wire to retailers was suspended today by the WPB because of the critical military need for field wire. Retailers may continue to sell wire they have on hand. WPB said present stocks would be sufficient to meet essential civilian needs until the middle of the year if dealers initiate self-rationing to their customers.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Charles Foster Glore, partner of Glore, Forgan & Co., investment banker, yesterday was elected a director of Stewart-Warner corporation, James S. Knowlson, president, said. Glore succeeds Gardiner Symonds who resigned to establish his headquarters in Houston, Tex., as president of Tennessee Gas and Transmission company, a Chicago corporation subsidiary.

The Elmhurst district of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company won the Ecker award for outstanding five years accomplishment in insurance sales in 16 classifications in the United States and Canada, comprising some 800 district offices. Paul N. Miller, manager, was informed of the award by LeRoy A. Lincoln, president of the company.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—2.

By important innovations in the tax return forms, congress and the revenue bureau have sought to make the task of reporting income simpler and easier this year for most individual taxpayers than ever before.

The most striking example of the simplified procedure is a provision under which most wage earners instead of choosing the regular form 1040 may, if they wish, report their income and exemptions by writing a few entries on the revised form W-2. This is the withholding tax receipt which employers were required to furnish by Jan. 31 to all employes whose wages were subject to withholding. On this form the taxpayer does not calculate the amount of tax or refund due. On the basis of the information which it contains, the collector determines the tax from the tax table and then bills the taxpayer for any amount due or mails a refund check without further formality.

Use of form W-2 as a tax return is limited to employes [1] whose total income for the year is less than $5,000, [2] whose income is entirely from wages, dividends, or interest, and [3] whose income other than from wages subject to withholding does not exceed $100. If the wage earner worked for more than one employer during the year, he must attach all withholding receipts to his form W-2 return.

The employer's receipt shows total wages paid and the amount of tax withheld. In using it as a tax return, enter on the face of the slip the amount of all wages received which were subject to the withholding tax. On a line just below this item list the amount of other income if any. Then add these two items to show total income.

Additional entries to be made are the names of persons on whose account the person filing claims exemptions. List these on the back of form W-2. They include your own name. If married at the end of the year and you and your wife make a joint return, list her name. In case you make a separate return, list your wife's name only if she had no income and did not receive her chief support from another person closely related to her as, for example, her father. If your wife died during the year, you may list her name under the same conditions as in making a separate return. List also the names of close relatives whom you are entitled to claim as dependents.

A married couple may combine their income on a withholding receipt if the combined income is within the limits prescribed for use of this form. The income of each is shown separately. If a joint return of this kind is filed, the collector will figure the tax jointly or separately and will use the smaller amount as the tax liability.

Form 1040, which may be used by all taxpayers and must be used by those not eligible to use form W-2, has been rearranged. The number of taxpayers now permitted to use the optional tax table printed on page 2 of form 1040 has been greatly increased by raising the limit from not more than $3,000 to just under $5,000 and by making it available for all income items no matter from what sources derived. The tax shown in the table is based on the number of exemptions claimed.

[Saturday's article will discuss the kinds of income to be reported.]

STORAGE MEAT SUPPLIES FALL TO RECORD LOW

Cold storage holdings of meat were the smallest for Feb. 1 since reports were begun in 1916, the department of agriculture reported yesterday. Total stocks were 615,697,000 pounds compared with more than 1 billion a year ago. It said the short supply is expected to decrease this summer.

Beef stocks, altho largest since November, were the second smallest for February in four years and pork supplies were the smallest of record for the date altho the largest since September.

Beef holdings totaled 114,683,000 pounds, compared with 241,550,000 pounds a year ago. Pork stocks were 406,412,000 pounds, against 646,631,000 a year ago. Lamb and mutton stocks at 18,199,000 pounds were the smallest since November and the smallest for Feb. 1 in three years. Lard stocks also declined.

WPB DRAFTING NEW PLANS FOR RECONVERSION

Krug to Announce Program Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Chairman Krug of the war production board said today he will make public soon a revised overall plan for the reconversion of industry to civilian production after Germany is defeated. He told a news conference that reductions in military production will not be as large as under the reconversion program worked out last fall and later abandoned.

The office of War Mobilization Director Byrnes disclosed that it had ordered preparation of such a plan and had instructed the WPB to make constant revisions to be ready for any situation. Reconversion programs are being completed by several federal agencies to provide for resumption of civilian goods manufacture "consistent with a one front war," Byrnes' office said.

Won't Discuss Details.

It was learned that the plans are based upon the presumption that Germany will be defeated first, but that alternate programs have been drawn up based upon the surrender of Japan before the war in Europe ends.

Krug would not discuss details of the WPB reconversion program, asserting that the job had not been as easy as expected. Informed WPB sources said, however, that it provides for advance notice to management and labor of military contract reductions and terminations.

Another provision decentralizes the reconversion and gives local area committees a major voice in determining which plants will return first to civilian manufacturing, it was disclosed.

Keeps in Touch with Byrnes.

Krug said no deadline has been set for the completion of the program, but indicated that only a few details remain to be worked out. He said that he had been in "constant touch" with Byrnes on the reconversion problem. The new plan will supersede all previous WPB reconversion programs.

WPB officials emphasized that development of the program does not mean an early end to the war is expected. Plans are being completed to avoid delay in reconversion when either the Germans or Japanese do surrender, they explained.

Krug said that because of man power, fuel and transportation shortages the steel supply will be critical in the second quarter of this year. Demands total 17,475,000 tons against an estimated maximum supply of 14,400,000 tons. All programs, including military, civilian and export, must be reduced to fit available steel supplies, Krug said, but added that he hoped it will not be necessary to decrease urgent military production.

BUTTER SUBSIDY SHIFT ORDERED AS OUTPUT AID

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—A shift in rates effective April 1 under the government's 500 million dollar dairy production subsidy designed to encourage larger butter output was announced today by the war food administration.

Despite record milk marketing, butter production has dropped lowest in years. Government price ceilings and subsidy payments heretofore have encouraged the diversion of milk into fluid markets, evaporated milk, dried milk and other dairy products other than butter.

Producer subsidy rates on whole milk, ranging from 60 to 90 cents a hundred pounds, will be reduced 35 cents on April 1, but the butter fat rate will continue unchanged at 10 cents a pound. On Oct. 1, the butter fat rate will be increased to 16 cents a pound. On July 1 the whole milk rates will be increased 10 cents and on Oct. 1 an additional 25 cents to bring them back to present levels.

OPA SETS NEW PRICE LIMITS ON DRY BATTERIES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—OPA today fixed specific ceiling prices for wholesale and retail sales of dry batteries, based on those prevailing in March, 1942, and intended to provide closer control over dry battery prices. Ceilings had been the individual seller's highest prices in March, 1942, but OPA said it was difficult for buyers to remember what they had paid that long ago.

Two sizes of flashlight batteries—regular and baby—will cost a maximum of 10 cents each at retail; hearing aid batteries, 10 cents to $1.25; radio batteries, $2.19 and $6.25.

Resume Communication with Freed Baltic Nations

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 (AP).—Finland, Poland, and "other Baltic areas" no longer under German domination will not be considered "enemy territory," effective Friday. the treasury department announced today. It lifted its ban on commercial and business communications with those areas, and postal service is resumed. "Other Baltic areas" obviously refer to Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, which Russia intends to keep. Treasury officials declined to elaborate on United States policy toward the Baltic states.

SWIFT REBOUND AT FINISH LIFTS STOCKS TO PEAK

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—Rails led the stock market in a swift last hour recovery today after profit cashing caused irregularity in the forenoon, and the over-all average set another high mark for the last 7½ years.

Large idle investment funds, inflation psychology, and earnings and dividend optimism were the principal stimulants to the comeback. The prospect of long war spending despite the "Big Three" conference results helped revive bullish enthusiasm.

Accounts were lightened in the morning by traders who believed a technical "correction" was likely. Selling was light, however, and soon ran into strong bids for carriers and a wide assortment of industrials. Gains of fractions to about 3 points were widely distributed at the close as dealings expanded substantially.

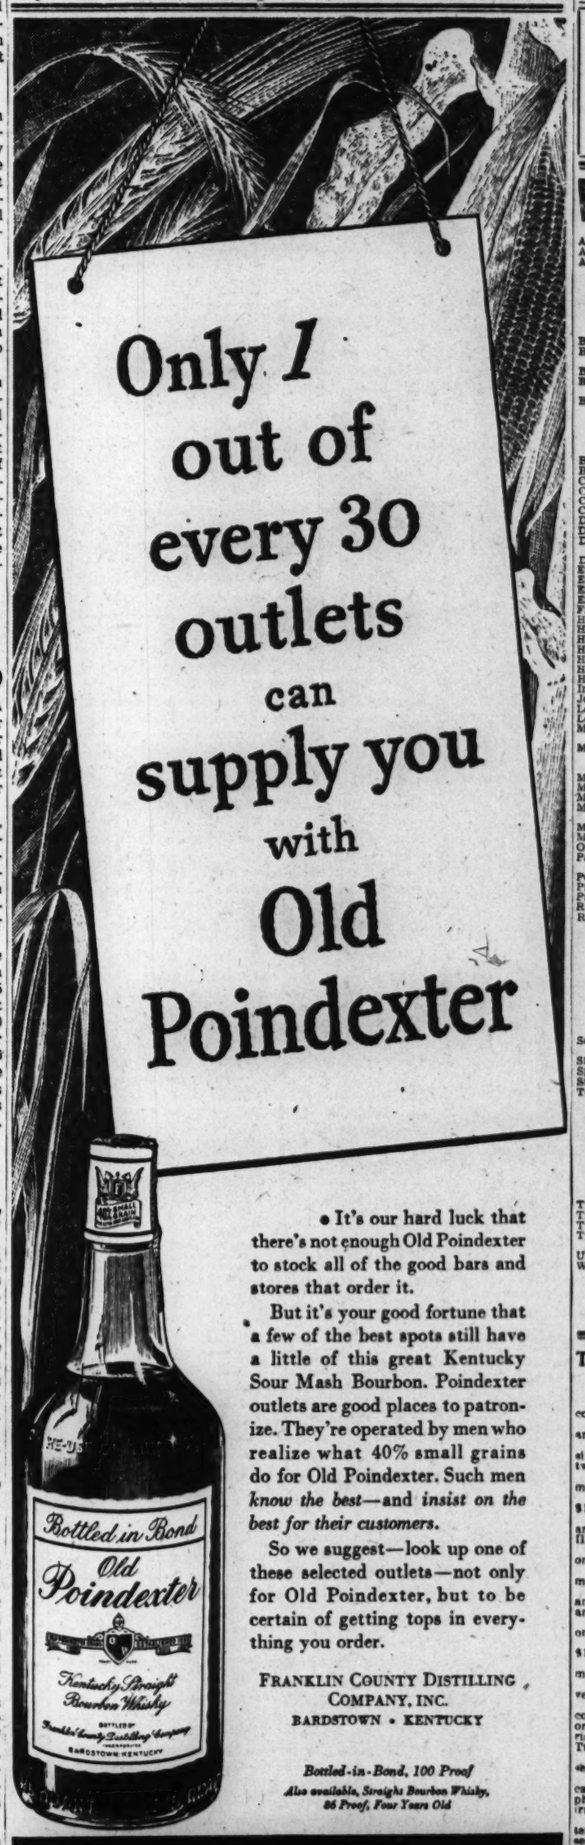

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.7 to 61.4, a peak since Sept. 4, 1937. The market was one of the broadest since 1940, with 1,006 individual issues traded, with 200 declines. Transfers totaled approximately 1,870,000 shares.

BONDS TURN IRREGULAR.

New York, Feb. 15 (AP).—Individual favorites were backed heavily in today's bond market, but profit taking and switching from one group to another caused irregularity. Rails, by far the most active, had both the widest losses and the largest gains, and advanced on the average.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Prices again were higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Admiral corporation, up 1¼ to a 1944-'45 peak of 13¼; Advance Aluminum, up ½ to a new high of 9¼; New York Central, up ⅜, and Chicago corporation common, unchanged.

Bretton Woods Plan, 6 Billion Pledge Put Before Congress

Washington, D. C., Feb 15 (AP).—American participation in the Bretton Woods international finance program was put up to congress today with an assertion from Rep. Spence [D., Ky.] that it would "assure the economic side of world peace."

Spence, chairman of the house banking committee and a delegate to the New Hampshire resort meeting where the plan was made last summer by representatives of 44 nations, sponsored the legislation in the house. The measure authorizes, without actual appropriation, a 5 billion 925 million dollar commitment of United States funds to back an international monetary stabilization fund and a world bank for reconstruction and development.

Termed Necessary Corollary.

It is the necessary corollary, Spence said, to the political peace plan of Dumbarton Oaks and the "military peace being carved out with high explosives and projectiles at the cost of millions of human lives."

Senate sponsors were Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.] and Tobey [R., N. H.], ranking Republican, of the senate banking committee, both Bretton Woods delegates

Wagner told the senate that exchange control by the monetary fund "will outlaw all the aggressive and discriminatory monetary policies that have plagued the world in the past."

The legislation, in brief, would provide:

1. Obligation of 2 billion 750 million for the 8 billion 800 million dollar monetary fund and 3 billion 175 million for the 9 billion 100 million capital of the bank. Sponsors argued only a part, possibly less than half, of these funds ever would be actually used.

Use Stabilization Fund.

2. Transfer of 1 billion 800 million to the monetary fund from the exchange stabilization fund in operation since 1934 as this nation's own means of helping foreign countries get dollars for foreign trade.

3. Permanent status, for operations in line with those of the new fund, for the American exchange fund, which would be left with 280 million.

4. Authorization for the treasury to sell government securities and furnish the 4 billion 125 million remainder of commitments as needed.

5. Issuance of special noninterest bearing notes to represent contributions above current operating funds, until the actual dollars are needed. The dollar must be valued for fund quotas, at its present price of 15 5-21 grains of gold 9-10ths fine.

Would Nullify Johnson Act.

6. Only one-tenth of each nation's share in the bank treasury need be put up at once, with another tenth subject to call and the remainder in reserve to meet losses. The bank would make and guarantee loans for development work.

The Johnson act, prohibiting private United States loans to nations in default of their debts to this country, would be nullified toward nations joining in the fund and bank.

Headquarters of both bank and fund presumably would be in the United States.
